Acheson Gets Unanimous Approval of Senate Unit

Action Follows His Denunciation of Communism; Quick Confirmation Seen

By Ferdinand Kuhn, jr.
Post Reporter

After hearing Dean Acheson denounce communism as an evil and a danger, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted unanimously yesterday to approve his appointment as Secretary of State.

Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.) said he would seek quick Senate confirmation, probably next Tuesday. All signs indicated an overwhelming vote for Acheson on the Senate floor.

Two Sentences Made Public

The committee questioned him yesterday behind closed doors on his friendship with the Hiss brothers, his views on relations with Russia and other policy matters which Connally described to reporters as "intimate and delicate." Only two sentences of his testimony were made public, as follows:

"It is my view that communism as a doctrine is economically fatal to a free society and to human rights and fundamental freedoms.

"Communism as an aggressive factor in world conquest is fatal to independent governments and free peoples."

He was asked, according to one member, whether he would still regard Alger Hiss as a "friend" if the New York court convicted Hiss of perjury. Acheson was said to have answered that a conviction would end the friendship on his part.

No Open Dissension

Members of the committee said there was no dissension about approving him, although some of the Republican members seemed far from enthusiastic in their questioning of Acheson at Thursday's public hearing.

The 13-0 vote showed that Acheson had won the votes of Senators Alexander Wiley (R., Wisc.) and Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), who had asked him somewhat critical questions on Thursday.

One or two Republican Senators not on the committee conceded that any fight against Acheson was hopeless.

Senator George W. Malone (R., Nev.) said he would vote against confirmation; Senator Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) indicated he would like to, but added:

"I don't see any chance of beating him. I haven't seen any documentary evidence against him."

Judge Thwarts Ex-Felon's Plan By Disappearing

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 15 (U.P.).—A Federal judge on the "death list" of a vengeance-mad former convict, dropped from sight today and may be secluding himself for his own safety.

There seemed little doubt Roy Frank Godbey, 53, recently released bank robber, was out to make good on a courtroom threat to kill everyone involved in his conviction—judge, witnesses, and prosecutor.

He had been identified as the murderer of Earl Pruet, a wealthy attorney, in his offices here Tuesday. Pruet as prosecuting attorney in 1932 obtained conviction of Godbey as a holdup man.

Judge Eugene Rice, then a State judge, sentenced Godbey to 35 years.

Both Keleher Divorce Suits Thrown Out

Husband, Ordered To Pay $100 Weekly, Can File New Action

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

The suit of Mrs. Anna T. Keleher, 50, for a limited divorce from her once-convicted gambler husband was thrown out of District Court yesterday.

In dismissing the case, Judge Edward A. Tamm decided that the black-haired Mrs. Keleher failed to prove her estranged 67-year-old husband was cruel to her in the eyes of the law.

Because the marriage is still legally extant, the judge ordered the husband, John B. Keleher, to pay the woman $100 a week maintenance.

At the same time, at the request of Keleher's attorney, Judge Tamm dismissed Keleher's counter suit for a limited divorce for cruelty.

Can File New Action

The action opens the way for Keleher to follow his announced plan to file for an absolute divorce for alleged desertion.

One of the major difficulties in the case, Judge Tamm commented, was that neither side was being frank with the court.

In deciding the case, the judge said that infidelity may not be legal cruelty, even where part of it is "having an affair with other women." This is true where there is no proof of adultery.

"It is an indignity to the wife, but it is not per se an act of cruelty without further circumstances," the judge ruled, after saying there was no bodily injury to the wife at any time.

He said it was difficult to determine the amount of support to which Mrs. Keleher was entitled.

Admits Taking $33,000

The evidence pointed out that in 1946, when the couple split up, Mrs. Keleher admittedly took $33,000 from safe deposit boxes she held jointly with her husband. Keleher contended she took $80,000.

Furthermore, said the judge, Mrs. Keleher said that she was

Inauguration Invitations Are Problem

Many Believe That Mere Souvenirs Are Admittance Tickets

Receipt of "thousands" of formal invitations to inaugural ceremonies next week by persons over the Nation, many of whom are unaware that tickets must be purchased for major events, has created a serious problem for the 1949 Inaugural Committee.

This was disclosed yesterday, after it was announced all reserved seats—about 5300—for the Gala January 19 have been sold. All parade grandstand seats—44,000 in number—were sold out three days ago.

Inaugural Committee officials said a "great many" recipients of the formal invitation "to attend and participate in" ceremonies for President Truman did not understand they must make ticket reservations for inaugural events.

As a result, it is feared many "invited" guests will appear in Washington from faraway States expecting to be admitted to ceremonies simply on the basis of "souvenir type" invitations suitable for framing.

Follow-up Letters Sent

Melvin D. Hildreth, chairman of the Inaugural Committee, acknowledged the misunderstanding is "unfortunate," but said follow-up letters are being sent to persons who have indicated they expect to attend various functions purely on the basis of the formal invitation.

He said the committee followed precedent established in other inaugurations.

Hildreth said the letters, some 100 of which have been sent, explained that the invitation does not entitle bearer to reserved seats at such events as the Inauguration itself, the parade, the Gala and the President's Ball.

The chairman said he explained to recipients the formal invitation was a "recognition of civic achievement and an honor extended because of their position."

He estimated 10,000 of the formal invitations had been sent to distinguished personages.

Hildreth said he felt the wording

Suit Attacks AT&T as Monopolistic

By John B. Owen
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Government sued yesterday to force the gigantic American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to abandon its billion-dollar equipment-making business. Attorney General Tom Clark said this could lower telephone rates throughout the country.

The suit demanded that A. T. & T. and its manufacturing subsidiary, the huge Western Electric Co., be divorced. It asked that Western Electric be split into three competing companies. A. T. & T. then would have to go into the market for its equipment.

Filed by the Justice Department, the suit charged the firms with a "conspiracy to monopolize" the Nation's telephone business. It said lack of competition keeps telephone equipment costs higher.

In addition, the department charged, efficient improvements have been withheld from general use to save on replacements; that the present hand telephone set did not become standard Bell equipment for 17 years after it was developed.

The suit, a civil antitrust complaint, was filed in Federal District Court at Newark, N. J.

A. T. & T. replied that the public and telephone users "would suffer most" from the changes demanded. A statement was issued in New York by President Leroy A. Wilson.

"I am sure," he said, "that when all the facts are known, the existing arrangement will be found in the public interest."

Western Electric has made the Bell System's telephone equipment since 1881, and the telephone users have benefited the most, Wilson said. He contended that general use of "high quality" Western Electric equipment in the Bell System means faster calls, more de-

Dutch Pledge Free Election For Indonesia

Delegate Tells U. N. No Troop Withdrawal Order Is Acceptable

Lake Success, N. Y., Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The Netherlands told the United Nations Security Council today that it intends to hold "free and general" Indonesian elections by the end of this year and to transfer sovereignty to a dominion-type United States of Indonesia by the end of 1950.

An authoritative source revealed, meanwhile, that the United States had prepared a tentative proposal containing a timetable along the lines proposed by the Dutch.

The American-sponsored plan also was understood to provide for United Nations supervision of progressive Dutch troop withdrawal from Indonesian territory.

However, Dutch Dedegate J. H. van Royan told the Council the Netherlands would not "acquiesce" to a United Nations order to evacuate its troops and that any United Nations attempt to impose a timetable on Holland would be "unacceptable."

The Dutch announced plans to create an "interim" United States of Indonesia within a month. The American proposal, the source disclosed, sets March 15 as the deadline for an interim regime.

Van Royen sharply attacked the United States, Russia and other critics of Dutch policy in Indonesia. The Council adjourned until 3 p. m. (EST) Monday without any action.

Cuban Delegate Alberto Alvarez informally put forward still a third program, the only one that came close to meeting Indonesian demands. Alvarez asked that Dutch troops be ordered to pull back lines held before their recent offensive except in areas where U. N. representatives decided they were needed to maintain law and order.

Denunciations Made Easier By Complaint Box in Bulgaria

By Gaston Coblentz

Trieste, Jan. 14 (NYHT).—Complaint boxes, to enable one Bulgarian to denounce another, anonymously, have been installed in the streets of Sofia. The scope of denunciations which may be made was set forth in a decree by the Sofia Fatherland Front Committee.

The following are among the purposes of the denunciation system:

1. "To control the personal life (unnatural expenses, corruption, dissolute conduct) of all citizens . . ."

2. "To organize vigilance in regard to abuses in public and private restaurants, canteens and workshops."

3. "To control the behavior and promptness of administrative personnel . . ."

4. "To control the personal hygiene of salesmen, waiters and leading personnel in all stores, restaurants, baking shops, candy shops and pubs."

5. "To control the conduct of salesmen, waiters and leading personnel toward the clients."

"When an anonymous letter is sent to a commission directly or through the complaint boxes," the decree said, "proceedings are taken on it after a preliminary check up on its fidelity."

This reporter looked through the drop slot of several of the boxes. Some of the denunciations were enclosed in envelopes but most of them were pencilled on scraps of paper.

London, Jan. 14 (AP).—The United States force of 90 B-29 bombers training in Britain since last summer will soon be reduced temporarily to 60. A United States Air Force spokesman said today the 30 superfortresses of the 301st Bomb Group will start returning to Salina, Kans., January 17.

150 Attend Hearing

Better Housing Is in Store, Planners Tell Slum Residents

Washington city planners yesterday held out a promise of better housing instead of slums to residents of Marshall Heights.

The planners, at a District Building hearing, assured residents they will not suffer as a result of land redevelopment in the area which they called the "most pressing and appropriate area" for action under the District Redevelopment Act of 1946.

Fears of residents of this and similar Negro housing areas that they might be "redeveloped" out of homes prompted the last Congress to flash a red light on the program and withhold construction funds. The charge was made to Congress that the program was also aimed at restricting Negroes to "ghetto" housing.

The hearing was attended by approximately 150 affected residents, the District Commissioners and members of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d, taking the lead in defending the redevelopment plan, said the work will be done in progressive stages to permit residents to move into new buildings as existing ones are demolished.

"All home owners will be given priority for new homesites and new dwellings," he said. "Con-

Red Troops Reported In Tientsin

Surrender Said To Be in Making; Artillery Blasts Peril Americans

From Press Dispatches

Shanghai (Saturday), Jan. 15.—Reports reaching here today said Chinese Communists have occupied Tientsin and its surrender today was believed in the making.

The Nationalist Radio was heard appealing to Communist Gen. Lin Piao for a cease fire at both Tientsin and its port, Tangku. The government garrison offered to send a three-man peace delegation to deal with the conquerers.

A radio from the U. S. Consulate General in Tientsin, Robert Smyth, to the consulate in Shanghai said the Communists drove across the city of three million into the former British and French concessions.

Smyth radioed at 10:46 a. m. (9:46 p. m. EST Friday) that "five or six Communist soldiers are now passing the consul office firing rifles in the air." A few minutes earlier he radioed that "the United States Information Service reports troops in front of its office. Communists are shouting to Nationalist soldiers who sought refuge in the buildings to throw their arms into the streets." The information office is four blocks from the consulate.

United Press sources reported much of the city was in flames as the Red artillery kept up the assault.

Fourteen Americans, including a Washington woman, were barricaded in the shell-damaged United States consulate at Tientsin, endangered by the fighting and by a raging fire in a nearby Shell oil installation. Vice-Consul Sam L. Yates and a Chinese girl employe were slightly injured by a shell which hit the information office at 11 a. m. yesterday.

The consulate itself was not hit directly, but a shell which hit a

Judge Convicted In Evasion of U. S. Income Tax

Joplin, Mo., Jan. 14 (U.P.).—A veteran circuit judge wept audibly today in his role of defendant when found guilty on one count of a six-count indictment for income tax evasion.

Circuit Judge Emory E. Smith, 58, of Monett, Mo., sobbed as the jury's verdict was read in Federal District Court here.

Sentencing was deferred by District Judge Albert A. Ridge until January 29 at Kansas City on request of Smith's lawyers, who said he suffered from a kidney ailment.

Keenan Decision To Quit Accepted

President Truman yesterday accepted the resignation of Joseph B. Keenan, United States member of the United Nations Palestine Conciliation Commission. Illness of Keenan's wife was partly responsible for his decision to leave.

Keenan, who prosecuted the Japanese war criminals at Tokyo, told Mr. Truman that "conditions have arisen pertaining to personal affairs" which made it impossible for him to go to Europe for the commission's meetings.

Keenan was to have served on the American-Turkish-French Commission for Palestine which was established by the U. N. General Assembly on December 11. He was sworn in on January 4.

Taxes May Cut Truman's Pay Raise to $9000

By The Associated Press

President Truman might not get any more than about $9000 extra if his pay is hiked from $75,000 to $100,000.

Federal taxes would take the rest of the $25,000 salary boost—and maybe more if Congress increases taxes on upper income brackets as Mr. Truman has proposed.

On top of that, Mr. Truman has to pay Missouri State taxes.

The $9000 figure was cited recently by Representative Multer (D., N. Y.) who had favored giving Mr. Truman a tax-free salary of $75,000. Multer calculated that the $25,000 pay raise after taxes would boost the President's net income only $9000 to $52,300.

Former President Herbert Hoover has said that taxes take about $45,000 out of Mr. Truman's current $75,000 salary, leaving him $30,000.

The pay raise bill also would give the President a tax-free expense fund of $50,000. That would be in addition to $40,000 a year he gets now for travel and maintenance.

Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) predicted after a party conference yesterday that the House will pass the pay raise bill on Monday. But he said there is more opposition than he expected to boosting Mr. Truman's tax-free expense account from $40,000 to $90,000.

Israel, Egypt Curb Troops During Talks

Negotiators Take Their First Definite Step Toward Peace

Rhodes, Jan. 14 (AP).—Jews and Egyptians took their first definite step toward peace today by agreeing to keep their military forces in check while negotiations for an armistice are on.

At their second formal session lasting 15 minutes the delegates approved a pledge to start no new military offensives and to respect each others national security while the armistice conference is in progress.

A cease-fire ordered by the U. N. Security Council is now in effect in the Negev where Jewish and Egyptian forces face each other.

The point on no military offensives was No. 1 in an agenda which the representatives of Israel and Egypt had agreed to discuss.

The second point is implementation of the U. N. Security Council resolutions of November 4 and November 16 calling for a withdrawal of forces to positions held October 14 and negotiation of an armistice. Subpoints include the question of the Faluja pocket where an Egyptian brigade of about 3000 men has been under siege since mid-October, delineation of armistice lines, and reduction of forces.

The next two points include the drafting of an armistice agreement, and the initialing of an agreement.

One member of the staff of Mediator Dr. Ralph Bunch said he believed the entire conference would be finished by next week.

The Jews have come with full powers to sign an armistice.

The Egyptians, however, have power only to initial an agreement which would have to be submitted back to the Cairo government before it is signed.

2 Bills Seek Tightened Espionage Statutes

Attorney General Would Eliminate 3-Year Limitation On Prosecutions

By The Associated Press

Attorney General Clark last night formally proposed a broad-scale tightening of the espionage laws and asked that wire-tapping be legalized "in the interest of national security."

Clark said he had sent a bill embodying his proposals to Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D., Texas), and Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

High among his recommendations was a plan for eliminating the statute of limitations so far as espionage cases are concerned.

The bill sent to Capitol Hill would provide that a person accused of violating these statutes might be indicted at any time after the offense.

As the law now stands, the indictment must be returned within three years, if the offense occurred in peacetime.

To Cover "Passing"

Clark also asked that the laws be changed to cover the passing on of information relating to the national defense "which could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation."

The present law simply covers the dissemination of information "with intent or reason to believe it is to be used to the injury of the United States."

Other proposals include a ban upon unauthorized possession of security information, and provision for a $10,000 fine or 10 years imprisonment or both for any failure to report theft, loss, abstraction, or destruction of national defense material.

The Attorney General's proposed bill would authorize the FBI, the Army, Air Force and Navy Intelligence to use wire-tapping in investigations affecting the national security, "under regulations prescribed by the Attorney General."

It would further permit the use of evidence thus obtained in any court proceeding in which the Government is a party. Unauthorized use of wire-tapped material would be punished by $10,000 fine and two years' imprisonment.

The law now prohibits the use

'Face Lifting' For Spy Probe Unit Reported

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A face-lifting operation on the House Committee on Un-American Activities, designed to fill two and possibly three Democratic vacancies with lawyer-members, some of them highly placed in party councils, last night was reported under way.

Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee, working closely with the House majority leadership, are scheduled to finish the surgery today, and report the assignments Monday.

The first addition to the group is expected to be Representative Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), chairman of the House Democratic caucus and a ranking member of the House Judiciary Committee. Elected to the first Roosevelt Congress in 1932, Walter before that was solicitor for Northampton County, Pa.

The Pennsylvanian is something of an authority on legal codes, having helped write the Administrative Procedures Act. A close friend of Speaker Sam Rayburn, he is also chairman of the House Democratic patronage committee.

To fill other vacancies on the controversial group the committeemakers are reportedly seeking men not only well grounded in the law but preferably with experience on

Remington-Rand Is Moving Plants Abroad, Union Asserts

By The Associated Press

Russ Nixon, legislative representative of the CIO United Electrical Workers, said yesterday the union is trying to get Government officials to block transfer of Remington Rand Typewriter Co. plants to Scotland.

Nixon told reporters the company already is moving to Hillington, Scotland, its typewriter manufacturing facilities at Syracuse and Ilion, N. Y., Bridgeport, Conn., and Youngstown, Ohio.

So far Remington Rand has given no reason for the move, Nixon said, but he presumed it was to obtain lower manufacturing costs.

Nixon said the union has discussed the situation with Senator Ives (R., N. Y.) and intends to take up the matter with the Commerce Department.

Other union officials said that the Underwood Typewriter Co. already has established a plant in Italy and is sending products to the United States.

Nixon said the Easy Washing Machine Co. has reduced its working force at Syracuse, N. Y., because of transfer of some of the manufacturing facilities to South Africa.

Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson Comes From Family Notable for Court Officials

Richmond, Va., Jan. 14 (AP).—Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson of the Eastern District of Virginia is a quiet, even-voiced jurist who comes from a family notable for the number of attorneys and court officials it has produced.

JUDGE STERLING HUTCHESON

He is the son of Herbert F. Hutcheson, clerk of the Mecklenburg County Circuit Court and a prominent political leader. A cousin, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, was appointed judge of the Fifth United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Houston, Tex.

Another cousin was the late Judge Robert Hutcheson of Charlotte County Circuit Court. In addition he shares common ancestry with Judge Armistead Doble of the Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals and Judge Colin Neblett of the Federal District Court at Santa Fe, N. Mex.

[Judge Hutcheson, who sits in Richmond, has been in the news recently in connection with Virginia's school discrimination cases.

[Last June he issued an injunction ordering the King George County and Gloucester County school boards to equalize their Negro and white schools.

[Thursday he ruled the Gloucester County school board and its division superintendent, J. Walter Kennedy, in contempt of court for failure to abide by the injunction order.—Editor.]

Judge Hutcheson's entire background is closely connected with the law. He was born near Baskerville in Mecklenburg County on July 23, 1894, an area in the State which long has had a predominant Negro population.

As a boy he spent much of his time in the county clerk's office after his father had taken that job and moved to Boydton in the same county. He attended the county public schools and the College of William and Mary from 1912-1914 and afterward served under his father as deputy clerk of Mecklenburg County.

Five years later, in 1919, he took a special course in law at the University of Virginia, and in August of that year was admitted to the bar. He began practicing in Boydton the following January.

In 1933 he was recommended by Senator Harry F. Byrd and the late Carter Glass for appointment as United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia.

On January 19, 1944, he was nominated by the President to be Federal District Judge of the Eastern District of Virginia to succeed the late Luther B. Way. The appointment was confirmed in February of the same year.

In 1947 he became senior judge of the Eastern District.

Judge Hutcheson is a former member of the board of visitors of the College of William and Mary, a member of Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity, a Mason, and a vestryman of St. James Episcopal Church, Boydton.

Gloucester To Equalize County Schools

Gloucester, Va., Jan. 14 (AP).—Gloucester County's school board, cited for contempt by a Federal Court judge, will "take every possible step toward equalization" of the county's white and Negro schools, a spokesman said today.

But Stanley T. Gray, board chairman, added: "It is a known fact that there is nothing in our power that would enable us to actually equalize them by April."

Gray, two other members of the board and Division School Supt. J. Walter Kenney were held by Judge Sterling Hutcheson in Federal District Court at Richmond yesterday in contempt of court for failure to abide by his order against discrimination in the Gloucester schools.

Judge Hutcheson deferred imposition of penalties until April. He said he would take into consideration any further steps toward equalization made in the interim.

A Federal judge's power to punish for contempt is limited only by his own discretion.

Gray, asked today what action the board contemplated between now and April, said the board will "continue its efforts" to equalize the schools.

An architect has been employed, Gray said, and is preparing plans for new school buildings for both white and Negro school children. Rough sketches have been furnished the board, he added, but no specific plan has been adopted by the school board as yet.

As for actual school construction, Gray said the board can take no action until the necessary funds are provided and these funds, he said, "could be made available only through a bond issue."

Asked what amount of money would be needed for the new construction, Gray said he was unable to say at this date.

"Petitions will continue to be circulated," he said, "in hopes of increasing the present 400 signatures to 800, the number required in order that the board may request the judge of the Circuit Court to call for an election on the issue."

Kenney and L. Frank Phillips, chairman of the Gloucester Board of Supervisors, were not available for comment, nor was George P. Dehardit, Gloucester attorney and counsel for the school board.

Dehardit's associate counsel, Charles E. Ford of Newport News, however, said the Negro attorneys in the case "have failed" to break down Virginia's segregation laws, if such was their intention.

Ford declared the Gloucester School Board members said "they will continue, as they have in the past, under great handicaps and personal sacrifice, to labor for the school children of Gloucester, white and colored, to the limit of their ability with the means lawfully afforded them."

In Richmond, Oliver W. Hill, counsel for the Negro plaintiffs in the case, said the "injection of the segregation issue in the case has been a red herring that Mr. Ford has attempted to bring forth."

Hill said it was the plaintiffs' purpose to "eliminate discrimination in the provisions for educational opportunities for all children." The question of whether Virginia's segregation law violates the Federal Constitution, he added, "was not an issue in the case."

N. C. Governor Would Treat Negroes Fairly

Winston-Salem, N. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—Newly inaugurated Gov. W. Kerr Scott said today it is time North Carolina stops dodging the Negro question.

"I'm going to follow through to see that the minority race has a fair opportunity and gets the training" to fit it into the State's growth, he added.

He spoke at a meeting of the North Carolina Dairy Products Association.

"I'm firmly convinced," Governor Scott continued, "that we've got to go ahead and meet the issue of the minority race. They came here against their will, brought in chains. One of the Ten Commandments says that the sins of fathers shall be visited upon their sons even to the third or fourth generation.

Alabama Starts Plan To Aid Negro Schools

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 14 (AP).—Alabama embarked on a new program to provide better schooling for its Negroes today, and a prominent white educator promptly challenged other Southern States to do the same.

A committee appointed by Gov. James E. Folsom started work on a survey to find out what the State should do to meet its "moral as well as legal obligations."

Sounding the keynote was Dr. John Ivey of Atlanta, director of the Regional Council on Education set up by the Southern Governors Conference. He told the committee that Southerners have been "derelict" in Negro education.

Human Urine Unit Checks Cancer Cells

By Frank Carey

Discovery of a human urine substance that slows the growth of rabbit cancer cells in a test tube and alleviates anemia in rats was reported yesterday.

Biochemists Earl R. Norris and John J. Majnarich of the University of Washington, Seattle, who made the report, offered no statement as to whether the discovery had implications for the attack on human cancer and anemia.

They described their finding in Science, weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

They have tentatively named the substance "vitamin B-14" although they said its origin and function is probably more that of a "hormone" than a vitamin. (A hormone is a kind of chemical messenger—a substance that is formed in one part of the body, but stimulates activity in another part. A vitamin is a nutrition substance.)

The material, isolated from urine, is a brownish crystalline substance. The researchers have identified nitrogen and phosphorus as two of its constituents.

They first found that the substance greatly speeded the production of beef bone marrow cells in a test tube. (The bone marrow is the manufacturing site of blood in man and animals.)

In this activity, the new substance acted similarly to "xanthopterin"—a pigment obtained from the wings of a certain butterfly—but was five million times more effective than xanthopterin in increasing the rate of bone marrow cell production.

Like xathopterin, the new substance had an opposite effect when added to cells of rabbit cancer in a test tube. Instead of increasing the rate of cell production—as it had in the case of bone marrow—it reduced the rate of cancer cell growth by as much as 85 per cent.

In this role, the researchers said, the new substance is 10 million times more effective than xanthopterin.

Finally, the experimenters produced anemia in rats by giving them sulfathiazole. They found that a single injection of a tiny amount of vitamin B-14 was as effective in alleviating the anemia as was the injection of a much larger amount of xanthopterin.

PEOPLE In The NEWS

Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson Comes From Family Notable for Court Officials

Richmond, Va., Jan. 14 (AP).—Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson of the Eastern District of Virginia is a quiet, even-voiced jurist who comes from a family notable for the number of attorneys and court officials it has produced.

JUDGE STERLING HUTCHESON

He is the son of Herbert F. Hutcheson, clerk of the Mecklenburg County Circuit Court and a prominent political leader. A cousin, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, was appointed judge of the Fifth United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Houston, Tex.

Another cousin was the late Judge Robert Hutcheson of Charlotte County Circuit Court. In addition he shares common ancestry with Judge Armistead Dobie of the Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals and Judge Colin Neblett of the Federal District Court at Santa Fe, N. Mex.

[Judge Hutcheson, who sits in Richmond, has been in the news recently in connection with Virginia's school discrimination cases.

[Last June he issued an injunction ordering the King George County and Gloucester County school boards to equalize their Negro and white schools.

[Thursday he ruled the Gloucester County school board and its division superintendent, J. Walter Kennedy, in contempt of court for failure to abide by the injunction order.—Editor.]

Judge Hutcheson's entire background is closely connected with the law. He was born near Baskerville in Mecklenburg County on July 23, 1894, an area in the State which long has had a predominant Negro population.

As a boy he spent much of his time in the county clerk's office after his father had taken that job and moved to Boydton in the same county. He attended the county public schools and the College of William and Mary from 1912-1914 and afterward served under his father as deputy clerk of Mecklenburg County.

Five years later, in 1919, he took a special course in law at the University of Virginia, and in August of that year was admitted to the bar. He began practicing in Boydton the following January.

In 1933 he was recommended by Senator Harry F. Byrd and the late Carter Glass for appointment as United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia.

On January 19, 1944, he was nominated by the President to be Federal District Judge of the Eastern District of Virginia to succeed the late Luther B. Way. The appointment was confirmed in February of the same year.

In 1947 he became senior judge of the Eastern District

Judge Hutcheson is a former member of the board of visitors of the College of William and Mary, a member of Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity, a Mason, and a vestryman of St. James Episcopal Church, Boydton.

Gloucester To Equalize County Schools

Gloucester, Va., Jan. 14 (AP).—Gloucester County's school board, cited for contempt by a Federal Court judge, will "take every possible step toward equalization" of the county's white and Negro schools, a spokesman said today.

But Stanley T. Gray, board chairman, added: "It is a known fact that there is nothing in our power that would enable us to actually equalize them by April."

Gray, two other members of the board and Division School Supt. J. Walter Kenney were held by Judge Sterling Hutcheson in Federal District Court at Richmond yesterday in contempt of court for failure to abide by his order against discrimination in the Gloucester schools.

Judge Hutcheson deferred imposition of penalties until April. He said he would take into consideration any further steps toward equalization made in the interim.

A Federal judge's power to punish for contempt is limited only by his own discretion.

Gray, asked today what action the board contemplated between now and April, said the board will "continue its efforts" to equalize the schools.

An architect has been employed, Gray said, and is preparing plans for new school buildings for both white and Negro school children. Rough sketches have been furnished the board, he added, but no specific plan has been adopted by the school board as yet.

As for actual school construction, Gray said the board can take no action until the necessary funds are provided and these funds, he said, "could be made available only through a bond issue."

Asked what amount of money would be needed for the new construction, Gray said he was unable to say at this date.

"Petitions will continue to be circulated," he said, "in hopes of increasing the present 400 signatures to 800, the number required in order that the board may request the judge of the Circuit Court to call for an election on the issue."

Kenney and L. Frank Phillips, chairman of the Gloucester Board of Supervisors, were not available for comment, nor was George P. Dehardit, Gloucester attorney and counsel for the school board.

Dehardit's associate counsel, Charles E. Ford of Newport News, however, said the Negro attorneys in the case "have failed" to break down Virginia's segregation laws, if such was their intention.

Ford declared the Gloucester School Board members said "they will continue, as they have in the past, under great handicaps and personal sacrifice, to labor for the school children of Gloucester, white and colored, to the limit of their ability with the means lawfully afforded them."

In Richmond, Oliver W. Hill, counsel for the Negro plaintiffs in the case, said the "injection of the segregation issue in the case has been a red herring that Mr. Ford has attempted to bring forth."

Hill said it was the plaintiffs' purpose to "eliminate discrimination in the provisions for educational opportunities for all children." The question of whether Virginia's segregation law violates the Federal Constitution, he added, "was not an issue in the case."

N. C. Governor Would Treat Negroes Fairly

Winston-Salem, N. C., Jan. 14 (AP).—Newly inaugurated Gov. W. Kerr Scott said today it is time North Carolina stops dodging the Negro question.

"I'm going to follow through to see that the minority race has a fair opportunity and gets the training" to fit it into the State's growth, he added.

He spoke at a meeting of the North Carolina Dairy Products Association.

"I'm firmly convinced," Governor Scott continued, "that we've got to go ahead and meet the issue of the minority race. They came here against their will, brought in chains. One of the Ten Commandments says that the sins of fathers shall be visited upon their sons even to the third or fourth generation.

Alabama Starts Plan To Aid Negro Schools

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 14 (AP).—Alabama embarked on a new program to provide better schooling for its Negroes today, and a prominent white educator promptly challenged other Southern States to do the same.

A committee appointed by Gov. James E. Folsom started work on a survey to find out what the State should do to meet its "moral as well as legal obligations."

Sounding the keynote was Dr. John Ivey of Atlanta, director of the Regional Council on Education set up by the Southern Governors Conference. He told the committee that Southerners have been "derelict" in Negro education.

U. S. to Arm Only Treaty Partners

Jumpmaster Safe

3 Airmen Die In Crash After 36 Bail Out

Ft. Bragg, N. C., Jan. 14 (U.P.). A C-82 "flying Boxcar," packed with paratroopers of the famed Eighty-second Airborne Division, went into a death dive today but 36 men bailed out before it crashed and killed its three-man crew.

A thirty-seventh survivor was Sergt. Robert Lee Hodgkiss, jumpmaster and last in line to bail out. His turn came too late but he came through unhurt when the plane crashed and burned.

Most of those who jumped did so at a perilously low altitude as the pilot, acting to save his human cargo, held the plane in a long glide after its engines failed.

The dead were: Capt. Robert L. Kilpatrick, pilot, Baytown, Tex.; T/Sergt. Thomas L. Hilton, jr., Greenville, S. C., and S/Sergt. Norman E. Harris, Tampa, Fla.

The United States will send arms only to "countries associated with us in collective defense arrangements," the State Department announced yesterday.

This was a partial clarification of American policy toward the North Atlantic treaty, now being negotiated, and toward the program of military help foreshadowed by President Truman in his budget message.

It was a hint to Sweden, for example, not to expect military help unless it links itself to the coming treaty, which it is unwilling to do, or makes some kind of separate agreement with the United States.

It also raised the possibility of separate defense agreements with Italy, Iceland and Ireland, whose defense is considered vital to American and Canadian security. Some of the seven countries now negotiating the Atlantic pact dislike the idea of Italian membership in it at this time.

As for Iceland and Ireland, they probably would prefer separate defense agreements to participation in the Atlantic treaty.

The announcement about the countries eligible for military help was made by Press Officer Michael J. McDermott in answer to a reporter's question.

"It is natural," he said, "that such supplies as may be available should go to countries associated with us in collective defense arrangements."

He named the countries as the Latin-American Republics, already eligible under the Rio defense treaty; the five western union countries of Europe and any others that may link themselves with the Atlantic treaty; and Greece, Turkey, Korea and China, where the United States already has "special commitments" approved by Congress.

Envoys of the western union countries—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—had another private meeting yesterday with Acting Secretary Robert A. Lovett and Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong, in the continuing discussions over an Atlantic pact.

In connection with North Atlantic security, the State Department announced yesterday that it did not expect European countries to disrupt their economic recovery for the sake of military defense.

Steel Shortage Reported Less Than Forecast

Secretary Sawyer said yesterday a Commerce Department survey indicates the prospective steel shortage this year will be "substantially less" than forecast by many estimators.

He told a news conference the survey indicates production will fall 5,300,000 tons short of meeting demands even if there is no increase in the military program beyond President Truman's current recommendations.

"There is not enough to go around, but the situation is easing somewhat," sawyer said at one point.

Congress Backing Seen

Sawyer said he believes Congress will approve the President's request that it authorize (1) an "immediate study of the adequacy of production facilities" for steel and other critically short materials, plus (2) these further steps "if found necessary:"

Government loans for expansion of private production facilities to relieve such shortages or direct Government construction of plants "if action by private industry fails to meet our needs."

Sawyer said attention should be given not only to shortages in steel but in nonferrous metals and "any area" in which critically supplies "seem to be holding back economic progress."

Legislature Can't Budge as 40 Refuse To Boston, Jan. 13 (U.P.).—The Massachusetts Legislature was tied in a legal knot today because 39 men and 1 woman made up their minds and can't be persuaded to change them.

There can't be any new laws, there can't be any money appropriated to run the State until the Senate elects a president. They've been trying to do that since January 5.

The Senate is evenly divided with 20 Republicans and 20 Democrats and not one will cross a party line. The Governor and courts are helpless because the State constitution specifically says they "shall never exercise" legislative powers.

It further states that the "Senate shall choose its own president, appoint its own officers, and determine its own rules of procedure."

So every time the Senate meets, some one moves that a vote be taken.

The Republican members write in their votes each time, but the Democrats long since have taken to using printed cards.

A committee counts the votes and reports: Twenty votes for Harris S. Richardson, Republican; 20 votes for Chester A. Dolan, jr., Democrat. Necessary to elect, 21 votes.

Welles Gaining Steadily, His Physician Reports

Former Undersecretary of State Sumner Wells is improving steadily from the heart attack he suffered while on a Christmas night stroll at his nearby Maryland estate, his physician said today.

His wife said the 55-year-old retired diplomat might be able to leave Casualty Hospital next month for convalescence at their Palm Beach, Fla., winter home.

Wells' physician, Dr. George R. Huffman, was somewhat more cautious. He said his patient is "improving steadily and is going to be all right, barring complications." Huffman said he had "no idea when he will be able to leave the hospital."

Mrs. Roosevelt Won't Placate Reds in U. N.

By The Associated Press

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said yesterday that "never again" will she accept a compromise in the United Nations merely to win Soviet support for a measure.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who is chairman of the United Nations Human Rights Commission, said in a talk at the State Department:

"I don't think I will ever compromise again even on words. The Soviets look on this as evidence of weakness rather than as a gesture of good will."

The widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt said she had learned during her U. N. work that it was necessary to meet Soviet attacks on the United States. She said it is American policy to admit mistakes, but she commented:

"I have yet to hear a Russian say everything is not perfect in the Soviet Union."

Addressing a group of Government officials and civilians interested in U. N. work on human rights, Mrs. Roosevelt said she has sent dozens of appeals to the Russian government urging release of GI brides from the U.S.S.R.

Except for one curt acknowledgement that one of her many letters had been received, she said, all of her appeals were ignored by the Soviets.

FBI Set Record For Fingerprint Analysis in 1948

During 1948 the FBI received and analyzed more fingerprints of persons arrested than in any previous year in its history, it was disclosed yesterday.

A total of 759,698 sets of fingerprints of arrested persons were received in 1948 as compared to 734,041 sets received in 1947. These represent 682,721 men, an increase of 3.7 per cent over 1947, and 76,977 women, an increase of 2.1 per cent over the previous year.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said more persons aged 21 were arrested and fingerprinted last year than in any other age group.

As the result of the new fingerprints on file (42 per cent. of those received last year were of persons never before arrested), the FBI chief said one of every 20 persons in the United States has been arrested and fingerprinted.

Parley Eases Anglo-French Differences

London, Jan. 14 (NYHT).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Robert Schuman, French Foreign Minister, finished today their two-day conference and announced important progress in narrowing the differences on several vital Anglo-French problems.

The British Foreign Office reported that the two statesmen exchanged views on "all the current international problems affecting the two governments."

Schuman later reported important progress on these problems:

Germany—He said there were now no more fundamental differences, although there still were questions of detail and timing.

Western European union—They agreed to support a new proposal for a council of ministers of western Europe, and a consultative assembly representing the parliaments of Europe.

Far East—Schuman said Bevin told him of "important new developments" in Indonesia. He said they considered the problem of Russian expansion in the area.

Palestine—Schuman indicated France would recognize Israel as soon as the Arab states agree to negotiate a definite settlement with it.

He also reported a narrowing of differences on the protected occupation statute for western Germany which will be discussed at a three-power meeting at London beginning next Monday.

Reported Leak On Fats and Oils Exports Probed

The Agriculture Department hunted for a "leak" last night as it announced an extra export allocation of food fats and oils for the current quarter.

It said that 109 million pounds of lard, cottonseed oil, soy beans, soy bean oil, and peanuts had been approved for overseas shipments in the January-March period. This is in addition to regular allocations previously announced.

Department officials meanwhile sought to track down the origin of reports which tipped off traders last week to the Government's plans. At that time word was circulated that the Government was preparing to grant supplementary export allocations of 107 million pounds of the fats and oils—just two million shy of the actual figure.

Woman Weds Negro After 4 Refuse Rite

Los Angeles, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—A 90-year-old woman confined to a wheelchair was married today to her Negro chauffeur, 28, by a Negro minister after three judges and a wedding chapel cleric refused.

The bride was Mrs. Adriana Eugenie Nicholson. Her husband is Allan Lee Gustard Woods, for eight years her chauffeur.

"This is a contract rather than a romance," Mrs. Nicholson said. "I want to be sure what little property I leave goes to this kind man.

Police Quell Caracas Student Political Riot

Caracas, Venezuela, Jan. 13 (AP). Police with drawn pistols patrolled the streets of Caracas yesterday after the first antigovernment political demonstration since the present military regime seized control November 24.

The demonstration, organized by university students, set off a street riot which was dispersed by police using tear gas.

Agree on Form

Five Powers Standardize Army Plans

Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 14 (AP).—Defense Ministers of the Brussels Alliance countries agreed today "upon the type of organization required in each of the five powers for the raising and training of national armed forces."

The agreement was announced by representatives of Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The five powers have been planning to standardize their military establishments.

The ministers also adopted recommendations on "questions of production and provision of supplies" and equipment for armed forces," the communique said.

Paul Ramadier of France said "the integration of the five-power alliance in the future Atlantic pact" was not discussed.

Turk Cabinet Topples Over Living Costs

Ankara, Turkey, Jan. 14 (AP).—Premier Hasan Saka's government fell today after he virtually was deserted by his own Republican People's Party in a dispute over mounting living costs.

There was speculation that Hilmi Uran, vice chairman of the People's Party and former Minister of Interior, might be asked to form a government.

Saka submitted his resignation to President Ismet Inonu this morning. The government collapsed after a heated debate in Parliament yesterday on Saka's legislive program.

Foreign policy was not an issue. Turkey has received arms and supplies costing $59,499,181 from the United States under the Truman doctrine.

The only criticism here toward the American aid program involves Turkey's economic structure badly shaken by nine years of full mobilization. Some Turks long for an aid program that would bolster Turkey economically rather than militarily.

Opponents in Saka's own party contended his inability to cut the cost of living had damaged Turkey's prestige.

The final blow came yesterday when the National Assembly refused to accept a bill calling for income tax increases.

Indian Envoy to U. S. To Become Bank Head

New Delhi, India, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—Sir Benegal Rama Rau, Indian Ambassador to the United States, will return here late in March to take office as governor of the reserve bank, it was officially announced today.

Informed quarters said that Mme. Vijayalakshmi Pandit, sister of Premier Jawaharlal Nehru and present Indian Ambassador to Russia, would probably be sent to Washington to replace Rau.

Britain Signs Trade Pact With Poland

By Larry Allen

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 14 (AP).—Britain and Poland today signed a billion-dollar five-year trade pact.

In doing so Britain charted a new policy for trading with countries within the Soviet sphere. They must pay their prewar debts and settle for the British properties they nationalize.

The trade pact calls for a minimum exchange of goods totaling 130 million pounds (520 million dollars) from each side. Some Polish sources said it might reach 150 million pounds (600 million dollars). The pact will make Poland one of Britain's biggest food suppliers.

This may be the biggest deal Poland was concluded with any country. Russia has a five-year pact with Poland calling for a total exchange of goods valued at one billion dollars.

Reginald J. W. Stacy, chairman of the British trade mission which negotiated the pact, said the agreement would stand as a "model" for any future British negotiations with eastern European nations.

Under the pact the Poles agreed to start talks next month on payment of prewar debts and settlement for nationalized holdings. The British agreed to release Polish assets in Britain which were frozen during the Nazi occupation. These are estimated at 500 thousand pounds (two billion dollars).

The Poles agreed to put these assets in a special fund in the Bank of England toward liquidation of their debts to Britons. In addition they will use 3¾ per cent of their exports to Britain between 1951 and 1953 to settle their debts and pay for nationalized British property.

Poland nationalized foreign properties in January, 1946, promising compensation. But she took no concrete steps to adjust British claims of 25 million to 35 million pounds (100 million dollars to 140 million dollars) until today. She has taken no steps to pay for American properties valued at 100 million dollars.

The British appeared to have driven a good bargain. Nevertheless, the Poles appeared satisfied. They will get raw materials and machinery while the flow of Polish bacon, eggs and other foodstuffs to Britain will help that nation stabilize its economy.

A new Polish agreement with Yugoslavia is expected shortly.

Berlin Elects Red Opponent Lord Mayor

By Marguerite Higgins

Berlin, Jan. 14 (NYHT). Berlin's new City Assembly, met today for the first time and reelected Socialist Ernst Reuter—leader of resistance to Soviet pressure here—as lord mayor.

Mayor Reuter and other leaders of the predominantly Socialist Assembly pledged to show the Soviet sector "how parliamentarian democracy can continue to function in this city behind the iron curtain."

Communists boycotted the meeting.

Fireworks are expected if the Social Democrats go ahead with socialization proposals which the Americans disapprove.

The Socialists have already defied the Allies this year. Last week, though forbidden to have political meetings for police, the Socialists went right ahead.

U. S. to Buy All-Weather Jet Fighters

President Truman has approved the purchase of 158 all-weather jet fighters and some more trainers at a cost of 109 million dollars, the Air Force announced yesterday.

Mr. Truman, at the same time, approved the release of another 80 million dollars for new Navy plane orders. Navy spokesmen said the President had authorized them to spend all but $4,500,000 of its fiscal 1949 plane procurement funds, but made no announcement of orders.

Funds for the Air Force craft were made available by the cancellation last fall of contracts for 88 Curtiss F-87 jet fighters and 100 Republic F-84 Thunderjet fighters.

Under the change, about 48 Northrop F-89s and 110 Lockheed F-94s will be ordered, plus a number of trainers of a type not yet decided. The Lockheed fighter is a modification of the F-80 Shooting Star.

The shift in purchase plans has no bearing on the current 70-group Air Force dispute, nor on the change announced this week to cut back other jet planes to make funds available for more Convair B-36s, officials said. It has been in the works for many weeks.

As originally proposed by the Navy, a total of $89,500,000 in orders called for buying Grumman F9F Panther jet fighters, Chance Vought F7U Cutless jet fighters, Douglas A2D Skyraiders, Lockheed P2V Neptune patrol planes, Chance Vought F4U-5 Corsair conventional fighters and Lockheed jet trainers.

Greeks Admit Naoussa Loss

Athens, Greece, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The government announced tonight that the Macedonian town of Naoussa has been captured and fired by guerillas and only 7 of the 400-man government garrison survived.

Premier Themistocles Sophoulis announced he is "ready to resign" because the new coalition government will "not be able to take the proper measures against the economic and political oligarchy of the country."

Sophoulis is scheduled to see King Paul Saturday and reliable sources said he will submit his resignation then.

AMG Executes Six Germans

Munich, Germany, Jan. 14 (AP) Six Germans were executed today at Landsberg Prison, raising to 97 the number of war criminals hanged there since October 15.

A seventh man, Franz Weiss, was given a last-minute reprieve. Weiss, 48-year-old German army sergeant, is accused of shooting a wounded American soldier at Stattmatten, France. His case will be reviewed by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor.

Five of those sent to the gallows had been recommended for clemency by a special commission headed by Texas Supreme Court Judge Gordon Simpson. Clay reaffirmed their death sentences however.

Disappearance of Mail Pouch And $75,000 Cash Is Mystery

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 14 (AP).—A mail pouch crammed with $75,000 in currency was missing today.

Postal inspectors said the sack contained paper money, some of it mutilated, which was being shipped to the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago by the Waukesha National Bank. It was supposed to have been placed on a Soo Line train leaving here at 6:39 p. m. (CST) yesterday. It never arrived at its destination.

Postmaster Jay Laing explained the bank brought the money to the postoffice. It was locked in the special pouch and hauled four blocks to the depot in an armored truck driven by Clarence Stankowski. A police squad car followed the truck but left after it arrived safely.

Stankowski, who is employed by Guy Harding, a contractor hauling mail for the Government, told postal inspectors, Laing said, that he put the pouches on a railroad platform truck for delivery to the mail car.

"That's as far as we have traced the money sack," the postmaster said. "There are no suspects, no one has been arrested and we don't think there was a holdup. The bag is just missing that's all."

Laing said inspectors hadn't yet questioned the employes who usually placed the pouches in the mail car.

Rent Controls Get Priority in Senate

By Samuel W. Bell

Legislation to extend the Federal Rent Control Act which expires March 1 was given priority yesterday on the agenda of the newly organized Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Senator Burnet R. Maybank, (D., S. C.) chairman of the committee, announced that a newly appointed subcommittee on housing and rents, headed by Senator John J. Sparkman, (D., Ala.) will begin consideration of continuation of rent control without delay.

Among other bills which will come before the Sparkman subcommittee is one recently introduced by Senator Francis J. Myers, (D., Pa.) to extend rent ceilings for a period of 27 months and tighten existing controls. President Truman in his recent State-of-the-Union message recommended an extension of at least two years.

The Banking and Currency group also voted unanimously to recommend termination of the Senate's special Small Business Committee on its present date of expiration, January 31.

Creation of a nine-man subcommittee of the Banking Committee group, headed by Senator Maybank, was approved at yesterday's meeting to get something done for small business. A resolution will be introduced in the Senate authorizing the Banking and Currency Committee to take over the files and records of the Small Business Committee and obtain a fund of $50,000 to carry on the work.

"The Small Business Committee is the only select and special committee remaining in the Senate," said Senator Maybank, "and I can see no need for its continued existence. Any matters relating to such a committee should be referred to Banking and Currency where the members have the power to act and legislate under the Congressional Reorganization Act."

Other members of the Maybank Subcommittee on Small Business are Senators Glen H. Taylor of Idaho, J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, John J. Sparkman of Alabama, and J. Allen Frear, jr., of Delaware, Democrats, and Homer E. Capehart of Indiana, Harry P. Cain of Washington, John W. Bricker of Ohio and Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, Republicans.

Export controls which run out on February 28 also will be taken up as soon as possible, Senator Maybank said, as will other existing measures which expire this year. These include consumer credit restrictions, export priorities over antimony, fats and oils and several other products, and allocation authority over transportation. All these expire June 30.

The Banking and Currency Committee also approved the designation of several other subcommittees, chief of which is another nine-man subcommittee on economic stabilization to be headed by Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) which presumably will handle the anti-inflation and selective price and wage control legislation likely to be sent to Congress by President Truman.

Senator Fulbright will be chairman of the Committee on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Senator J. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) will head the subcommittee on legislation affecting the Federal Reserve Board, and Senator Frear the subcommittee charged with bills concerning the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Race Riots Continue in South Africa

Durban, Union of South Africa, Jan. 14 (AP).—Race riots swept this city for the second day today as thousands of African natives fought and pillaged in the Indian section.

At least 50 were killed and 300 hurt.

Every available policeman was called out, but police were powerless to deal with the outbreak against Durban's 110,000 Indians—immigrants and descendants of immigrants from the Asian subcontinent. The Army, Navy and Air Force put down rioting in the city, but it spread to the suburbs.

At midday today several thousand natives, in gangs of several hundred, swarmed through the Indian area attacking Indians and looting Indian homes and shops.

Police made baton charges against the enraged mobs.

The rioting was touched off by what appeared to be a minor incident. Wild-eyed natives claimed an Indian had assaulted a young native boy. The incident steamrollered into disorganized attacks on Indians. Shop windows were broken, buses were stoned and bands of angry native mobs surged through the streets nearby ammunition or gasoline dump set off an explosion which blew out glass, doorways and windows of the consulate.

"We are concentrated in the hallway, barricaded by piled up rugs and away from the windows," Smyth told the State Department by telegram.

Intensified artillery fire which menaced the Americans, including Barbara J. Meyers, a consulate clerk, of Washington, D. C., apparently resulted from a reported all-out Communist assault (Miss Meyers friends in Washington said she is the daughter of a career consular service officer and was born in China. She is a graduate of Goucher College, Baltimore, and formerly lived at 503 18th st. nw. She is 25.

(She went to China in the spring of 1947. Her parents and a sister, Helen, now live in California. The sister, a graduate of George Washington University medical school, is a doctor and interned at Gallinger Hospital.)

Tientsin, large north China industrial city, had been under siege for nine days. The Communist broadcast heard here said the Red forces broke through after a two-hour "all-out attack."

The reported Communist successes in Tientsin added emphasis to a broadcast by Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung setting forth eight terms for peace—which, if accepted, would amount to total surrender of the Nationalist regime.

The statement by Mao, broadcast from Yenan headquarters in both Chinese and English, listed these terms:

"1. Punish war criminals." (This would include Chiang Kai-shek, who heads the Communist list of government leaders so designated.)

"2. Abrogate the bogus constitution." (Adopted in 1946 without Communist participation.)

"3. Abolish the Kuomintang's 'legitimacy of traditional institutions.'" (The Chinese version of this point called for "calendar years to be counted from Anno Domini, not the republic's founding." This insistence on the Christian calendar apparently was one of the means intended to wipe out the tradition of the republic founded in 1911.)

"4. Remold all reactionary armies in accordance with democratic principles.

"5. Confiscate bureaucratic capital.

"6. Reform the agrarian (land) system.

"7. Abrogate treaties of national betrayal." (Other portions of the text made clear that this referred to the United States, which was bitterly assailed.)

"8. Convoke a political consultative conference without the participation of reactionary elements, establish a democratic coalition government, take over all power from the Nanking Kuomintang reactionary government and its lower levels of government."

In any case, said Mao, a few more heavy military blows will cause the Chiang Kai-shek government to "crumble into dust and extinction."

A message from Smyth timed 1:30 p. m. yesterday, Tientsin time, said:

"During the day Communist shelling was intensified. A few minutes after noon a shell hit either an ammunition dump or a gasoline dump in the vicinity of the east railway station, causing a terrific explosion.

"Glass, doorways and windows of our offices were blown out. No one was injured in our office.

"We are concentrated in the hallway, barricaded by piled-up rugs, and away from the windows.

"Our new USIS (United States Information Service) office next door to the French consulate was hit by a shell about 11 a. m., this time exploding. (The building was hit by a shell yesterday, but it was a dud.)

"One Chinese girl employe was cut in the face by flying glass and was taken to a hospital by Vice-Consul Samuel L. Yates, jr., (Detroit, Mich.) Her wound was pronounced not serious. Yates was slightly cut by glass from the same explosion.

"At time of writing this message, Communist shells are landing in the vicinity of Victoria Park and municipal building (formerly Gordon Hall). Also some are landing as we finish this mesage closer to our building. Several large fires are burning in city. No American casualties so far reported."

A second message, timed 4:30 p. m. yesterday said:

"Explosion mentioned in previous telegram caused by shells hitting Shell Oil Co. installation located north bank Hai Ho Ti River, south of east railway station. Huge fires started which still raging and spreading rapidly to surrounding buildings.

"Another large fire in former German concession between Woodrow Wilson Street and river slightly south of point opposite power plant across river. Several other smaller fires also are burning.

"Shell fire has resumed after a brief lull. Reported that fighting now is in progress in vicinity of east railway station.

"As we are confined to our office by curfew and shell fire, unable to ascertain developments in outlying sections of city. Situation seems to be rapidly deteriorating."

Americans other than the official group were advised by Smyth to take shelter in the safest parts of their homes and offices. He said they were not concentrated in the consultate itself.

Aside from the consul general, who is from Berkeley, Calif., the consulate staff includes:

Mrs. James E. Smyth, wife of the consul general; Consul Willard O. Down, Abilene, Tex.; Consul Alfred T. Wellboard, New Orleans, wife, Carol H., and daughter Louise H.; Vice Consul Alfred L. Jenkins, Baxley, Ga., and wife, Martha L. Jenkins; Vice Consul Gordon O. Tullock, Rockford, Ill.; Joseph H. Rogatnik, attache, New York City; Maxime Payne, clerk, Van Buren, Ark.; Barbara R. Adams, clerk, Berlin, N. H.; Barbara J. Heyers, clerk, Washington, D. C.; Vice Consul Samuel L. Yates, jr., Detroit, Mich.

One on the Aisle—

Heiman Parries National Rumors

By Richard L. Coe

MARCUS HEIMAN, whose word is what counts in the fortunes of the National Theater, was on E st. yesterday.

To any questions about the future of the National, he had one blanket answer: "No comment."

An urbane and pleasant gentleman, Mr. Heiman was willing to talk about everything under the sun except the National Theater.

That he should be in town is not necessarily unusual. He's an in-and-out visitor at the E st. property, not frequently, perhaps, but enough not to be a stranger.

The fact remains, for the past two weeks there has been more maybe-if-but-soon-perhaps talk about the National than there has been since the Capital's only living theater went over to the movies as a result of the acting and playwrighting professions' stand against segregation.

Most glaring of the clews that something might be going on is the lack of any "coming soon" attraction for the National screen. The lobby billboards, usually devoted to future attractions, these days contain one house ad about the National and one about the current film, "Mourning Becomes Electra."

This does not necessarily mean another film might not follow the O'Neill tragedy. Still, the exhibitors along film row, who usually at least have a few rumors about coming pictures, have not a whiff of the National's next film.

Talking to other people in the stagehands, box-office unions or the firm which prints the National's "live" theater programs, you learn nothing definite but you do get a sense of expectancy that was completely lacking some months ago. No one has anything to go on, but no one seems to feel the present situation is permanent.

In New York, Actors Equity President Clarence stated that the acting union has no intention of going back on its stand not to play "any theater in the Nation's Capital practicing segregation."

Whether the National's movie policy has been a paying proposition has been something else no one knows. The weekly financial reports in Variety, generally furnished by the theaters, aren't much help. This week's issue states that "Blanche Fury" was "holding very well at $5000 after okay $6000 opener." That means the second week of the O'Neill film's predecessor wasn't too bad.

The fact is, however, that "Blanche Fury" was originally supposed to stay three weeks at the National, though it wound up with only 10 days. You can't help feeling that it can't have done "very well."

Although the theater plays 18 performances a week of films, the few times I've been there on duty it's been a very meager houseful indeed.

More scuttlebutt was raised by a letter from Playwright Robert E. Sherwood to the Evening Star's Jay Carmody. Sherwood, who is working with Irving Berlin on a projected spring musical called "Miss Liberty," wrote that he "hoped" it might open in Washington. His verb offered little to go on, but in the wave of conjectures that "hope" sprang high.

No, there's no definite news on the National returning to its rightful status—which physically it could do overnight. But there was a time when Mr. Heiman used to say directly that his theater's policy was settled. Perhaps in refusing to talk about the matter, Mr. Heiman is at least giving us a ray of hope.

But then, on the other hand—she wore a diamond ring.

Gala Tickets Monday

TICKETS FOR THE Inaugural Gala concert at the Armory Wednesday night will go on public sale at noon Monday at Inaugural headquarters, 7th and E sts. nw.

In the meantime, no further mail or phone orders can be accepted. Frank M. Boucher, chairman of the Gala's ticket committee, reports he hopes to have the mail order advance sale cleared up by the time the public sale opens Monday.

Tickets for the Gala are priced at $2.50, $5, $7.50 and $10 each. Heaviest demand has been for seats in the higher brackets. A "considerable number" at the lower prices is expected to be available Monday on the basis of first come, first served. A sellout is most likely.

Gunplay at the Warner

It Starts Sort of Arty-Like, But Gosh, Does It Get Tough

"WHIPLASH," at the Warner, is one of those gee-ain't-life-tough movies about the artist turned prizefighter and the gal singer who can't get away from That Beast, Her Husband.

It is made to order for people who like those gee-ain't-life-tough movies about the artist turned prizefighter and the gal singer who can't get away from That Beast, Her Husband.

It's tough, see, tough, though it begins calmly enough on a California beach where Dane Clark is making those sand statues you find at the seashore and being palsy with the small fry, explaining a good left hook.

Clark, you learn, is the son of an artist, has inherited The Talent, but isn't Getting Anywhere. Then a lady from the East, Alexis Smith, buys one of his pictures, a fugitive from a calender firm in which she presumes to see "imaginashum," though it's not, she admits, "a work of ot."

Naturally, these two appreciate each other immensely, and though Clark is a bit boorish in his approach, they spend a divine evening on the beach and decide it's Love. Suddenly the lady disappears.

This propels Dane to New York where, fortunately for the picture, he runs into Eve Arden. Eve is an artist, just ahead of the landlady, but she dresses like all get-out and has a Texas millionaire on the string. Chance brings Dane and Alexis together.

A sturdy lady in California, Alexis is anything but in New York. She's the wife of a fight promoter who was paralyzed by her bad driving and by an unsuccessful operation by her brother. This means Sinister Zachary Scott has a hold over Alexis and, of all people to be playing a sot, Jeffrey Lynn, whose reappearancv on the screen literally bowled over the younger set sitting near me. Jeffrey's really too fine and noble for this sort of thing and I'll thank Warner's to treat him more handsomely next time.

Well, anyway, to be near Alexis, Clark accepts Zachary's idea that he is the alter ego the paralyzed fighter has been searching for all these years. He goes into training and vaults championshipwards (!).

Since everybody connected with the fight game presumably carries guns, I'll not spoil your fun by letting on who kills whom, but I would like you to understand, see, that things get tough, see?

Indigency Revised

Washington hospitals have long needed the broader definition of medical indigency devised by Corporation Counsel West. The persons hardest hit by unexpected medical expenses are not those on actual relief, but those whose income places them just above the welfare level. Heretofore no public aid has been available for such persons, except at Gallinger Hospital, as long as they possessed property or other assets. Private hospitals have been stuck with the cost of medical care to individuals who could not qualify as outright welfare cases and still could not pay hospital bills. This unrealistic construction of "indigent" is at least in part responsible for the financial plight of District hospitals. Meanwhile they have been looking longingly at the $690,000 appropriated by Congress for indigent care in private hospitals.

What Mr. West's ruling says in effect is that a person need not be wholly destitute in order to be considered indigent for hospital purposes. If he is unable to pay hospital bills after providing necessities for himself and his dependents, he satisfies the meaning of the law. The District Commissioners will have the job of determining the salary ranges to be covered by the more liberal definition. It is regrettable that some flexibility cannot be allowed to take account of special cases. However, according to Mr. West's interpretation, the range of income may be sufficiently broad to enable the District health officer to "negotiate with those seeking public assistance for the purpose of obtaining from such persons the partial payment of their medical costs."

This is a common sense way of approaching a vexing local problem. Not the least of the beneficaries of the more realistic version of indigency will be the sorely pressed Community Chest. If the indigent case load on private hospitals can be reduced by applying public funds, then money allotted for this purpose can be diverted to other agencies whose budgets suffered in the failure of the Chest drive to reach its goal.

The First Step

The decree of the majority element on the House Ways and Means Committee that committee chairmen shall not serve also as members of other committees is both logical and legislatively prudent. Furthermore, it has had the happy effect of removing Representative Rankin from among the members of the Committee on Un-American Activities. The barrier in his case is that he is head of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

Mr. Rankin's departure leaves only four holdovers from last year's group. The election moved Mr. Mundt to the Senate and Messrs. Vail and McDowell to private life. Mr. Peterson of Florida, the committee's least active member, has resigned. Besides Representative Wood, heir presumptive to the chairmanship, the survivors are Representatives Hebert, Nixon, and Thomas. The last is in poor health and under grand jury indictment; he, too, it is said, may also resign later on.

Without Mr. Rankin at his elbow the unspectacular Mr. Wood may prove to be a very satisfactory chairman. Both Representatives Nixon and Hebert have been critical of some of the committee's worst antics, though their actions have not always suited their words. The three may make a good nucleus around which to build a new and better membership. The character of a committee's members, as we have often said, is a prime determinant of its methods of operation and its achievements. Leaders on both sides of the House have an opportunity to remake the committee in such a fashion that it will bring decency and justice as well as effectiveness to the investigative operation.

This is the minimum first step in rehabilitating the reputation of the committee and of Congress for proper conduct of legislative investigations. It must be accompanied by a set of rules for fair procedures, and these should be established by Congress for all committees rather than just by the Un-American Activities Committee for itself. In fact, a better, if more drastic measure, would be either to transform the Un-American Activities group into a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee, or to expand it into a joint committee of both houses. Senator McClellan has introduced a resolution to do this. Either change would serve to put the group and its function—which ought to be more closely defined than the vague inquiry into "un-American activities"—on a relatively even keel. And while such a change is in process, if it should happen, a new name for the committee is certainly in order, say, Committee on Subversive Activities.

Rent Protection

Undoubtedly the Administration views an extension of rent control as the fulfillment both of campaign promises and of the election mandate. We agree that on balance some sort of continued protection for tenants is desirable until the housing shortage has been more or less made up. It does not follow, however, that the rigid 27-month extension and rollback contained in a new bill introduced by Senator Myers are either necessary or wise.

Some of the provisions of the Myers bill are obviously sound. If there is to be rent control at all, then it is important that the housing expediter have real enforcement powers. The Myers bill would both strengthen his over-all authority and empower him to sue recalcitrant landlords for triple damages on behalf of tenants. The measure would do away with the arrangement for voluntary 15 per cent rent increases in return for leases; this has proved a sham in practice, and anyhow, the justification for it would be obviated by the 27-month extension of controls. Of particular interest to District residents, the bill would extend to Washington the same protection as now obtains under the national law with respect to cooperative apartments. As some members of Congress have had occasion to learn, owner-sponsored conversion to cooperatives has caused many dispossessions and other abuses here.

However, we strongly question the advisability of attempting to recontrol units that have already been decontrolled or to roll back rents on new dwellings never subjected to control. The attempt to recontrol and roll back prices under OPA was not a particularly happy experience. And the fact is that it is not on newly constructed dwellings that the great need for rental protection lies. Many dwellings have been produced for sale and rental in the medium and higher priced brackets. The shortage of apartments in this field is slackening in Washington, and in some areas there are considerable vacancies. This is housing that was built, for the most part, with the understanding that it would not be put under rent ceilings. To attempt to control it ex post facto would be to establish a severe deterrent to further investment. Aside from the equities involved, administratively recontrol and rollback might well prove chaotic. The most stringent shortage exists in houses that rent at less than $60 a month, for there has been practically no new construction of such units. Tenants in this group are most in need of protection.

It must be recognized, however, that rent control by itself provides no solution to the housing shortage. If controls over low-rental housing are to do anything more than perpetuate the status quo, they must be accompanied by meaningful housing legislation to encourage new construction in a field where it is simply not profitable for private industry to operate unassisted.

As experience has shown in France, where rigid controls have practically dried up rental construction, it is always easier to impose and keep restrictions than to face the consequences of their removal. If only because new building here has been outside rent control, the picture in the United States does not begin to approach that in France. Nevertheless, landlords are the only major segment of the economy under this type of legal restraint—that is to say, the only group whose prices are fixed. This condition itself is a barrier to new investment—and more housing. The lesson is that Congress must keep an eye on the need for ultimate abolition of rent control as well as on the need for immediate extension. Certainly any new law ought to be sufficiently flexible in application and short in duration that it does not defeat the broader purpose of getting more housing for the people who need it.

Budgets As Literature

Well, whatever else you may think about Mr. Truman's budget message now that you have digested it, you can scarcely deny that it represents a very considerable improvement in the quality of presidential prose. It is for the most part lucid, forthright and syntactically sound, and no one who takes the trouble to read it through is left in any doubt about what a thorough cleansing awaits his pockets if and when the budget is enacted in its entirety. As a matter of practical politics, such clarity may have disadvantages, but as an example of style to other writers of state papers and official documents, we cannot praise it too highly.

Let us take, for example, Mr. Truman's prologue, or exordium, or invocation to the muse, or whatever is the proper name for the introductory paragraph of a budget message:

> Under the laws of our country the Budget, when approved by Congress, becomes the plan of action for the Federal Government. It thus embodies decisions of tremendous importance, particularly in these times, to the American people and to the entire world. The preparation of the Budget is one of the most important duties of the President. It represents a carefully prepared plan for carrying out the many activities and services of Government which the Congress has authorized, and others which I am recommending in response to the needs and desires of the American people.

This, we grant, is something less than Ciceronian. It lacks, if you like, that tortuous eloquence with which such a statesman as Edmund Burke wound, as Goldsmith put it, like a majestic serpent into his subject. It is perhaps not even quite up to the level of Mr. Churchill at his best. Nay, really careful revision of editing might have modified or deleted such trite and shopworn locutions as "plan of action" and "decisions of tremendous importance." But, judged by the contemporary standards of the Congressional Record, it has an almost classical elegance. This becomes apparent if we compare it to a passage in a similar message by the late President Roosevelt.

> Pursuant to the provisions of law, I transmit herewith the Budget of the United States Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940, together with this message, which is an integral part thereof. The estimates in this Budget are based on a careful analysis of the existing obligations and future needs of the Government. I, therefore, recommend appropriations for the purposes specifically declared in the tables which follow.

The difference here is between run-of-the record accountant's jargon and decently ordered sequence of ideas. Of course, there always is infinite room for improvement in these matters. Incorrigible optimists that we are, we look forward to the day when mere prose will be discarded as the medium of presidential expression and when messages to Congress and similar communications to the Congress shall be set forth in some order of metrical verse. Heroic hexameters, it strikes us, would be about right for the purpose; for example:

> Forty-two billions I sing. First, for cold war intensive
> Twenty-one billions I must have; for though this is technically peacetime,
> Peace upon power depends; power, my friends, is expensive;
> Armies and navies come high, not to speak of an up-to-date air force.
> Think of those nations of Europe this side of the curtain of iron,
> Menaced by shadows of Stalin, still needing financial assistance!
> What if the sinister Russian possesses the Northern Atlantic?
> Perish that vision abhorrent! Now turning to projects domestic,
> Fair deals I have promised to all—to each man of every segment
> Schooling, good housing and diet. Several billions for this I require.
> Surely ye durst not deny them! Think back on the days of November; > Prophets confounded and polls contradicted and crow-eating writers—and so on. Once you get the hang of it, it comes quite easily, and we feel sure that Mr. Truman would have no difficulty sustaining the measure for 1399 pages minus tables and graphs. And if the general effect should be somewhat inferior to Virgil's or Longfellow's, why that must be blamed on the subject matter.

Cut-Off Date

When Congress gets around to liberalizing the Displaced Persons Act of 1948, the most obvious need will be to increase the total number of entrants permitted. The present law puts this number, in effect, at 205,000 in two years. This should be at least doubled if the United States is to approach the solution of the DP problem in a measure consonant with the responsibilities and interests of the world's foremost democracy.

A second liberalizing proposal has to do with the so-called "cut-off" date. This is the date on which—with an exception in favor of Czech refugees—DPs must have been resident in Italy or one of the Allied zones of Austria or Germany in order to be eligible for a DP visa to enter the United States. The House chose April 21, 1947, which was the date when the Army said it would take no more DPs into the camps. The Senate, after a lengthy debate last June, supported Senator Revercomb in moving the date back to December 22, 1945. The latter was the date of a presidential order giving DPs preference in immigration quotas.

The argument advanced by Senator Revercomb in favor of the early cut-off date was not wholly without merit. It would, he said, give the wartime DPs, who had suffered most and longest, first chance. The effect, however, was to eliminate from eligibility certain central and eastern European groups, among them a minority proportion of Jewish refugees. Coupled with the so-called Baltic preference provision of the law, it gave the Revercomb version a pretty bad smell.

Suggestions have already been advanced for revising the law to move the cut-off date up to April 21, 1947. One proposal would put the cut-off date at January 1, 1949. For a number of reasons this is probably the most sensible solution as well as the most humanitarian. It would in effect wipe out, as April 21, 1947, would not entirely do, the discriminatory features of the December, 1945, date. And rather than augment the operating difficulties of the program, it would very likely decrease them.

Canada's Trade

Although Canada is not a direct beneficiary of the recovery program, her efforts to safeguard her shrunken supply of American dollars have been greatly aided by European purchases of Canadian goods financed with ECA funds. About 40 per cent of all ECA's offshore authorizations have been allocated to Canada, thus adding some 460 million dollars to her U. S. dollar receipts. During the past year Canada also reduced her purchases from this country by means of import bans and quota restrictions, and at the same time stepped up her exports. As a result her adverse trade balance with the United States, which amounted to the huge sum of one billion dollars in 1947 was cut to an estimated 200 million last year. What's more, a good deal of the improvement in the trade balance is attributable to an expansion of Canadian exports, stimulated by planned industrial expansion designed to reduce dependence on the United States. The success of these self-help efforts, combined with the inflow of ECA dollars, has now made it safe to relax import bans which were imposed a year ago to reduce the heavy drain on exchange balances.

Of course Canada cannot afford to rely on a flow of ECA funds to solve long-range problems resulting from her inability to convert the proceeds of sales to Britain into American dollars, as in prewar years, to be used to pay for excess imports from the United States. This triangular trade was highly profitable and beneficial to all concerned. There is a real danger that Canada's otherwise praiseworthy efforts to develop markets for her products in the United States, as a form of self-protection, may lead to shifts in world trade currents that would permanently deprive Britain and other European countries of much needed trade outlets.

Electoral Reform

The recent press reports relative to the difference of opinion between Senator Lodge and Senator McGrath over the reform of the method for electing presidential tickets to office reads like an advance of a Punch and Judy show.

While these gentlemen appear to propose different methods of electing the President and the Vice President, the two methods they propose are essentially alike. Senator Lodge proposes to provide for election by plurality of the electoral vote in the country at large. Senator McGrath proposes election by plurality of the popular vote in the country at large. The difference in favor of the voters in the States with smaller populations is slight in terms of the total electoral vote.

The dangerous defect of both proposals is that they may lead to election of minority Presidents frequently. The McGrath proposal has the additional defects of the possibility of frauds requiring national recounts.

What the Nation needs is a method of electing Presidents that assures the election of Presidents who have the support of the majority of the people. To accomplish this without becoming involved in Nation-wide recounts, it is necessary to vitalize the electoral college, secure representation in the college which is in direct ratio to the popular vote in each State, and then provide a means for election of the President by the electoral college which will insure election by a majority of its members without appreciable risk of a deadlock of risk of a minority choice by plurality.

The election method which will provide complete, precise representation of the electorate in the electoral college and will enable the electoral college to choose a majority presidential ticket without appreciable risk of deadlock is the one called the Australian secret single transferable short ballot.

The Dutch Case

I would like to join with all who care for decency and fair-play in protesting against the unjust and ill-mannered treatment the Dutch people are receiving at the hands of the Security Council.

The fact that native Communist leaders have been trained in Moscow to foment revolts in southeastern Asia in order to embarrass and weaken the Netherlands, France and Great Britain has been ignored. The fact that the Japanese gave first aid to the subversive elements in Indonesia, and that several hundred Japanese officers remained to help, is not generally known. The fact that honest, industrious Dutch colonists have been in danger of losing their lives and possessions has been overlooked.

The fact that valuable resources laboriously gained and preserved throughout three centuries have been sequestered or destroyed does not seem to matter much to those radical advocates of self-government for all peoples, irrespective of their fitness for the exercise of democracy. The fact that the national economy of the Netherlands is inextricably interwoven with that of the East Indies is apparently held to be of negligible significance.

Why should the Dutch be subjected to such affronts? First, because of the powerful influence of skillful Communist propaganda, and, second, the obstinacy of the Security Council in persisting in a wrong decision to meddle in the domestic concerns of a member nation.

Queen Wilhelmina, and now Queen Juliana, solemnly pledged that: "Indonesia and the Netherlands would cooperate voluntarily and in freedom and equality to regain peace and happiness" and that "both peoples, Dutch and Indonesian, look forward to the day when the United States of Indonesia, sponsored by the Netherlands, will take their rightful place among the United Nations." These momentous declarations should be received with the greatest respect and faith in the sworn word of a noble people.

Dictators' Strength

Herodotus, most ancient of historians, writes thus: "And it shows that not in one respect only, but every way, equality of rights is a thing worthwhile, as the Athenians under dictatorship were not better militarily than any of their neighbors, but when they got rid of dictators became far the foremost. This shows, I say, that while they were in subjection they were slackers, feeling that they were working for their owner, but when they were set free each one was eager to put things through for his own self."

A few years ago this would have sounded like excellent Americanism. But now some of our leaders of opinion, who have not been reading Herodotus, are saying that Spain under Franco would be a solid and valuable backing for us in case of war.

Letting Chiang Down

May I suggest another cartoon in the same mood as that of January 10 showing the Chiang government of China nailing up a Christmas stocking and Uncle Sam saying "You just missed him"?

Could Herblock draw that big fireplace again? On one side put "Uncle Joe" with what he already has in his big sock—a bigger one than Monday's. Have him just adding the 500 million Chinese people to his collection. On the other side have Uncle Sam with his very little sock with the big hole in it—contemplating what are left of United States friendships in the world.

You might show the few suckers still clinging to his coattails, while the rest of the not-yet "liberated" people look on. Of course Uncle Sam will not be too concerned since the 500 million Chinese were liberated from the corruption of Chiang's government and now enjoy the righteousness of Uncle Joe's fatherly care.

If I were good at that kind of art, I would draw a big Santa Claus (a bit out of season, but so was your sock of Monday). He could put that Chinese doll in the top of Uncle Joe's sock. That would free his other arm for more grasping at what we don't care to keep.

I feel you could do a good job of this. And your readers will certainly appreciate the timely fun you're having with the fact that we have just let down the man who stands for United States friendship with 500 million people. H. G. MEYER.

U. N. And Korea

I recently returned from Paris where I observed the United Nations General Assembly discussions on Korea. The joint United States-China-Australian resolution, adopted on December 12, concerning the problem of Korean independence, is a moral victory for the Republic of Korea. But on the practical side there is nothing in the resolution which will alter the existing situation unless the cold war ends.

The General Assembly declared that the government of the Republic of Korea established in the southern zone of the country "is based on elections which were a valid expression of the free will of the electorate of that part of Korea and which were observed by the temporary commission; and that this is the only such government in Korea." Thus, the Assembly, although recognizing its legality, did not recognize the government as the national authority over the whole of Korea.

It was recommended that "the occupying powers should withdraw their occupation forces from Korea as early as practicable." According to a recent report by Tass, withdrawal of Soviet troops was completed by Christmas day. Under these circumstances, this provison of the resolution amounts to a sanctioning of continued American occupation until such time as the Korean government has created a sufficient security force to defend itself.

The Assembly resolved that a United Nations Commission consisting of Australia, China, El Salvador, France, India, the Philippines and Syria, be established to continue the work of the U. N. Temporary Commission on Korea to "lend its good offices to bring about the unification of Korea and the integration of all Korean security forces in accordance with the principles laid down by the General Assembly in its resolution of November 14, 1947."

The resolution of December 12 "calls upon member states to refrain from any acts derogatory to the results achieved and to be achieved by the United Nations in bringing about the complete independence and unity of Korea." The meaning of the words "derogatory acts" is not made clear. The implication might be that Soviet Russia and the satellite states should recognize the legality of the Republic of Korea and not hinder its development. It may be, however, that the paragraph considers the "results achieved" in the broad sense of the commission's efforts to help Korea toward independence. In any event, however, it is unlikely that the Soviet Union, Poland and Czecholslovakia, which have already granted de jure recognition to the government of the Democratic People's Republic in north Korea, will retract their commitments, unless a Soviet-American rapprochement is achieved.

The general feeling in the Assembly was that the difficulties confronting Korea in establishing her independence are not so much a Korean fight as a battle between Soviet Russia and the United States. Therefore, as long as these two powers remain in disagreement, the practical implementation of the General Assembly resolution in the immediate future is highly questionable.

It is doubtful whether the north Korean regime will cooperate with the U. N. Commission in carrying out its mandate. The north Korean government, sponsored by Russia, may insist that it is the authority over the whole nation. Furthermore, it may use as a convenient excuse for continuing its antagonism, the fact that it was not heard in the General Assembly. Therefore, it may use the usual Soviet technique of ignoring the U. N. Commission when approached on the matter of unification of Korea.

Giving Wealth Longevity

By Malvina Lindsay

Widow's Technique

LAST MONTH there died in New York a 90-year-old widow who had projected herself intelligently and devotedly into the world she was leaving. For 16 years Mrs. Florence A. Troughton had worked at making the bequest she was to leave render effective service when she was gone. In so doing she made a contribution to two problems of modern life, the constructive disposal of the vast wealth left in elderly widows' hands, and the financial struggle of the older woman who must earn her own living.

Mrs. Troughton when left a widow 32 years ago had an adequate but not large inheritance, and a spacious, handsomely furnished Riverside Drive apartment. When some years later she began to think of how she would leave her small fortune, she decided to do one big constructive thing rather than parcel out what she had. Becoming interested in the Salvation Army's Evangeline residences where students and working girls up to 25 years of age live inexpensively, she began an investigation of these and other endowed homes. She found that virtually none made provisions for older working women.

She decided to leave her money to the Salvation Army for such a home. A good business woman, she had been building up her legacy by sound investments. She became so interested in her project that she determined to leave a million dollars for it. She gave her beautiful furnishings to the Salvation Army for its Evangeline residences and moved into a simple hotel room where she could live more economically. She spent much of her time planning for her residence project and interviewed numerous older women on buses and elsewhere to determine their living needs.

AS A RESULT, her will leaving one million dollars for the home held definite provisions as to how the project should be operated. She stipulated that health care and vocational guidance be given in the residence, which will be built soon in New York, and which will offer accommodations to about 200 women.

This story is significant at this time when so much of inherited wealth is passing into the hands of women past 60. It is estimated that at least 80 per cent of insurance is payable to women. Probate records show they inherit the bulk of all estates—possibly because of feminine longevity.

It is true that in large estates public bequests are usually taken care of through foundations or trusts established by the men who amass the fortunes. And many bequests to women are left in trust funds. Yet in these days of small families and an increasing older population there is a growing surplus of elderly widows with small fortunes who have the disposal of these in their hands and who have no immediate heirs.

OFTEN THIS wealth is disposed of by whim or accident with no sense of responsibility to society—from which it was derived. Few women—or men for that matter—are willing to devote the time and thought Mrs. Troughton did to determining what can be done most effectively with the substance they leave. Most take the easiest way of making gifts to prominent charities or to personal friends not needing such bounty.

In 1947 about 55 per cent of women between 60 and 64 were widows. These—and those older—have a large proportion of the 70 per cent of privately owned wealth reputed to be in women's hands. However, for all their owning of stocks, bank deposits, insurance, women take little part in control of these. The 47 per cent of stocks they own seem to interest them only when dividends are due. Even the few who are on corporation boards—by virtue of large inheritances—leave things to the men.

Recently, however, a movement has developed among women stockholders to seek more voice in management. This is led by several outstanding women business and public leaders and is expected to get somewhere. Similarly, Mrs. Troughton's devoted personal attention to the disposal of her substance may be indicative of a more responsible attitude on the part of all who have anything to pass on.

Hoi Polloi

Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer's column of January 6 referred to "the (House) gallery, where presumably a few hoi polloi had seeped in." Of course, we plain people realize that the sum and substance of the society columnist's writings are the people who flit in and out of Embassy Row, the Mayflower and the Shoreham day after day—spending a precarious life balancing tea cups and martini glasses and wearing the latest by Dior and Sally Victor. Or so the columnists would have us think.

But did Mrs. Thayer have to turn up her nose when some of the people who undoubtedly supported President Truman before election day applauded his remarks on the minimum wage?

Before I cross Mrs. Thayer off my reading list, however, I suppose its only fair to ask if she meant that sentence to sound the way it does. After all, Washington—and indeed the whole United States—is made up in the main of what Mrs. Thayer calls "hoi polloi."

Responsibility In The Air

THE WAY in which the continuing wave of the news close over even a major disaster is well illustrated by the disappearance from the pages of the newspapers of the disaster in Seattle, Wash., that cost 16 lives, 13 of them students from Yale returning to college.

Childs

This is, of course, very convenient for the bureaucrats who are supposed to have regulatory responsibility over the airlines. They are grateful for the shortness of public memory which obscures each succeeding tragedy.

The Civil Aeronautics Board is still gathering data preparatory to a hearing in Seattle that opens next Tuesday. In time the board will write a long report phrased in Government gobbledygook with blame duly parceled out, including a share for the Civil Aeronautics Administration which sets up regulations.

But here, as anyone knows who read the accounts of the disaster, is a case where regulations were plainly inadequate. The pilot of the plane was cleared for a take-off by the control tower even though weather conditions were below the safe minimums. It was apparently "legal" to send 16 young men to their deaths.

This is no regulatory system and an overhaul is long overdue. Nor have recent appointments to air regulatory bodies been such as to inspire confidence.

IF IT follows present intentions the Hoover Commission on Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government will recommend establishment of a Department of Transportation. Into that department under a Cabinet officer would go all Government agencies covering every form of transportation.

This recommendation represents a compromise among various factions urging specific action on air regulation. But for several reasons there is little likelihood that either the Administration or the Congress will get behnid such a sweeping proposal.

President Truman has already recommended a Department of Social Welfare and that probably will receive congressional approval. It is very doubtful if Congress would add a second Cabinet post at the same time.

Such a move would be opposed by most of the transportation interests involved. Both railroads and airlines would feel that their claims would be submerged in a common agency. It appears, therefore, that no change is in prospect.

The answer of the Civil Aeronautics Board is a new regulation that would have the effect of eliminating irregular or nonscheduled airlines. The plane that crashed at Seattle was on charter from a company operating nonscheduled flights.

This, it seems to me, is not enough. Perhaps stricter regulation of nonscheduled flights is essential. Certainly, it would please the airlines. Senator Owen Brewster, who has been such a kind friend of Pan American Airways, has long planned a move that would practically eliminate nonscheduled competition.

THE SAFETY regulations need to be tightened for all lines. Fortunately there has been no major disaster on scheduled lines in recent months. But it was in June of last year that the crash of a DC-6 in Pennsylvania killed 43 persons.

The competition offered by nonscheduled lines is quite another matter. Operating without the large overhead spent for publicity and lobbying that the scheduled lines incur, the little companies, many of them run by veterans, seem to make a go of it by charging rates well under those of scheduled lines.

This may be unfair competition or such competition may be justified within the framework of the American competitive system. A thorough congressional investigation into the airline industry, with safety a major consideration — unbiased by the special prejudices of friendly Senators, if that is conceivable—should point the way to reforms.

There have been disturbing rumors lately of a major contribution last fall to the Truman campaign that was made through carefully concealed channels by a major airline. This is linked by rumor with the drive to eliminate the competition of the unscheduled lines.

More investigations and more reports are not the answer to disaster. They are part of the process by which tragedy is conveniently filed and forgotten until the next time the headlines spell out a new accident.

Montgomery Case Cited in WSID Ruling

A 1935 case involving "eavesdropping" by reporters for a Washington newspaper gave the Criminal Court of Baltimore a precedent to cite in contempt a suburban radio station this week.

Judge John B. Gray, jr., of the Baltimore Court, Wednesday held in contempt Station WSID of Essex, Md., for publishing news concerning a man in police custody for murder of an 11-year-old girl. The judge gave as his legal justification a Rockville Circuit Court case in 1935.

In this case, two Washington Herald newspapermen were cited in contempt for "eavesdropping" on a private conference of judges deciding a murder-conspiracy case. The newspaper printed the judges' verdict of guilty before the jurists announced it.

Reviewing that case, the Maryland Court of Appeals said that although the newspaper was published in Washington, it was circulated in Rockville, where the court was sitting.

It reasoned that since the material on which the story was based was gathered in the courtroom, the act resulting in the contempt was committed there. Therefore, it was reasoned, the contempt was "constructively" committed before the court.

Hyattsville Would Annex 3 Districts

Annexation of three neighboring communities is favored by Hyattsville Mayor Caesar L. Aiello and members of the Hyattsville City Council, it was learned last night.

The communities, according to Aiello, are Lewisdale, Green Meadows and Brookside Manor.

He said annexation would result in advantages, both to the three communities and Hyattsville. No direct move, however, will be made, he said, "unless the people of the communities are interested."

Advantages to the three areas, he said, would include fire and police protection and other municipal services afforded by Hyattsville.

To Hyattsville, annexation would add from 3000 to 5000 persons to its present population of about 15,000, he estimated, giving the city "greater economy and better purchasing power through increased size of its operations."

The mayor said he would like to have the communities "invite us over to discuss it."

Members of the Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department, according to Capt. Charles Di Vincenzo, are planning a house-to-house canvass of the three communities to determine how residents feel about the annexation proposal.

Psychiatric Clinic Asked In Southeast

Establishment of a psychiatric clinic for children in Southeast Washington was asked last night by the Southeast Citizens Association, meeting at Hine Junior High School, 7th and C sts. se.

It recommended the clinic be operated by the District Health Department and be located either at Gallinger or Providence Hospitals.

The group directed a letter to the Washington Metropolitan Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, asking it to "support and use the comprehensive plan for the Washington Metropolitan Area prepared by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission" while making plans for the city's 1950 sesquicentennial observance.

A sales tax as proposed by the District Commissioner was favored by the association which also urged substantial increase in Federal contributions toward the operation of the District government. Support also was given Commissioner Guy Mason's efforts to double the District liquor tax and license fees.

Traffic Light Sought At 3-Way Intersection

The Hillsdale Civic Association last night voted to petition Director of Vehicles and Traffic George E. Keneipp for a traffic light at the three-way intersection of Nichols ave. and Sheridan and Howard rds. se. The association met at Birney School, Nichols ave. se. between Talbert and Howard sts.

The petition cites the "consistant failure" to obtain the traffic signal and deplores the lack of control signals for vehicular traffic on Nichols ave. from Good Hope rd. to Congress Heights.

The group commended Eleventh Precinct police for recent improvement in traffic direction for school children but asked Precinct Capt. James E. Silvea for additional traffic officers at the intersections of Nichols ave. with Howard rd. and Sumner rd. between 7 and 9:30 a. m. to help pedestrians reach bus stops during the rush hour.

The apartment owners have applied for the increases, the meeting was told.

The association's recreation committee reported it had completed a basketball court for the youth of the area at Eads st. and Benning rd. and presented plans for the purchase of sound movie equipment.

pendable service and better hearing.

Wilson also said the present arrangement keeps equipment costs as low as possible.

News of the suit was followed by a $1.50 drop in value of A. T. & T. shares on the stock market. The price went to $147.75, lowest since 1943.

A. T. & T. was said by the Justice Department to have a physical worth of $8,500,000,000. It was called the largest corporation in the world on the basis of assets.

The department said that A. T. & T. operates more than 98 per cent of long-distance facilities. It owns and controls operating companies in the Bell System furnishing 85 per cent of all local phone service in the country.

It owns 99.8 per cent of all Western Electric stock outstanding. In 1947, the book value of these shares was given as $265,696,000.

Western Electric had sales of $995,964,000 in 1947, of which $902,655,000 were to Bell System companies.

The suit said that Western Electric makes and sells or controls the production of virtually all telephones and telephone equipment in the United States.

The Justice Department demanded that both companies and the proposed successors to Western Electric release their numerous patents to anyone desiring to use them for a reasonable royalty. In addition the firms should supply the "know how" for using the inventions, the Government contended.

Clark said in a statement:

"The chief purpose of this action is to restore competition in the manufacture and sale of telephone equipment now produced and sold almost exclusively by Western Electric at noncompetitive prices.

"This, in turn, will lower the costs of such equipment and create a situation under which State and Federal regulatory commissions will be afforded an opportunity to reduce telephone rates to subscribers."

The Attorney General contended the suit "does not seek to interfere" with A. T. & T. except to separate it from Western Electric. He said there would be no disturbance of telephone service if the court takes the steps asked.

The suit proposed to dissolve and reorganize Western Electric into three new firms—two making telephones, telephone apparatus and equipment, and the third making "special products not used exclusively in telephony."

It suggested to the court this breakdown:

Company 1—Hawthorne works, Archer avenue shop, 47th street shop, Kolmar avenue shop and Clearing shop, all now in Chicago; St. Paul shop, St. Paul, Minn., and Lincoln shops, Lincoln, Nebr.

Company 2—Kearny Works, Kearny, N. J.; Point Breeze Works, Baltimore; Queensboro shop, Brooklyn; Nassau Smelting & Refining Co., Staten Island, N. Y., Kenmore plant, Buffalo, N. Y.

Company 3—Philadelphia specialty shop, Philadelphia, and Electronics shop, New York City.

The department also proposed that the court void any contracts or relationships between Western Electric and a number of other firms or their subsidiaries "which eliminate or restrain competition." In this connection, the suit named International Standard Electric Co., General Electric Co., Radio Corporation of America, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., Western Union Telegraph Co., Telegraph Construction & Maintenance Co., Ltd., and Submarine Cables, Ltd.

The department contended that the defendants had used the "closed market" to hold back from the Bell System standard improvements so that "maximum returns might be secured from existing equipment, even though less expensive and more efficient equipment was available."

Agriculture Plan Offered Hoover Group

By John W. Ball

Post Reporter

The Herbert Hoover Commission for the Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government is studying a task force plan for reorganization of the Agriculture Department, estimated to save 80 million dollars a year.

The plan was revealed in Decatur, Ill., yesterday by the head of the task force, Dean H. P. Rusk, of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

At Hoover Commission headquarters it was stated that the plan was presented "orally to the commission by Dean Rusk just before the holidays."

"We have no control over what Dean Rusk tells," a spokesman at the commission said. "We haven't made any release on plans for the Agriculture Department because they haven't crystallized yet."

Rusk said the plan called for six administrations in the department: research, extension, agriculture resources conservation, commodity adjustment, agricultural credit and a regulatory administration.

Research would include the following bureaus: Crops, forest and range, animals, structures and machines, soil and water, human nutrition and home economics, marketing and utilization, and agricultural economics and States' relations.

The extension administration would handle all farmers' educational projects and farm groups through its own organization and through State land grant colleges.

Conservation of soil, water, timber, range, fish and wildlife resources would be brought under the resources conservation administration.

The Commodity Adjustment Administration would operate through these bureaus: Grain and oil crops, cotton, dairy and poultry, tobacco, sugar and naval stores, fruits and vegetables, the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

In the regulatory administration would be the Food and Drug Administration, the Commodity Exchange Authority and similar bodies.

The Agricultural Credit Administration would include the Federal Land Bank, the Production Credit Corporation, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, the Bank for Cooperatives, the Farmers Home Agency and the Rural Electrification Agency.

Rusk said the plan would save 80 million dollars a year—44 million from annual general expenses and 36 million from administrative costs.

The task force recommends that the Secretary of Agriculture be given an Undersecretary and three Assistant Secretaries, instead of one of the latter as now. Each administration would have an administrator with one or two assistants.

National Science Unit Predicted By Research Aide

Dr. Lawrence Hafstad, executive secretary of the Research and Development Board of the National Military Establishment, said last night that "all signs point inevitably toward the need of a national science foundation."

Addressing about 75 members of the Columbia University Club of Washington at their monthly dinner at the Lafayette Hotel, Dr. Hafstad said establishment of such a foundation is imperative unless the tax structure is changed so private citizens can endow scientific research at universities.

The bulk of scientific research in the Government is now done by the military, he pointed out, adding that a national science foundation would restore such research to civilian control.

The meeting was attended by Charles P. Hurd, assistant director of admissions, and George Furey assistant director of athletics, of Columbia University.

Tobin Predicts Conciliators' Return to Fold

Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin last night flatly predicted that the new independent Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service will be returned to the Department of Labor by the Eighty-first Congress.

The Labor Secretary's forecast was made before the National Academy of Arbitrators meeting at the Statler Hotel.

The prediction was something of a challenge, too. Among the guests attending the dinner meeting were Cyrus Ching, head of the Conciliation Service, reputed to be opposed to placement of his agency under the Labor Department, and Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) who champions an independent Conciliation Service.

The Conciliation Service had been attached to the Labor Department for 34 years. In 1947, when the Republican-dominated 80th Congress passed the Taft-Hartley Act, the service was severed from the department, and made independent.

2 Assessors Requested by Fairfax Chief

Employment of two additional assessors to assure full payment of personal property taxes was proposed to the Fairfax County board of supervisors yesterday by County Commissioner of Revenue John W. Ferguson.

The two new assessors would make an annual house-to-house canvass, listing all county residents and assessing their personal property.

Ferguson said the new assessors would tend to eliminate false returns and failure of county residents to file returns.

He estimated work of the new assessors would increase the county's income by at least $100,000 a year.

Revenue from personal property taxes last year was $373,265.

The supervisors, meeting in special session after a joint meeting with the Falls Church City Council, deferred action until Wednesday to learn whether the State would bear any part of the expense.

55.4 Million Granted Britain in ECA Funds

One of the largest single Marshall Plan aid grants to date—$55,440,000 to the United Kingdom to purchase Canadian wheat—was announced yesterday by the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Four other European countries and western Germany also shared in the new recovery authorizations which totaled $65,790,000, the heaviest daily ECA spending approval in nearly a month. The grants bring to $4,361,260,000 total American foreign aid funds committed under the European Recovery Program.

Wage-Hour Chief Urges 75-Cent Floor

By Sam Stavisky

Post Reporter

William R. McComb, Federal wage-hour administrator, yesterday urged Congress to raise the Nation-wide minimum wage from the present 40 cents an hour to 75 cents an hour.

At the same time, McComb declared that even the 75-cent floor on wages is "insufficient to provide an income which will permit the maintenance of even a quite modest American standard of living . . ."

The director of the Labor Department's Wage-Hour Division estimated that some 1,500,000 workers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act currently receive less than 75 cents an hour, chiefly in certain segments of the lumber, chemical, food, tobacco, leather and apparel industries.

McComb point d out that in 10 years of the wage-hour legislation, there'd been few changes in the law. He recommended that several key amendments be approved by the Eightieth Congress now in session.

Among the recommendations were the following:

Authorization for management-labor-public committees to set up higher wage floors than 75 cents an hour in certain industries.

Strengthen and widen the laws prohibiting and restricting child labor.

Permit relaxation of the law in regard to the 40-hour week and overtime pay to permit development of annual employment programs.

Provide minimum wage requirements for employes of commercial-type farms.

Put teeth into the present enforcemen provisions by giving the administrator the right to sue for back wages due under the law.

Administrator McComb made his recommendations in his annual report to Congress. He stressed the 75-cent wage floor, which has also been urged by President Truman.

Md. Mental Hospitals Get State Study

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14 (AP).—A study of Maryland's five State-operated mental hospitals is under way, Governor Lane reported today.

Three out-of-State experts will make independent investigations to help the Governo decide what should be done to raise the standards of the institutions.

The Governor made the announcement after a conference on the State hospitals that lasted for a couple of hours. Meeting with the Governor "for an exchange of ideas" were superintendents of the five hospitals, Dr. George H. Preston, Commissioner of Mental Hygiene, and Dr. Riley H. Guthrie, head of the division of mental hygiene of the United States Public Health Service.

Church Federation Opens Fund Drive

Peace is secure for a few years at least if we don't depend on "clever men" in places of responsibility, but rather on a spirit of Christian leadership, Representative Brooks Hays (D., Ark.) said last night.

He was addressing about 250 Protestant ministers and laymen at the opening dinner of the 1949 financial campaign of the Washington Federation of Churches, held at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The federation budget for the current year is $73,206.30, of which $20,683.30 will be received from the Community Chest and other sources. Advance pledges of $11,000 have been received toward the $52,523 campaign goal.

Frustration Otherwise

All legislative efforts toward peace, security and domestic progress said the Arkansas Representative, will meet with frustration without Christian principles and, he added, we cannot win the battle against secularism unless we are united.

No city in the United States has a monopoly as the center of religious power and that gives Washington an opportunity to become the capital of the country's spiritual life as well as its political capital, he said. He praised the local churches for giving to Washington official life a "warm christian fellowship which makes us feel at home."

Dr. Peter Marshall, minister of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church and Senate chaplain, made a strong plea to members of all denominations to work together. Just as divergencies among families do not strain their bonds of relationship, he said, so with churches "it is sufficient that we agree on the fundamental things."

To Make Up Deficiency

Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the federation, said some $3000 of this year's budget was included to make up for a deficiency of that amount in the 1948 budget. This is the only item increasing this year's requirements, he said.

As the federation is being asked more frequently to provide religious services for various agencies, a chaplain-at-large will be appointed on October 1, Dr. Reissig said. A federation committee will work with a group from the Council of Church Women to study the federation's financial resources to determine how it can best fit the community's needs, he said.

O. Harold Folk, general chairman of the campaign, who presided, and Purcell Storey, director of the federation's department of business and finance and campaign director, also spoke on the drive.

Church Bans Grape Juice in Communion

London, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The Church of England's Convocation of Canterbury decided today that only the best grape wine should be used in the Holy Communion, and not plain grape juice.

By a vote of 82 to 44 it accepted a motion that communion wine should be "pure, fermented juice of grape—good and wholesome."

The Rev. M. B. Morgan argued the convocation should order only that the potion used be the best available, and asked: "If one were wrecked on a desert island, or if in the event of war we are unable to import suitable wine, what should we do then?"

Cries of "shame!" greeted him when he said he understood the Baptists insisted members of their church be teetotallers.

The Archdeacon of Stoke-on-Trent, supporting the motion, said: "Christ instituted the sacrament with the elements of bread and wine. Our ground is not that certain people have scruples about fermented wine. Our ground is our loyalty to Christ."

5 Churches Are Planned At Greenbelt

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

Greenbelt, Md., for nearly 12 years a community without a permanent church building, may soon have five churches to serve its population of more than 8000.

The green light was given to church construction last Tuesday when the Housing and Home Finance Agency approved bids made by five church groups for land in the community.

Formal action accepting the bids is expected from Public Housing Administrator John T. Eagan within a matter of days.

Greenbelt was erected by the Government as a model community in 1937. Since then, religious services have been held in the town theater and in the Center School.

Court Ruling Cited

When church leaders sought to obtain land for erection of church buildings, PHA officials said that they were unable to sell because of Supreme Court decisions prohibiting Federal aid to religion.

The first hope for the churchmen came late in October when the NHHFA asked PHA to prepare papers for advertising six sites for restricted use for churches or public libraries. Bids were submitted December 20, and the action last week virtually clears the path for construction.

The Community Church, which was organized in 1938 and has a membership of about 350, plans to begin construction this summer, according to George Scheaffer, chairman of the building committee. The church planned by the Community congregation will cost an estimated $75,000, he said.

Scheaffer said the church has already raised $22,000 and is in the midst of a two-year drive for funds. Associated with the Congregational Christian Church, the church may receive assistance from the denomination, Scheaffer said. The Rev. Eric T. Braund is pastor.

The Rev. Victor A. Dowgiello, pastor of St. Hugh's Catholic Church, said that the first aim of his congregation would probably be a building which could be used for a school and for worship. Greenbelt Catholic children must attend the overcrowded school in Berwyn at present, he said.

Father Dowgiello said he hoped plans could be completed during the winter months and construction begin sometime in the late spring. The 400 Catholic families in Greenbelt have been holding services in the town theater.

Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church is only two years old, and services have been held in a temporary frame building since it was organized, the Rev. Raymond Cooke, the pastor, said. He said the congregation probably will begin work on a permanent structure in about a year.

Rabbi Morris A. Sandhaus, spiritual leader of the Greenbelt Jewish Community Center, said the action of NHHFA has been a "great impetus." Members now have something substantial to work with and their enthusiasm for raising funds to build will be much greater, he said.

Rabbi Sandhaus stated that a small synagogue is planned by the congregation, with space for about 300 and a place for a Hebrew school and facilities for center activities.

New Pastor Preaches First Sermon Here

The Rev. Donald C. Irwin will preach his first sermon as pastor of Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church, 712 Randolph st. nw., at 11 a. m. Sunday. He will speak again at the 8 p. m. service.

Irwin

Mr. Irwin succeeds Dr. C. E. Hawthorne, who left the church in September for a pastorate in Iowa.

The new pastor is a graduate of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., and of Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological Seminary. He served as pastor of the Ninth Avenue United Presbyterian Church in Monmouth before becoming a chaplain with the Third Army. Mr. Irwin was in the Army for 38 months and in the European theater for 17 months. He was awarded the Bronze Star.

For the past three years he has been pastor of the Military Avenue United Presbyterian Church in Detroit. He is married and the father of three daughters.

Installation services will be held at the church on January 26 at 8 p. m.

Chapel Vicar Will Retire Next Week

The Rev. Eugene L. Henderson, 75, vicar of the Chapel of the Atonement, 604 56th st. ne., will retire from active service in the ministry next week.

Henderson

He will be succeeded by Quinland Gordon Reeves, who has been a special student at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., since transferring from the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mr. Henderson, who last year celebrated his golden wedding anniversary, this year is marking his fiftieth anniversary of service in the Episcopal Church. Born in Charlotte, N. C., he was one of the first two students graduated from King Hall Theological Seminary at Howard University in Washington in 1895.

He served in missions and churches in North Carolina before returning to Washington to become vicar of the Chapel of the Atonement in 1939.

His successor is a graduate of Wilberforce University, Wilberforce, Ohio, and served churches in Massachusetts before entering the Episcopal seminary. He will be ordained in the Episcopal Church in February at the Washington Cathedral by Bishop Angus Dun.

Russian Church Holds Yule Party Sunday

Members of St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox Church will have a traditional Yolka and Christmas party for the children at the Kenmore Hotel, 2108 16th st. nw., Sunday from 5 to 10 p. m.

Lutheran Film

"Answer for Anne," a Lutheran World Action film, will be shown at a meeting of the Luther League at 7 p. m. at Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle.

The churches will join official Washington in observing the Inauguration of President Truman when special prayers and sermons are given at services Sunday.

A three-man committee, with representatives of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, was formed to handle Inauguration events in the churches. Members of the committee are: Dr. Norman Gerstenfeld, rabbi of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, 822 8th st. nw.; the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, and the Rev. Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of First Baptist Church, 16th and O sts. nw., "the President's pastor."

Members of the committee sent letters to all of the churches in Washington expressing the hope that pastors would stress the Inauguration theme in their sermons and prayers.

The letter also called attention to the fact that the Freedom Train will be here during the Inauguration and pointed out that many of the documents on display are closely related to religious freedom. A hymn written for the Inauguration by Eskew, 1707 N st. nw., a member of the National Presbyterian Church, was also enclosed in the letter.

The hymn calls upon God to:

Strengthen his heart, whose heart must bear the burden
Of grave decisions, fraught with ill or good.
Counsel his mind; vouchsafe to him the guerdon
Of Thy unceasing, gracious fatherhood.

Dr. Pruden has announced that his sermon at 11 a. m., "Our Day of Destiny," will have an Inaugural theme. The choir has planned a service of patriotic music for the event.

At St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, 18th, between P and Q sts. nw., the Rev. Harold Bend Sedgwick, rector, will offer prayers for the President at 11 a. m. The late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt attended St. Thomas' Church.

Rezoning Action Is Rescinded

Montgomery County commissioners yesterday rescinded the approval they granted last Tuesday to a once-denied re-zoning sought by a county Democratic leader.

The meeting was called hastily after the commissioners' legal adviser, F. Barnard Welsh, ruled illegal their action in approving the petition once it had been denied.

Welsh said he made the ruling in response to requests by Commissioners Brooke Johns and Oliver W. Youngblood.

The re-zoning controversy centered on a piece of land owned by Lacy Shaw at Colesville and Shaw rds. in Meadowwood, for which commercial listing had been strongly opposed by home owners in the area.

Jamison Demands Vote

On December 21, the commissioners denied the request with Commissioner Charles Jamison absent. Last Tuesday he demanded his vote in the case, which was one of 25 acted on in his absence.

A new vote was taken then and the action was carried, 3 to 2, Jamison being joined by Commissioners Wesley I. Sauter and George Esworthy favoring. Commission President Johns and Commissioner Youngblood opposed.

Attending yesterday's meeting at which a reversal of a reversal was taken in effect, were Commissioners Johns, Jamison, Youngblood and Esworthy with Commissioner Sauter absent. All voted to rescind Tuesday's action.

J. Ernest Hawkins, clerk to the commissioners, said the most recent action had the effect of reaffirming the December 21 denial of Shaw's petition.

Shaw, a friend of Col. E. Brooke Lee, the county's long-time Democratic leader, desired the rezoning to erect a filling station, Commissioner Johns charged.

County Asked To Administer Welfare Funds

The City of Falls Church yesterday proposed county administration of welfare funds distributed within its boundaries as a solution of a jurisdictional question that arose when Falls Church became a city last summer.

At a joint meeting between the City Council and Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, the county supervisors agreed to send out January welfare fund checks due Falls Church cases, provided the city agrees to reimburse the county.

The county supervisors deferred action pending further study on a permanent solution of the problem.

Under the city-proposed plan, the city's share of State welfare funds would go directly to the county, and the city would pay the county its share of administrative costs. Although such a joint plan is not operating elsewhere in the city, the Virginia attorney general has approved it, it was said at the meeting.

Other jurisdictional problems also were discussed during the joint session.

These included:

1. Schools—City Attorney LaRue Van Meter asked the county to go on record as refusing to hand over the Falls Church schools to the county, as the basis of a friendly court suit to determine which should own the schools—city or county. The county supervisors, deciding that the school board should act on it first, deferred action until their meeting next Wednesday. The question of ownership of the schools is holding up a $7,500,000 school bond issue.

2. Annexation — Falls Church asked the county to work with it in determining population and property values in the area Falls Church is considering for annexation. The county has announced it will fight such a suit. County Board Chairman G. Wallace Carper said he didn't think the county has anyone on its payroll for such a purpose. The discussion then ended.

3. Financial Settlement.—Falls Church submitted a three-page resolution proposing two audits be made to determine how much of the county's bonded indebtedness the city should assume and how much tax money the county has received from Falls Church since its separation which should be returned to the city. This also was held up for further study.

Sparkman to Teach Sunday School Again

Senator John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) Sunday will begin his ninth year as a Sunday school teacher at Hamline Methodist Church, 4501 16th st. nw. He will speak before the adult department of the church at 9:45 a. m.

Postlude

Children Thrilled by Symphony

By Paul Hume

Nearly 4000 Washington school children heard the National Symphony Orchestra during the past week.

Howard Mitchell directed the orchestra in the first three of its school concerts. Tuesday they played in Gonzaga High School, Wednesday at Western, and Friday in Armstrong.

Mitchell listed a Beethoven overture, movements from a Borodin symphony, and excerpts from Khatchaturian's Masquerade Suite, and Milhaud's Suite Provencale. He also played Valse Triste by Sibelius, and a clever work by Rudolph Ganz, intended to illustrate the potentialities of the various instruments of the orchestra.

The youthful audiences responded to the playing with wild enthusiasm. They whistled, stomped their feet, clapped, and shouted approval. Their silence during the hushed moments of the Sibelius was a mark of their appreciation and of their respect for great music.

With his comments before the pieces on the program, Mitchell directs the listening of the young audiences in a way that tells them about music, its composers, and those who perform. The orchestra played well throughout the program and was asked to stand with the conductor when the applaue necessitated their participation.

The importance of young people's concerts cannot be stressed too much. Neither a symphony orchestra, nor the institution of music itself, can exist long if they do not stir up new followers among the youth of the day.

Compulsory X-Rays Urged For Teachers

Compulsory annual chest X-rays for District public school teachers was proposed yesterday by the rules committee of the Board of Education.

The committee, declaring X-rays essential to the health of both teachers and students, wrote the requirement into the rules of the board which the committee currently is revising. The full board must approve before the regulation goes into effect.

The board members voted against setting up a committee on athletics as a standing committee of the board, stating that athletics properly come under the jurisdiction of the committee on student activities.

The rules committee set October 1 as the deadline for teachers to file appeals from ratings after considering a request from Local 27 of the American Federation of Teachers that the present deadline of July 1 be advanced to December 15.

Spiritual Leaders Of 3 Faiths to Pray At Inauguration

Spiritual leaders of three faiths will deliver prayers at inaugural ceremonies at noon Thursday from the President's platform at the Capitol.

Dr. Edward H. Pruden, pastor of the First Baptist Church, frequently attended by President Truman, will give the invocation. Rabbi Samuel Thurman of St. Louis will offer a prayer just before the President takes the oath of office. The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Catholic Archbishop of Washington, will deliver the benediction.

"A fine time to be coming home —half-past January!"

American Too Much for C. U., 58-40

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

ONE DAY AT GREEN BAY, Johnny Blood was moving nicely with a punt he caught for the Packers and it was no novelty because he had been running back punts in the proleagues for 20 years. At the 40-yard line both his gain and his football career were terminated with some suddenness.

POVICH

"Among the things that hit me, besides a couple of big tackles, was a decision to quit," related Blood. "When I took too long getting up, I realized that pro football wasn't a 42-year-old's game. Life and limb suddenly became important to me."

One tackle made a logician out of Johnny Blood and he shed his shoulder pads for the physical safety of the post as Public Relations Director of the Packers. Jim Thorpe might have played more years of pro football than Blood, but Johnny is at least runner-up in that department. He played his first pro game in 1925, his last in 1945.

This week he is in Washington to take himself a wife, Miss Marguerite Streater of Alexandria, and then, at 45, he's going back to school as a major in psychology at the University of Minnesota. He hopes to be a practicing psychiatrist or a professor of psychiatry.

HE SPEAKS SOFTLY, though, of his work toward a degree in psychiatry. "It's fashionable these days to kid the psychiatrists. Like the one about the two psychiatrists who stepped into an elevator and heard the operator of the lift say 'good morning.' The first psychiatrist backed off into a corner and whispered gravely to the other, 'I wonder what he meant by that?'"

Johnny Blood isn't Johnny Blood at all, though. His marriage certificate will bear the name of John McNally. That sounds kind of strange, even to him, though it was the name he was born with and carried until his late teens when he suddenly took a day off from Notre Dame to play some semipro football in Minneapolis.

He needed an assumed name to protect his eligibility at Notre Dame and that was easy. Johnny and his buddy had just come from the Rudolph Valentino movie "Blood and Sand." He introduced himself as Johnny Blood. His chum took the name of Sand. Johnny never went back to Notre Dame. The next season he was playing for Duluth in the National Football League, and for the next 20 years he signed all his contracts "Johnny Blood."

WHILE HE WAS STARRING in the backfield at Duluth, at Pottsville and at Green Bay, he was Johnny Blood. When he signed as head coach and halfback with the Pittsburgh Steelers for 1936-37-38, it was Johnny Blood. Johnny Blood, not Johnny McNally, was elected to the pro league's All-Star backfield along with Red Grange, Ernie Nevers and Earl Clark in 1931. He admits McNally was a nice name to be born with, but . . .

He came along a bit too soon in the pro football business he admits. "I played for Duluth for two years for $75 a game and thought I was well paid," he said. "The kids getting out of school turn up their noses at less than $400 a game. By the time the Packers won three championships in a row, I had worked up to $135 a game in 1931. And then the next season I had to take a cut back to $125, on account of the depression."

In his time, Blood scored 224 points for the Packers and Pittsburgh, which label him as the fifth leading scorer of all-time in pro football. He still holds the record for longevity of service within the league. He thinks it is pretty nice to be remembered as the fourth man in a Grange-Nevers-Clark all-pro backfield.

HIS OWN FAVORITE football player is Bill Dudley, he says. "Grange could run better, Nagurski could hit the line better, a lot of fellows could run and kick better, but Dudley did the most things the best," says Blood. "He's a little fellow with big courage and a tremendous thinker. Four Bill Dudleys in a backfield would be the best backfield of all time."

His own best day in football, he says, was the day the Packers beat Detroit at Detroit. "We had a pass play from Arnie Herber to myself, but Curly Lambeau told me not to call it. But the temptation was too great, and I did. It missed, and Curly benched me. 'If we blow this one it's your fault,' he said.

"With five minutes to play, I went back into the game boiling mad enough to get fined if I had to, and called the same play. Herber threw to me for 65 yards and a touchdown that tied the score, and then we got the winning field goal. But while that pass was in the air, before I caught it, I can tell you I was no longer an accredited member of Curly Lambeau's Packers."

at the National Guard Armory.

Despite the loss of Barney Ewell, Herb McKenley, Mal Whitfield, Josh Tobey and Lloyd Duff, the sturdy field includes nine members of the United States Olympic team.

In all, representatives of 36 colleges, 7 independent clubs, six prep and high schools and one service outfit will take part in the busy 26-event program.

Exactly half of them are relay events and the top baton-passing event, Variety Club Invitation Mile, is scheduled to close out the program at 11 p. m.

Texans Favored

Texas A. & M., with three veterans of last year's crack quartet that won the Southwest Conference title, the Drake and Kansas Relays and the Los Angeles Coliseum meet, is favored to take it. The Aggies also have an excellent chance of bettering Michigan's 3:22.2 time in winning last year.

Seton Hall, East's top team last season and also loser of only one man, should press the Texans. Penn State and Villanova round out the select field.

Oddly, the top Olympic hero on hand isn't expected to cut much of a figure. Bob Mathias, 17-year-old Tulare, Calif., lad who won the decathlon championship, is entered in the high jump and will run a leg for Kiski Prep in the prep school sprint medley relay.

Mathias Wears No. 1

Mathias, the Sullivan Award winner, is honored as Contestant No. 1. He jumps an inch or 2 more than 6 feet. In the high jump, he will have to oppose Dave Albritton, perennial national champ who can better 6:07. Bradley's Jack Heintzman and Brown's Dick Phillips rate right behind Albritton.

Browning Ross, defending champ, will be the sentimental choice to win the mile, but Penn State's Gerry Karver has bettered 4.11 outdoors. Ross, slight Villanova athletes, set a District record last year when he arrived from New Orleans only three hours before the meet and promptly stepped the distance 4:13.7. Maryland's Bob Palmer, Southern Conference cross-country king, is entered in the five-man field.

Two of the Nation's top pole-vaulters have soared above 14-feet 6 inches, Richard (Boo) Morcum and Bob Richards. George Guida, Villanova's Olympic star, should show the way home in the fourman field in the Invitation 600.

Six local colleges, two high schools, a prep school and the Quantico Marines will have boys stepping in the fast company.

A SAVING CATCH—Ed Moffatt, husky American University player, grabs the ball and avoids falling into the laps of spectators in last night's American-Catholic game in A. U.'s gym. A moment after the photographer snapped this picture, Moffatt crashed into the cameraman but neither was hurt. American won, 58-40, for its fifth-straight conference win

Late Spurt Ices Game For Eagles

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Pressed for three quarters by Catholic's determined courtmen, American U. put on a 14-point spurt early in the fourth quarter to defeat the Cardinals, 58-40, in a Mason-Dixon Conference game last night.

A capacity crowd of more than 1200 witnessed the contest at American while several hundred other would-be ticket purchasers had to be turned away.

The triumph was America's fourth straight in conference competition against no losses. The defeat left Catholic with a 5—2 league record.

American held a slim 32—27 lead as the final ten-minute session began, but it was then that Fred Fling, Ron Garshag and Ed Moffatt began hitting.

The trio accounted for 14 points in less than three minutes while Catholic was able to score only one goal from the floor during that time.

Clever little Gene Szklarz, C. U. captain, tried to rally his mates, coming through with three baskets but the damage had been done.

Fred Fling's sparkling play seemed to take the tension off the tightened A. U. squad and burley Ed Moffatt, brother of G. W.'s Johnny, was the spearhead of the winning surge with three baskets.

Four American U. players scored in double figures. Garshag and Fling led the pack with 14 points apiece while Moffatt made 12 and Bob Lamon scored 10.

Jim Losty was best for the losers, bucketing 12 points, 10 before halftime which saw American on top by 23-19.

It was America's seventh victory in 10 starts this year and C. U.'s second defeat in 10 games.

In the preliminary, the American U. Jayvees defeated Catholic's junior varsity, 38-30. Joe Sella of Catholic, injured his ankle and was taken to the hospital for X-rays.

Stags Rout Jets; Zaslofsky Gets 27

Indianapolis, Jan. 14 (AP).—The Chicago Stags added to their thin lead in the Western division of the Basketball Association of America as they raced to an easy 88-61 victory over the Indianapolis Jets tonight.

Chicago started fast and took a 12-3 lead. The Jets gave the home fans something to cheer about as they caught up at 18-all at the end of the first quarter, but the Stags pulled away again to make it 43-36 at halftime.

Max Zaslofsky, Chicago's set shot expert, canned 10 field goals and seven free throws for 27 points.

Newhouser Gets $55,000

Detroit, Jan. 14 (AP).—Hal Newhouser, the Detroit Tigers' 27-year-old southpaw pitching star, came up with a new and different delivery today.

For the first time in his 10 years with the Tigers, Newhouser became the first player on the club to deliver his signed 1949 contract. Frequently he has been the last.

The salary figure wasn't announced, but Hal's 1949 pay check will be at least $55,000 and possibly as much as the $60,000 he earned two years ago. Last year he received an estimated $50,000.

As the only American League hurler to win 21 games last season, Newhouser signed for a "substantial raise" this morning after conferring for an hour with General Manager Billy Evans at Briggs Stadium.

Caps Try to Bounce Back Against Knicks Here Tonight

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The friendly confines of Uline Arena and the hostile New York Knickerbockers greet the return of the Washington Caps to the Basketball Association of America scramble tonight.

The Knick-Cap tussle, an 8:45 p. m. event, is the closest thing to a "crucial" game the pace-setting Caps have encountered this year. The Knicks, knocked off easily by the Caps in their only other meeting this season, are the Eastern Division's second place team.

But even if Coach Joe Lapchick's crew socks it to the Caps, the lead won't change hands. The Caps are comfortably perched in first place with six games between them and New York.

New York-Washington pro basketball games have consistently drawn well here and tonight's affair is expected to attract around 5000 customers.

The Caps in particular are looking forward to tonight's outing. It's their first start since Wednesday when they ran into a 106-92 pasting at the hands of the rejuvenated Bullets in Baltimore.

The local hot shots lost considerable face in that fracas as it was the second straight time the Bullets had mowed them down. Capt. Bob Feerick and company are eager to erase the memory of that nightmarish experience from the minds of their rooters here.

Sonny Hertzberg, a Knick castoff, will be in the Cap starting lineup and will propably see action most of the 48-minute way. Hertzberg has experienced a hot hand against the Knicks for the Caps since he was released two years ago.

Bones McKinney, suffering with a cold the past week, will be at the other forward; Kleggie Hermsen at center and Feerick and Freddie Scolari at guards.

Old Celt Lapchick will call on Carl Braun, his 14-point average forward, and John Palmer, a 12-point gunner, to start at forwards. Big Lee Knorek will battle Hermsen in the pivot with Sid Tannenbaum and Tommy Byrnes back court.

The 7:15 preliminary pits Capitol Radio Engineers against McKee Pontiac in a Uline Industrial League game.

Three Groups Trying to Buy Philly Eagles

Philadelphia, Jan. 14 (AP).—A small group of Philadelphia businessmen has made a definite financial bid for the Philadelphia Eagles football team in opposition to a syndicate headed by James P. Clark.

Arthur Rosenberg, vice president of a large grocery chain, heads the group. He said today he had sent a $25,000 check to Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League to show good faith.

Bell said the check was presented to him at the Racquet Club with a receipt to sign. The commissioner said he told the bearer to bring it to his office tomorrow and he would make the acknowledgement by letter.

Today's announcement was the first identification of one of the other groups in market for the NFL franchise other than Clark's syndicate of between 75 and 90 men. A third unidentified group also is reported to be interested.

Rosenberg declined to state the amount of the bid submitted by his group but it was reported in the neighborhood of the $250,000 price tag put on the club by Owner Alexis Thompson.

Thompson was reported to have conferred in New York today with General Manager Charley Ewart and Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale while Clark went over the matter here with his attorneys.

No formal announcement was expected to be made of the sale of the league champions until the circuit meets in Chicago next week. The league's approval is necessary before any deal can be completed.

[The United Press reported the "possibility that the Philadelphia Eagles professional football team may be sold tomorrow was revealed tonight by owner Alexis Thompson.

[He said he will meet with Clark at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Philadelphia, and that a deal may be completed then.

["I'm not sure, however," Thompson said. "I may have some sort of announcement by 5 o'clock tomorrow evening, and then again the deal may not even go through."]

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 14.—After two unsuccessful attempts, Georgetown University's hockey team broke into the winning column today, turning back Lafayette, 5-0.

While Goalie George Hamilton played his part to perfection, Dave Campbell and Paul Fitzgerald each rammed home two scores. Jerry Cassidy tallied the other Hoya goal.

Georgetown, loser to Williams, 6-0, and St. Nicholas, 9-4, moves on to Clinton, N. Y., for a game with Hamilton tomorrow.

Embry Goes to Bat for Colts' Existence in 'Skins' Office

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

After two years of glowering at one another from a distance, the Washington Redskins and Baltimore Colts will meet for the first time today.

Instead of a get-together on the gridiron, however, today's meeting of the National Football League and All-America Conference clubs will be staged in the tiny office of George Marshall, president of the Redskins.

There Colt President Jake Embry, who requested the meeting through a mutual friend of Marshall's, will fire the Colts' opening salvo in their last-ditch battle for existence.

From today's session Embry and his Baltimore delegation will head for Chicago and the AAC owners meeting at which peace proposals to be presented to the NFL are expected to be drafted. There and in the NFL confab later in the week, Baltimore's struggle to stay in major league football will be completed, for better or worse.

The Colts' position is one of the strangest in all of professional sports. Despite heavy losses in their two years in the AAC, Colt owners, now consisting of one Washingtonian and a group of Baltimore businessmen, insist on continuing in football.

As the country's two major gridiron leagues seek to end their cold war, with the 10-team NFL admitting Cleveland and San Francisco of the AAC to the senior league, Baltimore is the stumbling block. It's the thirteenth team and NFL says a schedule can't be worked out with 13 teams.

Whether Embry will make peaceable proposals today to the Redskins, who have been accused of being the stumbling block to their entry into the new setup, or come here in a scrapping mood remains to be seen. It should be an interesting interview, however. Marshall has indicated the press might be invited to sit in.

Marshall's own stand on the Baltimore situation, as expressed to Embry, should be just as interesting, though predicatable. He has been quoted as asking "half the value of the Redskins" from the Colts in return for a share of his territorial rights, a suggestion that met with Embry's angry "we won't pay a dime."

The Redskin boss is most likely to suggest that Embry leave the Colt future up to a vote of other N. F. L. owners. He knows a nonprofitable thirteenth club hasn't a chance with them.

Lions Lose 5th Straight, 5-3

The Washington Lions dropped their fifth straight American Hockey League decision last night, Springfield's Indians putting on a four-goal spree in the final period for a 5-3 verdict in Uline Arena.

While 1425 customers watched, the Lions also lost a chance to get out of the Eastern Division cellar.

A pair of goals by Center Kenny Schultz, and a third by Pat Wilson, gave the Lions a 3-1 edge going into the last period. Then a Gooden-McMurdy-Summerhill combination, which accounted for all but one of the Indians' points, went into action. In 18 seconds it tied the score and at 9:38 it put on the clincher.

Eagles Sued

Philadelphia, Jan. 14 (AP).—The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League today were sued in United States District Court for $18,565.37 by a former ticket sales manager and accountant.

Victor Ruby, employed by the Eagles from February 19, 1946, to October 6, 1947, charged the club with breach of contract. He listed the owners at the time of his employment as Alexis Thompson and John Reed Kilpatrick, president of New York's Madison Square Garden.

Ruby says he was engaged as ticket sales manager and accountant by Harry M. Thayer, then general manager of the club, under a five-year contract. He claims he was dismissed without cause after working only one year and eight months.

Tech Beats Chamberlain By 47 to 31

McKinley Tech's tall, well-rounded squad of 15 was too much for undermanned Chamberlain, and the Volts lost their second straight interhigh basketball game, 47-31, yesterday at the Tech gymnasium.

The aggressive floor play and shooting of Buddy Horrel and Joe Kolley kept Chamberlain in contention for the first 2½ periods. But when Horrel fouled out with 2:35 left in the third quarter, Tech pulled away.

Tech's Tony Sgro sank a corner set shot after five minutes to put Chamberlain behind to stay, 7-6. Tech led, 12-9, at the end of the first quarter, and 21-18, at the half. When Horrel fouled out, Chamberlain trailed, 27-23. Jeff Jackson's three field goals in the last quarter enabled Tech to widen the gap.

Kolley, a 5-foot, 9-inch sophomore, scored 11 points for Chamberlain to take scoring honors. Tech's Jackson tallied 8. Tech used three separate team units, and earned its second league win in three starts.

St. John's Tops Little Hoyas

St. John's Cadets pulled away to a 51-38 victory over Georgetown Prep yesterday in the first game of a Catholic High League basketball doubleheader before a capacity crowd of 2000 at the Catholic University gymnasium.

Don Kokes flipped in 17 points as he paced the Cadets into first place with their second league win. The Prepmen were behind all the way. They cut the St. John's margin to 30-26 in the third quarter, but successive field goals by Kokes, Bob McLinden and Joe Cardaci pushed the Cadets far into the lead.

In the second game, St. Anthony's defeated DeMatha of Hyattsville, 40-26. Larry Barry paced the winner with 13 points.

Field Goals By Hanback, Smith Win

George Washington High's Presidents of Alexandria ran their winning streak to seven games last night, as layups by Tom Smith and Don Hanback in the final 30 seconds gave them a 43-39 victory over Washington-Lee of Arlington at the W-L gym.

The Little Generals fought a stirring uphill battle after falling behind, 31-24, going into the last period. With two minutes left, W-L's Charlie Hall dropped in a foul shot to tie the score at 37-37, and set up the wild climax.

Smith slammed in a long set shot to put GW back on top, but a corner set shot by W-L's Jim Utterback tied it again at 39-all.

With 30 seconds to go, Hanback and Smith clicked with their field goals to win the game.

The loss was the second in nine games for the Little Generals, who led last night by Zeke Zimmerman's 11 points. Smith copped scoring honors for WG with 15.

As Dodgers Schedule Crackers

Talmadge, Klan Comb Laws Affecting Jackie, Campanella

Atlanta, Jan. 14 (AP).—A thorny triangle may be developing between Georgia's Governor, the Ku Klux Klan and two Negro baseball players for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Gov. Herman Talmadge and Klan Grand Dragon Dr. Samuel Green say they may check to see if Georgia's segregation laws will be violated if Second Baseman Jackie Robinson and Catcher Roy Campanella play against the Atlanta Crackers in exhibition games.

The Dodgers, including Robinson and Campanella, are scheduled to play the Crackers of the Southern Association, in three exhibitors, April 8, 9 and 10 in Atlanta.

Dr. Green said emphatically, "you can bet your life I'll look up the segregation law and investigate thoroughly. In my opinion it's illegal." Talmadge said the matter "probably will come to my attention later. I'll look into it then."

Officials of the Dodgers would make no comment following Dr. Green's statement.

Robinson, appearing on his nightly sports broadcast over Radio Station WMCA in New York, said:

"This is my reaction to the statement about the Ku Klux Klan. I will play baseball where my employer, the Brooklyn club, wants me to play.

"I don't know how far this objection can go, but I hope very much that fans in Atlanta, or all over America, will not allow this objection to cause a cancellation of the game."

Robinson was in the Dodger line-up last spring for an exhibition game in Asheville, N. C. He also played in Texas and Oklahoma. This year's exhibition series includes games in Florida, Texas, Georgia and North and South Carolina.

Law is Proposed To Ban Md. Reds

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14 (AP).—A request for a saw-toothed law to root out Maryland Communists and punish them was handed to Governor Lane today.

The bill, which would put subversive investigations into the hands of county-city grand juries with a special State assistant attorney general to help out, was part of a 115-page report filed by a commission headed by Frank B. Ober, Baltimore attorney.

Twenty-year prison terms and $20,000 fines are proposed for those who join organizations seeking overthrow of the government. Loyalty checks for all State, city and county employes are provided.

The commission was created at the special 1948 session of the General Assembly, which ordered preparation of a legislative program "to protect the democratic principles and ideals of this State."

The State adopted a constitutional amendment last October barring subversive persons from public office.

The committee acted on the premise that "communism is basically a treasonable conspiracy—not a political movement." It proposed that it be nade a felony to be a Communist or belong to any allied subversive organization.

Ober's group estimated there are only 2700 Communists in Maryland, but said it isn't the number that counts; it is what they are prepared to do in breaking up democratic government.

The Ober committee would rout out communism in this way:

1. Make it a felony for any one to seek overthrow of the government, to teach such tactics, or join a subversive organization after June 1, 1949. A stiff penalty of $20,000 fine or 20 years in prison, or both, is provided.

2. Make it a felony for any one to continue as a member of a subversive organization after next September 1. Penalty, $5000 fine or five years, or both.

3. Bar any convicted persons from public office or the right to vote.

4. Make it unlawful for any subversive organization "to exist or function in the State of Maryland."

5. Create a special assistant to the attorney general whose business it shall be to assemble any and all information about communism and deliver it to the State's attorney of any county or Baltimore City. The evidence will be handed to a grand jury for investigation.

6. Place the State police, Baltimore City police and all other enforcement officers at the disposal of the attorney general in assembling information about Communist activities.

7. Make it the duty of grand juries to look into and report on any subversive activities brought to their attention.

8. Require a "loyalty" check of all public employes and prospective public employes.

9. Make it necessary for every candidate for office to file an affidavit that he is not a subversive person.

10. Require State-aided private educational institutions to file reports on what they have done about communism before they get any money.

The committee said it realized that there should be protection against injustice or intimidation, so it hedged the bill with various backstops.

The attorney general would have to supervise the work of his special assistant, and the grand jury reports would have to go to the Governor.

"We must destroy communism without destroying Americanism," the report said.

The 15-man commission was composed of three members of the State Senate, Henry Balch, Wilmer C. Carter (sponsor of the creating resolution) and David K. McLaughlin; and three members of the House, Mrs. Leona M. Rush, Charles M. Bandiere and T. Raymond Burch.

Besides Ober, the citizen members were former Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore, John W. Avirett 2d, William C. Purnell and Morton E. Rome.

Police Board Weighs Charge Disability Is Nonservice

A Police Trial Board yesterday took under advisement charges that a 26-year-old police private suffers from a disability not incurred in the line of duty and therefore should not be permitted to remain on the force.

In one of the first cases of its kind, Pvt. Alton L. Highsmith of the Fourteenth Precinct heard witnesses testify that the dizzy spell and "blackout" he once experienced while on the police force are the result of childhood injuries and make him unfit for duty.

Highsmith's attorney and witnesses appearing in his behalf, contended that he was ill at the time, had not had sleep for a long period and suffered from heat the day the attack occurred.

Slumped Over Wheel

According to testimony on August 21, 1948, Private Highsmith, who had been on the police force 13 months, suddenly grew rigid and then slumped unconsciously over the wheel of the scout car he was driving while cruising with his companion, Pvt. Richard G. Long, in the 1000 block of Ridge rd. se.

Private Long pulled him out of the driver's seat and took him to Gallinger Hospital. He regained consciousness at the hospital and was released. Later in the day he was examined by Dr. Fred Williamson, member of the board of police and fire surgeons.

After hearing a history of Highsmith's childhood that revealed he had been knocked unconscious on two occasions because of falls, the board of surgeons sent him to a psychiatrist and neurosurgeon for further diagnosis.

Private Highsmith returned to work but was taken from scout car duties and placed on a beat.

Pvt. Highsmith Pvt. Watson

pending results of the additional diagnoses. He was placed on sick leave December 17, 1948.

Abnormal Patterns

The two specialists who examined Highsmith testified that an electro-encephlogram test showed abnormal brain wave patterns and that his attack could have been an epileptic convulsion caused by his early injuries.

Highsmith, a Navy veteran, admitted he had suffered dizzy spells and saw bright flashes while on duty in the Pacific. He said he worked as a welder and cutter aboard a repair ship and blamed the bright torches for this condition.

Highsmith, who is married and lives at 507 10th st. se., was continued on sick leave until the board reaches a decision.

In an earlier case, the board took under advisement charges against Pvt. James C. Watson of the Traffic Division, that on two occasions he failed to appear in the Traffic Court as a witness.

Atom Loyalty Check 'Leak' Is Deplored

By The Associated Press

Dr. Karl T. Compton said yesterday it was "very improper" that "anything got out" about recommendations of the Atomic Security Board headed by Owen J. Roberts, former associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Compton, a member of the board, made this assertion when he was asked if the board had objected to clearance of Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, to handle confidential atomic data. He was questioned after a White House call.

President Truman vigorously defended Dr. Graham at a news conference Thursday and said he had complete confidence in him. The North Carolina educator had received clearance in an order from the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dr. Compton, former president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said "I can't understand how anything got out about recommendations." He added "it is very improper that anything did get out."

He would not say what action was taken with reference to Dr. Graham, "But if I thought in the future I were going to serve on a commission where that sort of thing was going to come out—I would think twice before serving."

Compton called to invite President Truman to attend and speak at an MIT convocation March 31-April 1. The ceremonies will accompany formal inauguration of Dr. James Rhyne Killian, as Compton's successor as president of the university on April 2.

Radio Commentator Fulton Lewis had said the AEC clearance of Dr. Graham was granted over recommendations of the security board.

the bench. If leaders have their way they will be men who, like Walter, lack a flair for publicity and headline hunting.

Sidetracking moves to abolish the committee, the leadership reportedly is bent on "strengthening" the group by correcting the two chief criticisms of the expiring GOP-controlled unit (1) manhandling of witnesses and evidence and (2) fanfare publicity.

By appointing trained lawyers with "good" party records, the men doing the committee-picking think they can accomplish through personnel changes alone reforms in committee procedure some think long overdue.

At least one "Dixiecrat" member and possibly two may be dropped from the committee, although other reasons than the ugly word "purge" may be assigned to the shifts.

A rule adopted by the group, barring any chairman of a major standing committee from serving on another House committee, would automatically remove Representative John Rankin (D., Miss.).

Unconfirmed reports circulated last night that another member who ran on the States Rights ticket, Representative F. Edward Hebert (D., La.) may not be reassigned.

Should neither Rankin nor Hebert be returned to the committee, Democrats will have three vacancies to fill, presumably with legally trained party regulars, instead of the one spot opened up by the 5-to-4 party margin of control.

The four Democratic members of the old committee were all Southerners. The reshufflers may bring in members from both the East and West.

Two Southern Democratic holdovers appear certain. Both have legal backgrounds. Definitely slated for chairman is Representative John S. Wood (D., Ga.), formerly of Georgia's Blue Ridge judicial circuit.

Another hold-over will be Representative James H. Peterson (D., Fla.), former Lakeland, Fla. city attorney.

Completing all party assignments save those on the Un-American Activities unit, the House Democratic Committee on Committees will wind up its work today and report to a House Democratic caucus Monday.

House Republicans, after announcing all other GOP assignments, were having their own troubles filling vacancies on the spy-hunting group. Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr. (Mass.) said Republican appointments to the committee will be delayed until next week.

Of the five Republican members of the old committee, two were defeated for reelection and one, Karl Mundt (S. Dak.), was elected to the Senate. That leaves two GOP vacancies and these two carry-overs—Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) and Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.).

There have been reports that Thomas, facing tral for conspiracy and fraud in connection with an alleged scheme to collect salary kick-backs from his congressional employes, may not be returned to the committee.

Mrs. Keleher Loses Suit

accustomed to spend $3500 a month including her $165 a month Woodley Park Towers Apartment, $350 a month for food and an equal amount for transportation.

A husband has the responsibility to support and maintain his wife.

Mrs. Keleher said her debts since the separation have mounted to $80,000, including $20,000 for jewelry she has on order.

The judge said that except for a short period Keleher hasn't supported his wife since 1946.

"Even though the plaintiff took the money from the safe deposit box the funds will sometime have become exhausted, as a matter of mathematics," said the judge in ruling that maintenance was required of Keleher.

The judge did not comment on Mrs. Keleher's assertions that her spouse has operated as a gambler in this area. She had testified concerning a headquarters in Mount Rainier, but police there deny that it is now in operation.

The nine-day trial concluded after vitriolic charges and countercharges were flung by the lawyers at both husband and wife in final arguments.

At times, luxuriously dressed and weary Mrs. Keleher was in tears, Chic Mrs. Dorothy Blake, the suntanned 44-year-old woman whom Mrs. Keleher accuses of stealing Keleher's love, also wept. But Keleher kept a poker face.

Mrs. Keleher's lawyer, James J. Laughlin, accused Keleher of being the self-asserted "kingpin" of Washington's gambling fraternity and with an income up to $40,000 a month. Laughlin also accused Keleher of conducting an affair in various parts of the country with Mrs. Blake, who he said was "shameless" and "without morals."

Say They Look Up to Him

"When the small fry of Washington's gambling fraternity meet Keleher, I have no doubt they take off their hats. They look up to him," said Laughlin.

He added, "As for Mrs. Blake, she can't even tell a plausible lie."

Keleher's lawyer, Alvin L. Newmyer, accused "the other side" of being "headline happy" of trying to "vilify" the defendant. He said that Mrs. Keleher was "bludgeoning this man into forking over more funds by proclaiming to the public that he was not in a business which the law recognizes."

"Her words were for the public press and not based on any support in testimony," Newmyer said.

Judge Tamm said he was not relying on the interpretation the lawyers gave the testimony. He said that much of the evidence allowed into the case had proved to be hearsay, irrelevant and incompetent.

Mrs. Keleher, said the judge, contradicted herself throughout her appearance on the witness stand.

Better Housing Is Promised

tinued home ownership will be encouraged," he added.

Advantages listed by Grant and other officials:

Releveloped, the Northeast area will provide housing for three times the present 2000 inhabitants.

Proposed improvements and increased valuation of land will increase present values six to eight times.

It is hoped to hold rents to $13 a room plus utilities, or $38.50 a unit with utilities, whichever is the lower.

John Nolen, jr., planning director of the NCPPC, and William H. Cary, jr., head of the District Health Department's Bureau of Public Health Engineering, presented the portions of the program they worked on. The three presented a 30-page report with illustrative charts outlining the program as proposed by the NCPPC.

To start work on Marshall Heights, a new appropriation by Congress for the Redevelopment Land Agency will be required. The bulk of the work would be carried on in 1951 and 1952.

The proposed plans call for 350 single-family detached homes and 950 semidetached structures, thus increasing the residential capacity of the 180-acre tract to 6000 persons—4000 more than the present population.

In addition land will be set aside for erection of a school and playground to supplement the Nalle School, now under construction; for two park areas; a shopping section and churches.

The District Redevelopment Act of 1945 calls for an attack on the District's slums by buying up such areas and converting them to respectable, tax-producing sections.

At present, 86 per cent of the homes in the area bounded by East Capitol st., Central and Southern aves., Benning rd. and 49th st. ne., should be demolished or completely rehabilitated, according to the planners' report. Spending for sewers, water lines and street improvements would be a waste of tax funds for the most part, the report said. Only 30 per cent of the 511 buildings there now have water and sewer service, according to the report.

The present average assessed valuation of the area is 3 cents per square foot. Nearby areas average 8 cents a square foot. Redevelopment is expected to increase the present valuation by six to eight times through increased valuations and improvement of vacant land.

Just how little tax revenues are derived from the slum area now is shown by figures indicating less than half the cost of schools for the children of the area is met by taxes. The remainder of municipal services receive nothing for the section.

Since about 65 per cent of the families there earn $2310 or less a year, they are considered low income and under the Redevelopment Act must be provided with low rent or low cost housing.

The hearing was recessed for reopening at a later date, probably in February, and General Grant invited community spokesman to meet with him and his staff on individual points of the plan if they so desired.

of information obtained by wiretapping as evidence in court.

"The entire proposed bill has been drafted to serve the needs of the Departments of the Army, the Air Force, the Navy and Justice in the successful discharge of their responsibility to protect and improve the internal security of the Nation," Clark said in his letter of transmittal.

"The swift and more devastating weapons of modern warfare, coupled with the treacherous operations of those who would weaken our country internally, preliminary to and in conjunction with external attack, have made it imperative that we strengthen and maintain an alert and effective peacetime vigilance."

The Attorney General's recommendations on the statute of limitations comes on the heels of a lengthy investigation by the House Un-American Activities Committee and other congressional groups on the leakage of confidential documents from the State Department.

The committee's 1948 spy hunt had centered about the loss of documents from the State Department during the late 1930s.

Officials have said that some of the alleged offenses could not be prosecuted because of the lapse of time.

Alger Hiss, former State Department official accused of passing out secret Government documents to a Communist spy ring, was not indicted on that charge, but on a perjury charge. He was accused of falsely swearing in a recent appearance before a New York grand jury that he did not give out any documents.

The Hiss indictment followed a long running fight between the Justice Department and the House Committee. The committee accused the department of lethargy in prosecuting cases, and the department accused the committee of interfering with the orderly processes of justice.

Other proposals advanced in the Clark bill are:

A requirement that persons trained in espionage or sabotage by a foreign country must register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act. Failure to register would be a continuing offense, thus removing it from any statute of limitations.

Reenactment of the wartime law providing a $5000 fine and one year imprisonment for violation of any regulations or orders issued by the Secretary of the Navy for the protection or security of vessels, harbors and waterfront facilities.

8 Veterans Returned by House GOP To D. C. Unit

Only New Member Is Rep. James; Democrats Delay Making Selections

House Republicans yesterday assigned eight veteran members of the House District Committee to continue service with the group, and added one freshman member, Representative Benjamin F. James (R., Pa.), to the committee's minority line-up.

The members who will continue serving with the District groups are Representatives George J. Bates (R., Mass.), Sid Simpson (R., Ill.), J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.), Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.), Henry O. Talle (R., Iowa), A. L. Miller (R., Neb.), James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.), and John J. Allen, jr. (R., Calif.).

Was Town Commissioner

Representative James, before his election to Congress last November, had served some eight years as a member of the Board of Commissioners of Radnor Township in Pennsylvania. He had also served four terms in the Pennsylvania State Legislature.

He is a veteran of the First World War and is former president and now chairman of the board of the Franklin Printing Co., founded in 1728 by Benjamin Franklin, for whom Representative James is named. It is the oldest printing concern in the Western Hemisphere.

Democratic members of the House District Committee have not yet been announced by the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee who make the assignments to other standing committees.

Contrast With Senate Situation

Reassignment of eight Republican members to serve on the District Committee was in sharp contrast to the decision on Republican assignments to the Senate District Committee. None of the six Republican Senate District committee members has previously served on that committee.

Reason for the contrast lies in the different rules of the House and Senate. House rules permit both majority and minority party members to serve on one major committee plus the District Committee. Senate rules permit majority members to have two committee assignments, while majority party members can have two major committees plus the District assignment.

There is a vacancy for one more Republican to fill on the House District Committee. The committee lineup was set at 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans.

Four Jailed On Numbers Conviction

Four numbers writers were given prison terms yesterday after conviction in District Court.

They are Fred Makin, 40, of 718 Alabama ave. se., given four months to a year and a day; William H. Foster, 58, of 5406 Nash st. nw., four months to a year and a day; Frank E. Brown, 38, of 622 Massachusetts ave. nw., 5 to 15 months, and Viola Smith, 43, of 1005 1st st. nw., six months.

Two other numbers writers received probation. They are Alma Gardner, 22, of 937 N st. nw., fined $100 and given three years' probation, and Henry Williams, 41, of 1636 10th st. nw., two years' probation and $150 fine.

Convicted of having carnal relations with a 12-year-old girl, William T. Floyd, 38, of 1131 New Jersey ave nw., received three to nine years in prison.

Amos S. Tinker, 20, of 1412 Corcoran st. nw., received one to three years for housebreaking and larceny of $600 and clothing last November from the Roosevelt Hotel rooms of three Washington Redskin football players. Tinker was for a short time a houseman at the hotel.

Inauguration Invitations Misleading

of the invitation "undoubtedly implies that it does warrant something in the nature of a ticket." He added, however, that it was done according to "general custom."

Most of the formal invitations were sent out by Neal Roach, of the National Democratic Committee, Hildreth said.

A number of persons who received invitations wrote the committee asking if they were entitled to be admitted to reserved-seat affairs, Hildreth said. Those who did so before tickets were sold out received reservations, he said.

Hildreth said letters of explanation have been sent only to those persons who answered invitations.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), chairman of the National Democratic Committee, said he feels there will be no embarrassment caused by possible ambiguity in the formal invitations.

"Those who were invited and replied will be taken care of," he asserted.

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday sent to the House floor a resolution to exempt all ticket sales to Inaugural ceremonies from Federal tax.

Acting Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.) said it will probably be brought before the House on Monday.

State Society Dances Get Under Way Here

Massachusetts will be represented in the Inaugural Parade by Governor Dever, a float and the 105-piece St. Joseph's Boys Band, the champion Catholic Youth Organization band.

On Thursday evening Governor Dever and his party from the Bay State will hold a reception and buffet supper at the Admiral Club, 1640 Rhode Island ave. Honorary and active members of the society are invited to attend. Invitations may be obtained through Miss Mary Cloonan at National 3120, extension 649, or through Mrs. Dennis Sullivan at Hobart 1900.

FOR AN IMPORTANT PERSON—Guess who got an invitation yesterday to attend the Inaugural ceremonies Thursday? Yes, President Harry Truman, who noted in the top, right corner: "Weather permitting, I hope to be present"

Inauguration Exhibit Opens At Archives

President Truman, receiving a formal invitation to his own inauguration Thursday, wrote across it in bold handwriting, "Weather permitting, I hope to be present."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, four times elected President, wrote across his invitation to the 1941 inaugural, "Tell them I will go if I can arrange it."

President Roosevelt's invitation is among the exhibits of material on "Elections and Inaugurals of the Past" opening at 8:45 a. m. today at the National Archives.

At a preview yesterday afternoon Dr. Wayne C. Grover, Archivist of the United States and a vice chairman of the current Inaugural Committee, greeted Melvin C. Hildreth, veteran committee chairman, and other vistors.

The exhibit is being presented as part of the program to entertain visitors during Inauguration Week, Dr. Grover said, and will be open from 1:30 to 5 p. m. Sunday and 8:45 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Saturday except for the period of the parade Thursday when the building will be closed.

The exhibit begins with the first election of President Washington and extends to the present with the official tally of electoral votes cast. The tally was lent by the United States Senate for the exhibit. Other material is from the National Archives and the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park, N. Y.

In addition to various tallies of electoral votes, amendment to the Constitution affecting voting records of official White House functions and inaugural committee records are among the material shown.

Programs, tickets, and police passes also are among the material on display.

The exhibit will continue through February. The World War II surrender documents also are on display in the exhibition hall.

Grab Brings Nab

Nickels Go Trickle, Put Boys in Pickle

It was nickel, nickel, nickel, trickle, trickle, trickle along 14th st. at Florida ave. ne. yesterday afternoon.

Two teen-age thieves, it seems, snatched one big bag containing 19 little bags of nickels, which was exactly 16 little bags of nickels too heavy for two youths fleeing from two adults.

So the young thieves kept running and kept jettisoning one bag of nickels after another until one was caught and the other escaped with the lightened loot, three bags of nickels.

To begin at the beginning: Louis Platt, 42-year-old collector for the Spacarb (coke) Vending Machine Co. Inc., had just loaded 19 nickel bags into one nickel bag in his truck parked in an alley at the rear of the company's office, 419 13th st. ne.

Along came two boys and asked if Platt had any "old boxes" and Platt said "no" and added as an afterthought, "Go away."

Whereupon one boy reached a long hand into the truck and then the other boy did likewise and between them they latched onto the big bag loaded with 19 little bags, each of which contained $5 to $7 worth of nickels.

And off they ran and after them ran Platt, screaming for help, which came in the persons of two company employes, James C. Phipps, 28, and Robert L. Knight, 30, who jumped into a car and the chase was joined.

The boys kept running and running, dropping nickels by the bagful.

Amazed but honest citizens retrieved the jettisoned bags, 16 of them, worth between $80 and $112, as one 16-year-old was caught and the other vanished, with three little bags, worth $15 to $21.

Mrs. Gizycka 'Frozen Out,' Lawyer Says

Tax on Patterson Estate Precludes Share, He Holds; Trial Set Feb. 2

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Because of the way in which the Patterson will was drawn, Mrs. Felicia Gizycka may not receive even the $25,000 yearly specified in her mother's will, her attorneys charged yesterday in District Court.

Attorney William A. Roberts said that despite the previous estimate ($16,586,571) of the estate left by the late Mrs. Eleanor M. Patterson, counsel for Mrs. Gizycka—who seeks to break the will—now "conservatively" estimate the estate at $17,690,000.

But, he said, "preliminary estimates" indicate that Federal taxes alone will take more than $10,500,000 of this.

Under the contested will, he declared, "to preserve the tax-exempt status" of Mrs. Patterson's Washington Times-Herald and other specific bequests, this taxation will preclude any payment to Mrs. Gizycka, "to any charity, or to any of the charitable beneficiaries and pensioners of the decedent."

Trial Set For February 2

That her daughter would have been so "deprived," Roberts charged, "must have been known" to Mrs. Patterson and those who helped draw the will.

District Judge Alexander Holtzoff, however, after listening to these and other arguments in which Mrs. Gizycka's attorneys sought to gain "at least" a 10-week postponement of the contest, set trial of the case for February 2, when a new jury would be available.

The trial date previously had been set for January 18, and pretrial hearings have twice been postponed. Judge Holtzoff set the new pre-trial date for January 28, and said he would "not look favorably" on further delays. Roberts said the trial would take 30 to 60 days.

Judge Holtzoff said the tax question was not an issue before him "although it may have a bearing on the final accounting," and that Mrs. Gizycka already has been given "more than sufficient time to secure evidence."

William E. Leahy, counsel for the executors named in the will, termed Roberts' estimate of the tax situation "purely speculative," and a matter which may be before the courts for "four or five years."

Leahy ridculed any intimidation or wrongdoing in drafting the will, which he said was prepared by one of the most reputable law firms in the Nation. He repeated a charge that his opponents are engaged in a "fishing expedition."

Roberts said one of the reasons he sought more time in the case is that he believes Mrs. Patterson made "other testamentary documents in addition to those discovered and filed."

In the year before her death last July 24, he said, she consulted "not less than five different attorneys in connection with the drafting of new and different testamentary documents" which have not been filed.

Roberts submitted a list of at least 14 persons from whom he seeks to take additional depositions, among them Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune and a cousin of Mrs. Patterson, and former Senator Burton K. Wheeler. Wheeler now practicing law here, was identified by Roberts as once employed by Mrs. Patterson "for the preparation of a will."

Roberts said he also seeks a deposition from three former Times-Herald executives now in Florida and Illinois.

One of these is a former advertising executive, he said, who can testify to "extraordinary action" by Mrs. Patterson in her conduct of the newspaper. Among these, he said, were "excluding certain types of advertising" when she was "intoxicated," and firing men in "bursts of eccentricity."

Appraisal Filed

Leahy countered that any question of Mrs. Patterson's ability to conduct her business is swept away by the fact that she turned the Times-Herald into a profitable newspaper, "one of the outstanding newspapers in the country."

Yesterday, a statement filed in the Register of Wills office showed a listing by court-appointed appraisers of a $2,216,964.48 value placed on Mrs. Patterson's personal property in the Washington area alone.

This includes jewelry, household effects, stocks, bonds, books and livestock at her Dower House estate in Upper Marlboro, her 15 Du-Pont Circle mansion, Riggs Bank, etc. It does not include any cash, real estate, trust-fund holdings, or personal property in Sarasota, Fla. or Wyoming, but does include $348,148.35 for stock and fixtures of the Times-Herald.

A separate appraiser's statement listed $15,033 worth of household effects in Mrs. Patterson's estate, Harbor Acres, at Port Washington, Long Island. This estate, which includes a swimming pool, servants' quarters, etc., is among the property which Mrs. Patterson bequeathed to her daughter. Mrs. Gizycka, in addition to the $25,000 a year for life.

The money bequests to Mrs. Gizycka, however, are to be derived from Mrs. Patterson's interest in the McCormick-Patterson Trust, and this interest, Attorney Roberts declares, may be wiped out to meet taxes.

Mrs. Patterson's share in the trust, yet undisclosed in money value, is described as the largest item in her estate. Roberts said the trust's assets include the "Chicago Tribune, the New York Daily News, steamship lines, pulp and paper production facilities, and a vast number of other important interests."

Intruder With Butcher Knife Routed From Bedroom by Girl

A 27-year-old Government girl yesterday fought off an attacker who invaded her bedroom with a butcher knife.

The young woman, Miss Mary E. Woods, who is employed in the personnel division of the State Department, received a severe slash on her right hand during the struggle.

Immediately after the incident, police arrested David W. Garris, 21, at his home, 3227 Prospect ave. nw., as he huddled in bed fully clothed.

Miss Woods, a Smith College graduate and former Wave lieutenant, occupies a basement apartment at 3519 Prospect ave. nw., which is across the street from the home of Defense Secretary Forrestal.

She was awakened at about 12:20 a. m., 45 minutes after she had retired, by a noise in her bedroom. She saw the figure of a man dimly outlined.

"Who are you? . . . What do you want?" she cried out.

"Don't scream or I'll kill you," the man threatened.

He left the bedroom briefly, then returned carrying a large butcher knife. Miss Woods had jumped from her bed. He made an indecent proposal. She ran toward the telephone and he lunged at her.

Miss Woods put up her right hand to ward off the knife. She grabbed the blade of the knife and tore it from the grasp of the intruder.

They wrestled and during the struggle the top of Miss Woods' pajamas was partially torn from her. She was screaming.

The intruder then dashed out of the apartment. He was seen escaping by Miss Woods' landlord, Roy McGuinnes, and his wife, Eleanor, who had been roused by the young woman's screams. He was last seen jumping over the picket fence which inclosed the Forrestal home.

When police arrived, Miss Woods told them she believed her assailant was the brother of a man who had done odd jobs for her.

Police Pvts. L. J. Land and S. P. Smith of the Seventh Precinct went to Garris' home, three blocks distant, and arrested him. When arrested, they said, he had bloodstains on his clothing.

He was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, housebreaking and assault with intent to commit sodomy.

Because of his criminal record, Judge George D. Neilson of Municipal Court held him in $15,000 bond for action of the grand jury.

The high bond was recommended by Assistant United States Attorney Andrew J. Howard who pointed out to the court that Garris has a substantial record as a juvenile.

Howard said that on June 10, 1947, Garris was sentenced and served six months for housebreaking and threats. He was charged with petty larceny in a gun last Christmas Day.

On the latter charge, Judge Neilson placed Garris on probation and suspended sentence of a $200 fine or 180 days in jail. Howard recommended probation at that time, explaining that Garris' mother had assured him he would leave the city. When Garris was arraigned yesterday, Judge Neilson revoked the probation.

Miss Woods was treated for the knife wound at Georgetown University Hospital.

Unlicensed Driver Given $400 Fine

A used-car sales executive was fined $400 yesterday and placed on a year's probation for second-offense driving after revocation of his permit.

He is Julius Rosenberg, 38, of 1221 Rock Creek Ford rd. nw. He is connected with the Tip Top Motor Sales Co., 916 Taylor st. nw.

Judge Aubrey B. Fennell imposed sentence after a Municipal Court jury trial. He also suspended a 30-day jail sentence.

Rosenberg was arrested near 13th st. and Fort Stevens dr. nw. by police in December who were curious about dealer's tags on his automobile. Rosenberg contended his wife was driving and that he was merely a passenger.

The defendant's record showed that his license was revoked in 1928 for reckless driving and restored in 1931. In 1936 is was suspended for 15 days for speeding and it was revoked for speeding again in 1937. It was restored in 1938 and suspended in 1946 for 30 days for failing to yield the right of way. In 1947 it was revoked for speeding more than 45 miles an hour and has never been reinstated.

He appeared in June, 1948, in Traffic Court and was given a $100 fine for driving on the revoked permit.

The prosecutor in yesterday's case was Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Lowther who declined to recommend leniency.

Triggerman Electrocuted For Slaying Electrician

'Extrovert' Smiles As Mask Is Put On; Murder Occurred In Holdup Attempt

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

Shirley Harris, 25, triggerman in the 1947 sidewalk holdup-slaying of a father of four, died in the electric chair at the District Jail yesterday.

Harris' victim, Frank C. Kelly, a Government electrician, was fatally shot in the back when he started to flee after a vain attempt to knock the revolver from Harris' hand, it was brought out in District Court trial testimony. The murder occurred during the attempted holdup in the 2500 block of 11th st. nw., the night of March 11, 1947.

Harris, described by jail officials as "sort of a happy, smiling, extraverted type who probably never had an abstract thought in his life," entered the death chamber at 10:03 a. m. yesterday.

He appeared composed, but for a moment a self-conscious smile played over his face as he took his seat. He was wearing an open blue shirt and denim trousers.

Family Claims Body

Within two minutes he had been strapped down and masked, and the switch turned on. At 10:07 it was turned off, and six minutes later Dr. Paul Zukerman, assistant medical officer for the jail, pronounced him dead.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald also briefly examined Harris, who had worked around hotels and restaurants, or at shoe repairing, and had 12 or more arrests in his record since he was 13 years old.

Following the execution, Harris' body was turned over to the morgue, where it was claimed by an undertaker for the family, which includes a widowed father, three brothers and five sisters.

Harris' family visited him for the last time the preceding afternoon.

That night he ate with enjoyment the chicken dinner he had requested, walked up and down the cell range for exercise, and told Capt. Benjamin Sweeney, who was in charge of the night shift, "I'm feeling fine."

Four Eggs for Breakfast

Yesterday morning he ate a hearty breakfast which included orange juice, milk, four scrambled eggs and sausage.

He heard the death warrant read by Col. Curtis Reid, superintendent of the District Jail, and talked at length with the family pastor, the Rev. C. T. Murray of the Vermont Avenue Baptist Church.

Harris asked that for the benefit of his family the funeral service not to exceed 20 minutes, and said he was perfectly willing to die.

He received communion, asked Divine forgiveness of his sins, and then the two joined together in singing an old hymn, "Cheer Up, My Brother."

Harris was also attended by the Rev. James L. Pinn, District Jail chaplain, and two Department of Corrections chaplains, the Rev. A. B. Sauro of the Dominican House of Studies and the Rev. Don Shaw.

Harris' last chance for life faded January 1, when President Truman turned down a plea for clemency, while commuting to life imprisonment the death sentences imposed on two others involved with Harris in the murder.

Former Landlady Fined $250 for Rent Act Violation

A 45-year-old former landlady was fined $250 yesterday for failing to apply for rent ceilings for a rooming house she operated.

She is Mrs. Floria Taylor of the Dunbar Hotel. The rooming house was at 630 G st. se.

Judge George D. Neilson criticized her act as "gouging and chiseling of innocent tenants."

She was convicted by a Municipal Court jury of violating the District Emergency Rent Control Act which orders landlords to apply for and comply with rent ceilings.

Mrs. Taylor received two weeks in which to pay the fine.

Area News in Brief

CTC Finds Owners Of Most Lost Items

Mrs. M. S. Ward and her two assistants in the Capital Transit Co.'s lost and found department find the rightful owners for most of the items left by passengers on buses and streetcars.

For instance, among the 19,955 articles turned in during 1948, they returned to claimants $17,550.30 of the $18,460.66 in cash dropped during rides; all of the $11,743.86 in checks, bonds and other securities; 3380 out of some 4000 umbrellas, and a great many gloves, keys, compacts, crutches, sports equipment, dentures, auto tires and chains and artificial limbs.

But there was one item of lost property turned in on a sunny day in September that was not returned to the owner. Capital Transit didn't even look for the owner, in fact. The lost item was a package of spoiled fish.

"It was disposed of quickly," says the report of Ernest Boyd, CTC superintendent of transportation.

Also taken under advisement by the Zoning Appeals Board was a request by the Chevy Chase junior College, 6410 Connecticut Avenue, to erect a $50,000 classroom building. Attorney R. Duncan Clark said the building would be a two-story colonial-type brick structure to house seven chemistry, biology, and some home economics classrooms and laboratories.

Bill Proposes Boost in D. C. Income Taxes

Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.) said yesterday he would seek to solve the District's revenue problem with a sweeping revision of the local income-tax law.

Klein is sponsoring a House bill which would broaden the District income-tax law to cover many thousands of persons who now escape the local levy.

His bill calls, too, for a stiff increase in District income-tax rates.

The tax law would be broadened to apply not only to persons domiciled in the District, who now pay, but also to those who maintain a place of abode in the District for seven months or more in the tax year.

Present District income tax law exempts from the levy the official salaries of Federal employes here who have a legal domicile in one of the States.

The bill would also eliminate the present tax on unincorporated businesses in the District.

Klein also introduced anew his bill to make day care centers for children a permanent District activity. The centers have been operated here under year-to-year authority granted by Congress. Under present law the care center program would expire June 30

Other bills reintroduced by Klein would (1) let the District have daylight saving time every summer, (2) establish a fair trade practices law for the liquor business in Washington and (3) let the District license certain electricians without examination.

New rates under the Klein income tax bill would be 2 per cent on the first $2000 of taxable income, 3 per cent on the next $3000, 4 per cent on the next $5000, and 5 per cent on taxable income over $10,000. Present rates are 1 per cent for the first $5000. of taxable income, increased by one half of 1 per cent each succeeding $5000, to a maximum rate of 3 per cent on taxable income over $20,000.

Rocky Road of Romance Ends As Soldier, Italian Girl Wed

By Arthur Ellis—The Washington Post

SOLDIER TAKES A WIFE—Sergt. R. E. Reynolds of Fort Belvoir, Va., and the former Gioia Culley of Italy climax their four-year transoceanic romance at Municipal Court, where they were married yesterday. The former Italian movie actress proudly shows her ring after the ceremony, which was performed by Judge Frank H. Myers

A small "I do" by a diminutive bride with a perky black hat and an enormous white orchid yesterday signaled the happy climax to a four-year romance of a Fort Belvoir Army sergeant.

Sergt. R. E. Reynolds stood with Gioia Culley, his 19-year-old Italian sweetheart, in the chambers of Judge Frank H. Myers at the Municipal Court, and repeated marriage vows that conquered red tape, immigration laws and the Atlantic Ocean.

The double-ring ceremony ended the sergeant's long quest to get his bride-to-be into this country and make her his wife.

He met Gioia, an Italian movie actress, in Rome in 1945 while serving with the American forces.

Reynolds was returned to this country, however, and Gioia could not get the necessary papers for entry. While official papers were being cleared, Reynolds started raising the $500 bond required of immigrant brides and money for the fare. He had to withdraw the money when his mother became ill, but others paid the bond and Gioia came over.

They have been offered an apartment in Alexandria, Va., and will make their home there. Next month the sergeant will take enough leave to show his new bride to his family in Ohio.

In the lengthy duel between feminine players of the two cities, the honors heretofore have gone to Baltimore.

The mixed pair championship was played last night, the scores not becoming official until noon today. Defending champions in this event were Mrs. W. M. McIntyre and Leroy Thurtell, both of Washington.

Finance Lack Held Problem For Builders

Inadequate financing for the construction and sale of homes last night was called the No. 1 problem facing local builders.

The speaker was William S. Banks, new president of the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington. He succeeds Clarence W. Gosnell.

Banks was installed at an annual election of officers at the Statler Hotel attended by 250 association members. Clarke Daniel, vice president of Standard Properties, Inc., was elected first vice president and Alvin J. Aubinoe, head of his own building firm, was named second vice president.

Banks has built several large garden-type apartment projects here since the war, and is the developer of "Huntington," a low cost housing project in South Alexandria, Va.

The new president said the local association would continue to push the construction of more homes here which would sell for under $10,000.

"However," he added, "we are handicapped by lack of construction. We can build as many homes as we can finance. It's that simple."

Asked where additional financing facilities could be obtained, Banks said he didn't know, but that association officers would work on the problem this year.

Members presented retiring President Gosnell with a scroll and a shotgun in appreciation of his activities on behalf of the association during 1948.

Big Apartment Project Faces Sale for Taxes

Mayfair Gardens, large-scale Negro housing project, located at Kenilworth ave. and Hayes st. ne., is among 3100 pieces of property to be placed on sale Tuesday at 9 a. m. for delinquent real estate taxes.

Tax Collector Guy W. Pearson said the development owes $51,900 in 1948 taxes. The 594-apartment project, located on the site of the old Benning race track, was begun in September, 1942, by Mayfair Gardens, Inc., on a mortgage underwritten by the Federal Housing Administration.

Later, after a foreclosure sale, the FHA obtained title and sold the property to Mayfair Mansions, Inc., subject to a mortgage held by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and insured by the FHA. Corporation and insured by the FHA. Principal organizers of the new corporation were Albert I. Cassell, architect, and Elder Lightfood Michaux, evangelist, both of Washington.

The 3100 properties scheduled for the auction block represent $249,000 in delinquent and unpaid taxes. They will be sold unless the back taxes are paid by the date of the sale, Pearson said.

Mrs. Cruise Dies; Wife Of Admiral

Mrs. Frances E. Cruise, 45, wife of Rear Admiral Edgar A. Cruise, died last night in Bethesda Naval Hospital from injuries suffered in a fall in her home January 2.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County medical examiner, said Mrs. Cruise died at 7:30 p. m. of a fractured skull and that he had issued a certificate of accidental death.

The fall occurred in the Cruise home at 3254 Gunston rd., Parkfairfax, Alexandria, Va. Mrs. Cruise was found at the foot of a stairway by her son, James, 14, a student at George Washington High School, Alexandria.

Mrs. Cruise is survived by a second son, Edgar A. Cruise, jr., a midshipman at the Naval Academy. Her husband is director of Naval Air Warfare in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James P. Crane of Philadelphia and was born in Pottsville, Pa.

She and Admiral Cruise were married in Philadelphia in October, 1922, only five months after he had been graduated from the Naval Academy and commissioned an ensign.

Miss Wilmarth Dies; Served U. S. 38 Years

Miss Mary Grace Wilmarth, 82, who retired as scientific aide in the Geological Survey in 1937 after 38 years of service, died in Homeopathic Hospital Thursday after a brief illness.

A resident at 1412 Belmont st. nw. for more than 40 years, she came to Washington in 1899 to be a clerk-stenographer for the Geological Survey.

When she became 70, Miss Wilmarth obtained from President Roosevelt a one-year postponement of her retirement so she could complete a Geological Survey book on which she had been working for some 30 years. After the one-year extension ended, she worked another 16 months on the project, keeping regular office hours but without being paid

The two-volume book, published in 1938, was the authoritative "Lexicon of the Geologic Names of the United States, Including Alaska." This was the last of several books she had written for the Survey.

A native of Oswego County, N. Y., Miss Wilmarth lived in Lockport, N. Y., until she came here.

After retiring and completing the Lexicon, she took her first vacation since she had joined the Survey 39 years before. On her return, she took up genealogical research and last year compiled a genealogy of the Obadiah Cooper family which founded Cooper Union in New York.

She was a member of the Church of St. Agnes and the Ascension, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Geological Society of Washington.

Funeral services will be held today at 1:30 p. m. from Gawler's funeral home.

Dior Goes American With Buttons and Bows

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Christian Dior's first American collection of fashions is just what it claims to be. It is as typically U. S. A. as the song "Buttons and Bows."

Perhaps this current song hit was a source of inspiration to the talented Paris designer when he was creating the costumes shown yesterday to the out-of-town press at this spacious new salon on Fifth Avenue. Buttons and Bows figured so strongly in his collection that one almost expected to hear the refrain being sung—in French, of course.

MISS PRESTON

The famed French fashion authority came to New York last September and remained until November, designing and manufacturing the collection shown yesterday. He then returned to Paris to work on the line which he will show there next month.

His American clothes reflect Dior's feeling for the American woman's tastes and way of life. They are surprisingly different from his Paris inspired costumes, but the Dior stamp is unmistakable there in the design, attention to detail and unique manipulation of fabric.

Here are the main points of difference:

The American clothes are shorter, recommended length being 13 to 14 inches from the floor. This places the hemline 2 or 3 inches above those in his Paris collections of the past couple of years. Dior warns, however, through his spokesman here, "the woman must decide where the hemline is most becoming to her. She must judge it by her height, weight and type."

The silhouette is softer than the French version. For the American woman Dior offers no paddings, stays, or stiffening. Only one of his daytime dresses had the stiffly lined skirt which was characteristic of his styles last season.

Fabrics are much lighter in this collection, garments weighing only half as much as their French counterparts.

One gets a feeling of daintiness in these ensembles that was lacking in other Dior works which this reporter has seen.

'Virginia' Is Striking Model

As we mentioned above, Dior loves "buttons" and "bows." They turn up on everything from tailored suits to fabulous evening gowns. One afternoon dress, called "Virginia," after the State of that name, has a bodice comprised entirely of one huge bow. It is cleverly manipulated at the shoulder line to merge into the sleeves. In a magnificent emerald green taffeta ball gown, with huge skirt and sweeping train, he ties a bow on either hip.

And the suits, which are bound to be popular follow extremely simple lines. Skirts are narrow with peg tops, usually slit from the knee with a button trimming. Waistlines on the jackets are well defined, often being higher in front than in back. They give the impression of being stiffened over hipline, an effect achieved by clever cutting.

Sashes, softly draped, are another favorite with Dior, and under his expert handling they lend sophistication rather than mere prettiness. He also likes big pockets, which he sometimes puts on the back of big, full skirts.

An unusual feature of the show was its coordination of all fashion items. Hats, shoes and stockings were all designed especially for each individual ensemble. With suits the simplest, plainest of straw sailors were shown. Invariably they perched to one side of the head, often coming forward on the brow. Larger sailors were shown with the afternoon and dinner costumes.

Dior's clothes, all in the ready-to-wear bracket, as opposed to the French custom-made methods, are now being distributed in stores throughout the country. His price range is the same as that of any of the top-flight American designers. Because of that they will be available to only a small proportion of women in this country. But these are the women who sponsor high-fashion.

And their favorites are soon copied in the $39.50 divisions. So, who knows, maybe even you and I will have a Dior inspired outfit for Easter.

At any rate, we are glad you are here, Mr. Dior.

Mrs. Brannan Asks Support For Heart Drive

Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, yesterday called upon the women of the area to support the Washington Heart Association's forthcoming fund drive to fight heart disease. As chairman of the women's division of the fund campaign, she made a strong appeal for more volunteers.

She stressed the danger of heart disease to persons of all ages in a talk before women community leaders in the committee's headquarters in the Woodward Building. The fund drive will be conducted from February 7 to 28.

Mrs. Brannan cited statistics to show the toll among children by congential heart defects and rheumatic fever, and emphasized that heart disease is responsible for more deaths annually than the next five causes of death combined.

Dr. Benjamin Manchester, chairman of the Heart Association's Committee on Convalescent Care and Rehabilitation of Cardiac Patients, and a member of the executive committee of the fund drive, also spoke. He outlined some of the important problems of the association and stressed how expanded activitive can serve to reduce the toll from heart disease among Washington area residents.

Dr. Manchester gave details on how the members of the heart group already have played an important role in reducing the number of deaths of pregnant women with heart trouble, increasing the life expectancy of youngsters with certain heart defects, and prolonging the lives of many middle-aged and elderly people.

Despite the progress that has been made, Dr. Manchester said, heart disease remains the city and Nation's chief health problem.

Mrs. Ernest K. Lindley and Mrs. India Edwards, head of the women's committee of the Democratic National Committee, are vice chairmen of the committee headed by Mrs. Brannan.

Some 200 wives of the Nation's lawmakers turned out at the Congressional Club's opening program tea to hear the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, discuss the various viewpoints of the churches' participation in politics and public affairs.

He told the audience that he thought the greatest service the church could render was to send out men who had personal integrity, "with no vulgar ambitions" to give their best efforts to politics and other phases of public life.

"Many hold the view that the church should not be concerned with public life—such as politics, problems of economic relationships or the shaping of racial relationships," explained Bishop Dun, "And yet, I've observed that those who take this position depart from it at times."

Mrs. E. H. Hedrick, wife of the West Virginia Representative, introduced Bishop Dun, and Mrs. Clifford Davis, club president, presided. Following the program Mrs. Davis, and Bishop and Mrs. Dun received the club members and their guests at an informal tea.

Among familiar faces were Mrs. Harold Burton, Mrs. Leroy Johnson, Mrs. Antonio Fernandez, Mrs. Aime J. Forand. There was also a sprinkling of new Eighty-first Congress wives. In the group were several from Missouri, including Mrs. Paul Jones, Mrs. Clara Magee, Mrs. Phil Welch, Mrs. John B. Sullivan and Mrs. Leonard Irving, who hails from the President's home town—Independence.

Mrs. Lloyd Bentsen, jr., wife of the newly installed Texas Representative, took a turn at the tea table, as did Mrs. Ed Gossett, another Lone Star Stater. Mrs. Estes Kefauver, whose husband stepped up from the House to the Senate, was there introducing Mrs. James B. Frazier to club members. Representative Frazier took over Senator Kefauver's job in the House.

Mrs. James C. Davis, wife of the Georgia Representative, was there with two guests, Mrs. Ansel Arapian and Mrs. Bent Robinson.

Glimpsed here and there in the crowd were Mrs. Ralph Church of Illinois, president-designate of the Congressional Club; Mrs. Hal Holmes of Washington, who will be one of the new officers; Mrs. William McCulloch of Ohio and her daughter Nancy, who is a student at Holton Arms.

Then there was Mrs. Harry McGregor of Ohio, Mrs. George Grant of Alabama, Mrs. Frank Boykin, also of Alabama; Mrs. W. R. Poage of Texas; Mrs. Dewey Short of Missouri, Mrs. Pete Jarman of Alabama.

Mrs. Albert Carter, who has organized practically every Congress Club since the Sixty-ninth, was there telling friends that the newly organized Eighty-first Congress Club would elect officers next week.

Leaving for Argentina

Gen., Mme. Von der Becke Bid Farewell at Party

By Marie McNair

AFTER TWO YEARS as Chief of the Argentine Military Delegation to the Inter-American Defense Board, Gen. Carlos von der Becke is going home.

With Mme. von der Becke he said goodbye to his friends yesterday at a late afternoon cocktail party in the Chinese room at the Mayflower. And in saying farewell, he introduced Maj. Gen. Estanislao J Lopez, another distinguished military figure, just arrived from Argentina who will take his place.

The foursome—Gen. and Mme. von der Becke, General and Mme. Lopez stayed in the receiving line till all guests had checked in, then they moved out, stopping at the little tables which had been set up around the room where guests were drinking champagne and eating delicious black beans, creamed turkey, ham and salad.

For this was more than the cocktail party the invitations read. Guests were expected to stay for supper—and did.

But before that, drinks were passed and with them all sorts of South American cocktail-time tidbits, including fried oysters, empanadas, a fish canape, crisped and spiced.

Senator Owen Brewster, with Mrs. Brewster wrapped in mink with an off-the-face feather hat, were among early arrivals, as were Senator and Mrs. Dennis Chavez, who took supper with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis.

Gen. Willis Crittenberger, head of the Inter-American Defense Board, and Mrs. Crittenberger were down from New York for the party, Mrs. Crittenberger looking handsome in a straight black frock with almond-green flowers on her hat.

Dressmakers and designers who periodically insist on a relief from the "little black frock" invariably meet overwhelming resistance. It was everywhere yesterday.

THE HOSTESS wore black taffeta, the full skirt bound by a wrapped peplum which tied with two loops at the side. Mme. de Lopez wore a gown on much the same design with plunging neckline and elbow sleeves. And both wore magnificent deep purple orchids.

Mrs. Paul Daniels, whose husband is our Ambassador to the Pan American Union, covered her black frock with a fur jacket, wore a black scooped brim hat trimmed with pale pink tulle. Having lived all over South America, she speaks Spanish like a native, loves the native black beans which she ate with gusto yesterday with Capt. Colon Eloy Alfaro, former Ecuador Ambassador to the Pan American Union, and before that his country's envoy to the United States. Mr. Daniels arrived later, and shortly after they were due at another party.

GEN. A. C. WEDEMEYER, almost unrecognizable in civilian clothes, came with Mrs. Wedemeyer; Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, was accompanied by Mrs. Denfeld in a smart gray costume, and Mrs. A. W. Radford was with Admiral Radford.

The Costa Rican Ambassador, Hector David Castro, recently back from the U. N. sessions in Paris, was there with Senora de Castro, and the Honduran Ambassador and Senora de Caceres were also in the group.

Pocket-sized Senora Lleras, wife of the Director General of the Pan American Union, wore a simple and smart black gown with ropes of pearls knotted about her throat; Mme. Corominos, whose husband is Argentine Ambassador to the Pan American Union, in black again—a straight-lined suit—with pale pink aigrettes on her black hat.

Then there were Dr. Felix Morales, bachelor Ambassador from Uruguay; Juan Bautista Lavalle, Peru's Ambassador to the Pan American Union; Lieut. Gen. and Senora de Sanchez—he's Military and Air Attache of the Bolivian Embassy; Brig. Gen. Gervasio Duncan de Lima Rodriguez, Air Attache of the Brazillian Embassy; Gen. Frederick Irving, USA, and Mrs. Irving; and from Venezuela, Lieut. Felix Armando Rodriguez, Assistant Air Attache of the embassy, who won both Army and Navy wings from the United States forces and flew with the Army during the war.

King Peter of Yugoslavia who has been in New York since arriving in December from Europe, was in Washington for a brief visit this week. He was in the audience at Constitution Hall for the Boston Symphony on Thursday, coming in with the former Yugoslav Ambassador and Mme. Fotitch, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Castle and Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt.

Berendsens Honor Visiting Chief

By Elizabeth Maguire

SOCIETY came in droves to the New Zealand Embassy yesterday. A reception was held there between 6 and 8 o'clock in honor of the New Zealand Prime Minister, Peter Fraser.

The Ambassador and Lady Berendsen were hosts and, judging by the happy faces and number of friends, their great popularity is a force that never wanes.

Guests were cordially received in the green drawing room. Lady Berendsen has said that Sir Carl is the life of the party for the first 20 minutes, and then he becomes quiet, but yesterday he gave out a booming welcome to each and every guest until long after 8 o'clock. Lady Berendsen wore a lovely black satin gown trimmed in green sequins, and a corsage of orchids pinned at the shoulder.

Mrs. Andrews, wife of the South African Ambassador, was there in beige frock made with new slim line and apron front. The skirt, she complained, was almost too narrow to walk in. But the effect was chic and it was much too crowded to walk anyway. Her hat was black velvet topped with a swoosh of feathers and she wore a unique necklace of gold and black.

Another Paris model was worn by Mrs. Willard Thorp, attractive wife of the Assistant Secretary of State. Hers was a slim trim suit of blue, worn with tiny felt hat. Senora de Belt, pretty wife of the Cuban Ambassador, wore furs and velvet and a fetching hat of feathers.

Mme. Bonnet Chic in Black

MME. BONNET, wife of the French Ambassador, had great chic in black dress, black fur stole and small black hat trimmed with a swirl of white aigrettes.

A buffet was set up in the beige and brown dining room. Buckets of champagne and Pavlova cakes were served with other refreshments such as stuffed celery, tiny sandwiches, beaten biscuits and baked hams and turkey.

The Russian Ambassador, Alexander S. Panyushkin, came and paid his respects, and left shortly afterward. The British Ambassador and Lady Franks were there, and the French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet. Also, the Ambassador of Turkey and Mme. Erkin, the Ambassador of Australia and Mrs. Makin, the Swedish Ambassador and Mme. Boheman, the Ambassador of Egypt and Mme. Abdul Rahim, the Minister of Luxembourg and Mme. Le Gallais and the Minister of Iceland and Mme. Thors.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Muir were among the guests, as well as Senator and Mrs. Clinton Anderson, Mrs. Robert A. Lovett, and British Minister, Sir Hoyer Millar. From residential circles came Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hollis Terrill, Mrs. John Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wyatt and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke.

Secretary Lovett Gives Luncheon for Mr. Fraser

THE ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE, Robert A. Lovett, was host yesterday at a small luncheon at the Carlton Hotel in honor of Peter Fraser, visiting Prime Minister of New Zealand.

Brown, director of International Trade Policy at State.

Mrs. McMains Hostess At Tea for Mrs. Hatch

IN HONOR of Mrs. Carl A. Hatch, wife of the former Senator from New Mexico, Mrs. Winford H. McMains entertained yesterday at a tea in her apartment at Dorchester House. Over 100 friends dropped by to say farewell to Mrs. Hatch, who with her husband is leaving soon for New Mexico, where Senator Hatch will serve as new District Federal Judge. The couple will leave after the Inauguration.

Philippine Minister Has Birthday Party

THE MINISTER of the Philippines, Emilio Abello, was guest of honor at his own party yesterday, when members of the embassy staged an "asalto" on the occasion of his birthday.

An asalto is Spanish for surprise party, and the one for Mr. Abello was the best variety. Folk songs, dances, native costume and Philippine food combined to give the party a touch of home. One of the surprises was a silver tea set, the gift of the whole Embassy personnel to Mr. Abello.

Cafritzes Entertain At Dinner Party

THE Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Belt and the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet were ranking guests at the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz last evening at their home on Foxhall rd.

State Societies to Make Most Of Chance to See 'Home Folks'

By Nicha Soure

IT ISN'T often that members of the area's State societies get a chance to see so many people from home without crossing the District line, and so, naturally, they plan to make the most of the opportunity during Inaugural Week.

Here is The Washington Post State Society roundup:

Since Delaware home staters live so close to the Capital City and probably will make the trip in one day, and since Californians live so far that few are expected to attend the Inauguration, no major celebrations are planned by these States next weekend.

However, the Delaware State Society will hold open house on January 20 and 21 in the offices of Senator J. Allen Frear, jr., Senator John J. Williams and Representative J. Caleb Boggs.

And for the visitors from the Western State, open house will be held throughout next week in the California congressional offices.

TODAY, the State Society Date Book lists two preinauguration dances, those of the Missouri State Society and the New York State Society.

Missouri State Society will hold a Congressional Ball in the Shoreham Hotel at 10 p. m.

New York State Society's preinauguration ball will be held in the main Shoreham's ballroom at 9:30 p. m.

On Tuesday, January 18, The Hoosier State will hold its preinauguration celebration.

Indiana State Society dance will be held in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel with a reception at 9 p. m. and dancing starting at 10 p. m. until 1 p. m. Tickets to the dance are available at the door or at any Indiana Congressional Office.

The Oklahoma General Alumni will meet in the Annapolis Hotel for a luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Representative Mike Monroney will be among the honored guests.

On Wednesday, the day before the Inauguration, six State societies are planning get-togethers.

Alabama State Society will be hosts to Gov. and Mrs. James E. Folsom at the society's pre-Inaugural Ball to be held in the Burgundy Room of Wardman Park Hotel at 10 p. m. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Colorado State Society will hold a reception for visitors from Colorado in the Congressional Room of the Willard Hotel from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. The Colorado congressional delegation and the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles F. Brannan will be the guests of honor.

Texas State Society will hold a reception in the Hall of Nations, Washington Hotel, from 4 to 6 p. m. Guests of honor will include Attorney Tom C. Clark, Senator Tom Connally, Senator Lydon Johnson, and Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Kansas State Society cocktail party will be held in the District Room of the Statler Hotel from 4 to 6 p. m.

Georgia State Society's Inaugural Ball will be held in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel at 9:30 p. m. with Gov. and Mrs. Herman Talmadge as guests of honor. The Society's Hospitality Committee will be in Parlor "F" of the Willard Hotel from 9 a. m. to 6. p. m. on Wednesday to welcome visiting Georgians and present them with complimentary tickets to the ball.

Oklahoma State Society will get together for breakfast in the main ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel at 9:30 a. m. with Gov. Roy J. Turner as toastmaster. Tickets can be obtained through Miss Agnes Watkins at the Truman- Barkley Club; telephone DIstrict 3000. That night the Oklahoma State Society will hold a reception and ball for the Governor at the Kennedy-Warren from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. Ask Anne

I am interested in buying a chest for the storage of blankets and woolens. What are the merits of a cedar versus a camphor chest, such as those the Chinese make? V. O. J.

Camphor chests from China have not returned to our local market since the war, so if you are making your selection soon you will find none or very few. As for the comparative merits of camphor or cedar chests, while the camphor or cedar oils are fresh in the woods they are equally effective in protecting the fabric from moths, but will not kill larvae or moths if they are present in the fabrics when stored in the chests. There are cedar chests on the market which carry a mothproof guarantee. At the purchase of at least one nationally advertised chest, the maker will issue the buyer insurance policy entitling her to up to $250 in case of moth damage to fabrics while stored in their chest during the insured period.

Would you tell me how to wash a grass linen tablecloth and have it retain the stiffness? A Reader

Wash the tablecloth by placing it in warm suds with mild soap. Wash only long enough to get clean, rinse and dry. When dry, dampen and roll tightly until moisture is evenly distributed. Iron first on the wrong side with a hot iron and then on the right side. If reasonably damp and ironed until dry with a very hot iron, the cloth will probably be as stiff as you like it. If not, it could be dipped in a light laundry starch solution after the last rinse.

How should I remove white paint from frosted glass window panes? A razor scrapper does not get into the rough surface. painters left a rim 1/4 in. to 1/2 in. around each of the 12 panes and also splashed white paint on the bathroom tiles and on a dark finished front door. Could paint remover be used successfully without affecting the white painted window frames or the dark door? D. Y.

Paint remover will remove all the finish as well as the spattered paint from the door and window frames. You will have to work very carefully and apply it sparingly on the glass panes so that it will not run down on the frames. This will soften the paint on the glass so it can be removed by rubbing with a rough cloth. The same method can be used to remove it from the tile. Your best chance of getting it off the door is to remove as much as possible by scraping with a dull knife and then rubbing with turpentine. It will take considerable rubbing, but should come off in time.

About Merits Of Storage Chests

Have purchased some paint for use on a baby's crib avoiding any with lead content listed. However, could you please verify seller's claim that the analysis lists no other content which might prove harmful to the child. Analysis is as follows: pigment 33.2 per cent, vehicle 33.8 per cent. The pigment contains titanium dioxide 42.7 per cent, lithopone 39.8 per cent, calcium carbonate, 16 per cent, coloring reagent 1.5 per cent. The vehicle is 100 per cent varnish. M. M. L.

I have discussed your question with a chemist of the Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association who tells me that the listed ingredients are absolutely harmless in any amount that your child could chew off the crib.

The baby put several crayon marks on a phonograph record. As we have a permanent type needle, I don't want to risk ruining it by running it through the crayon. How can I remove the wax from the record? M. McL.

Sponge the record with carbon tetrachloride using a very soft cloth and as little pressure as possible. Turn the cloth frequently to a fresh moistened spot to completely remove the wax.

Is there anything I can put into a silver chest which will keep the silverplated flatware from tarnishing? R. L. Z.

You can buy a special product to put in the chest which prevents tarnish. This is sold in housewares departments where tarnish preventatives are sold.

What can be done to a rose-colored grass rug to prevent foot marks? It was cleaned recently and since then foot marks seem to be more noticeable. Could you suggest some sort of finish, easy to apply and give best results? It is also slightly faded at one end. Could this be remedied? M. P. M.

Are the foot marks soiled marks which now show more since the rug is a lighter color? If this is the case, painting the rug a darker color will improve this condition and also remove the faded spots. Place several layers of newspaper under the rug to prevent staining the floor and apply a good grade of floor paint thinned with turpentine, three parts of paint to one part of turpentine. Use an inexpensive brush, and work the paint well into the fibers.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

There are many things about comics that we may not like. Some of them are badly printed. Some have unduly gory stories. Children seem to spend too much time following the adventures of their super-heroes and not enough on "good literature."

On the other hand, a great many students of child life feel that the second-hand adventure, which many comics bring to youngsters, has real value. Others believe that children may get feelings of anger of being pushed around out of their systems by seeing comic's characters being beaten up.

But all these ideas, positive and negative, are unimportant alongside the idea that comics cause crime.

Police chiefs, juvenile court judges and even a few psychiatrists have said, in effect, "This boy committed a serious crime. He reads the comics in which similar crimes are pictured. Therefore, the comics caused the crime."

But they never stop to think that literally millions of other youngsters have read the same books and haven't developed the slightest tendency to become delinquent. It's much the same as saying that detective stories read by a thief or a murder stimulated him to a life of crime. Yet, don't we all read murder mysteries? Yes, we need better comics, but let's not fight them on false grounds.

Riggs Bank Net Sets New Peak Of $1,591,726

By S. Oliver Goodman

Riggs National Bank showed record net operating income of $1,591,726 in 1948, President Robert V. Fleming reported yesterday.

Fleming

This compared with $1,418,826 in the previous year.

Earnings were equal to $31.84 a share, against $28.36 a share in 1947.

This was the highest net in the banks' 112-year history.

In his annual report to stockholders, Fleming pointed out that loans at year-end totaled $61,639,861, an increase of 11 per cent over the previous year. Percentage-wise, he said, the loan upturn in 1948 was not as great as in 1947 due "to our full cooperation in the voluntary anti-inflation program of the American Bankers Association."

Government securities portfolio totaled $155,951,900 on December 31, against $159,101,700 in the previous year. The dip was attributed to an increase in reserve requirements.

Capital, surplus, undivided profits and reserves reached a new high of $16,945,465 and compared with $16,577,323 at the end of 1947.

Riggs closed 1948 with deposits of $313,487,612, a gain of $9,630,027 for the year. Deposits have nearly tripled since 1939 when $108,843,029 was reported.

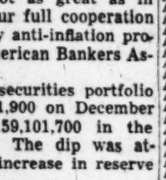
Instillation of night depository facilities at all branch banks has been ordered, Fleming added.

Commenting on general business conditions, Fleming said: "During the greater part of the year (1948), inflationary forces were more predominant than those of a deflationary character, but during the last quarter and at the close of the year all indicators pointed to an approximate balance between the forces of inflation and deflation."

The outlook for 1949, he added, "certainly for the first part of the year, strongly favors predominance of deflationary forces."

He expressed optimism that "once the attitude of the Congress upon legislative proposals becomes clarified and business is in a position to know the rules under which it will have to operate, we then can go forward on a sustained level of business activity for quite a period of time."

WHO'S WHO TODAY: James R. Lupton, jr., 29, has been appointed district manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society with offices in Arlington, Va. Young Lupton joined the Equitable three years ago as an agent and has been operating as a field assistant since December, 1946.



PROGRESS: American Building Association showed a gain of $1,435,000 in assets during the past year, shareholders were told at the 74th annual meeting. Resources now approximate 28 million dollars, according to Secretary Wilfred H. Blanz. Reserves and surplus exceed three million dollars. The following were reelected to the directorate: Frederick A. Blumer, John J. Carmody, Bernard J. Coyle, S. Wilson Earnshaw, Dr. W. C. Farmer, Albert W. Howard, Charles H. Kindle, Howard B. Kramer, John E. Mergner, Charles A. Rossiter, W. Dudley Spicknall and W. H. Blanz.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP).—A late rally came to the rescue of a sagging grain market on the Board of Trade today. The rally left final prices mixed.

Grains ended with small price changes on both sides of yestreday's close. Soybeans were higher and lard lower. Short-covering and some new buying attracted by the slump this week caused the market to turn about in the last half of the session.

Before the rally, all lard deliveries, July soybeans and December corn and oats made new seasonal lows. Cash lard was offered at $14.90 a hundred pounds, lowest since June, 1946. The late upturn was considered mainly technical, traders claiming the market had been "oversold."

Wheat closed unchanged to ¼ higher; corn was ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher; oats were ¾ lower to ¼ higher; rye was ½ higher; soybeans were 1¼ to 1½ higher, and lard was unchanged to 12 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Attracting much attention was a report from Washington that "Federal investigators" had launched a probe into alleged "leaks" in a supplementary allocation of fats and oils for export this quarter. Since Tuesday, trade rumors have said allocations were raised 100 million pounds, but Government officials have refused to confirm or deny this report.

WGAY—9:

THE DISTRICT LINE

by Bill Gold

Inaugural Visitors Will Probably Ask These Same Questions

The upcoming inauguration helps to center attention on some of our historic landmarks. Shirley Lee of 1100 Oakdale dr., Hyattsville, Md., thinks she can stump us with two oldies:

Which is the "front door" of the White House? Is the statue atop the Capitol a man or a woman?

Originally, I'm told, the front door of the White House faced the Ellipse. But as Washington grew and the surrounding terrain gradually changed, the Pennsylvania ave. side became much more accessible, especially to vehicular traffic.

The north side of the Executive Mansion is therefore now considered to be the "front door."

The figure atop the Capitol is the symbol of Freedom, sometimes known as the Goddess of Freedom. Thomas Crawford got $3000 for designing her, and originally had her wearing a warlike helmet. But there was an outcry of protest from folks who didn't want the symbol of war adorning their National Capitol.

So the helmet gave way to a band of feathers, resembling those worn by our American Indians.

Crawford shipped a plaster model from his studio in Rome to Washington, sending the statue in sections. It took quite a while for all the pieces to arrive.

Then the Clark Mills foundry (near Bladensburg) was commissioned to cast the statue in bronze, and after many delays the old gal was raised to her lofty perch.

She's definitely a she.

BLACK & WHITE

Mrs. Arthur Sears Henning of 2728 32d st. nw., stumped me with: "Why do our policemen wear black gloves when directing traffic? On rainy nights they resemble the ghost of Hamlet's father."

Inspector Arthur E. Miller of the Traffic Division says: "The policeman Mrs. Henning saw was the exception, rather than the rule."

He adds that there are no regulations covering the color of gloves, but that most of the men who direct traffic in the downtown area prefer white, because it makes them easier to see.

Regardless of color, it's interesting to know that our policemen handle the public with gloves — sometimes kid, and sometimes boxing.

MISCELLANY

Jean Reed of 1620 P st. nw., who doesn't like snakes, says it seems that everybody goes out of his way to publish pictures of them: newspapers, books, magazines—even the dictionary . . . Shucks, Jean, you shouldn't talk like that. Some of our best friends often turn out to be snakes . . . Hildegarde P. Redding of 122 Argyle ave., way up in New Rochelle, N. Y., wants to know how our local District Liners missed the typo which had Russia's leaders anxious to reach an "unred-standing" with the United States . . . And H. W. Ross of 616 Longfellow st. nw., wonders how he happened to miss the third through the tenth of our World Wars; he notes that our morning contemporary recently referred to "World War 11" . . . In reply to my remark that "I'm itching to reproduce the 'Terry' cartoon George Wunder drew for me" comes a suggestion from Radio Ham Burt (W3KFZ) Engel: "Don't itch; just reproduce" . . . On the assumption that Burt is referring to the cartoon, here it is:

Mrs. M. C. G. of 532 20th st. nw., wants to know "why, if the President is interested in more housing, did he permit acres of good lumber to go into the construction of stands for the inaugural parade?" . . . I don't know. But it seems to me that inaugural expenditures were authorized by the Eightieth Congress, which expected another actor to play the leading role in this extravaganza . . . By special delivery comes a note from the local postoffice: "Povich doesn't need any 5-cent air mail bargains, marked down from 6 cents. He can buy our air mail postcards for only 4 cents" . . . I suppose if I mention Shirley's name they'll give me the same deal . . . Roderick Mitchell, former WINX newscaster, has just landed a good spot as a director with CBS Television. When he worked here, Rod was still in Marine Corps uniform, so he used an air alias—"Ray Martin," as I recall . . . And Ernie Simon, who followed Tony Wakeman as the WINX race result giver-outer, is setting a fast pace at WJJD in Chicago. His fame has spread to New York, where Nick Kenny recently noted in his column that Ernie's "friendly voice and personality" will probably land him in the movies soon . . . Back in 1943 I introduced Ernie to Wayne Coy, now chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. It took them 60 seconds to discover that while Coy, who was administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, was helping to speed emergency supplies to Field Marshal Montgomery at El Alamein, Ernie, a volunteer with Monty's forces there, was praying that the guys in Washington wouldn't be too late with too little.

HERE'S WHAT TO EXPECT FROM "TRANSIT RADIO"

In the next few days there will probably be a formal announcement about the installation of F-M radio in our streetcars and buses.

Until that announcement is ready, Capital Transit officials won't talk about the details of the plan. But you can get a good line on what to expect by examining the record of transit radio in other cities.

The broadcasts originate at a local radio station, and are received by F-M (static-free) sets in transit company vehicles. In streetcars, there are eight loudspeakers; in buses, six.

Programs are entirely different from those regularly broadcast by the radio station. They usually consist of good popular and semi-classical music; no really "heavy" stuff, and no jumping jive.

The whole idea, of course, is to make money—both for the radio station and the transit company.

This is accomplished by selling "commercials," which occur every five or 10 minutes. Revenue is split between the broadcaster and the transit people.

If Capital Transit enters into such a scheme, it could expect an income comparable to that being earned in St. Louis, where the plan is just getting under way. Approximately $4000 per week is being realized, and split between the principals.

The money which is paid to the transit company goes into its general fund, and helps to keep fares lower or avert increases.

In most cities, there are many restrictions on the commercials. The usual time limit is 25 seconds. No singing commercials are accepted, and hard smashing multi-voiced announcements are strictly prohibited.

Biggest users of transit commercials are firms which benefit from "institutional" advertising. Surveys taken among patrons of the lines show that more than 90 per cent of the riders like the service, and are willing to take the commercials in order to get the music.

FRESH AIR FIEND

He had to have that window up;
I felt the north wind smite us.
He got his precious "good fresh air;"
And I—acute bronchitis.

G. A. Fisher

Listen to Bill Gold's "This Is Washington," the District Line on the Air, Monday through Friday, over WTOP, from 10 a. m. to Arthur Godfrey time at 10:30.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—Oscar Carmona, the 79-year-old President of Portugal, is running for reelection to another seven-year term. Lester Hartley Geiss went to the presidential palace last week to interview and photograph him. During the interview Carmona displayed unique knowledge of American history, and confessed that he never has been to America. "Why don't you pay us a visit?" Geiss asked him "Why should I?" replied the President of Portugal. "If I went there, could I become President of the United States?"

Beatrice Fox Auerbach, head of G. Fox & Co. of Hartford, heard of the work being done at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. She went to Cambridge to see the business school, and met Professor MacNair. "I wish," said Mrs. Auerbach, one of the Nation's top women executives, "that I could get into this school" . . . "Madam," replied Professor MacNair, "Harvard is NOT co-educational."

Dr. Donald K. David, dean of Harvard's business school, won the Tobe Award this week for his contribution to retailing. Among his listed accomplishments was the coauthorship of the first case book on retailing problems . . . Dean David revealed that when he submitted the manuscript, which represented long years of careful work, Editor Wheeler Sammons acknowledged receipt by wiring him: "I don't want to make you jealous — but the New Standard Dictionary has TWELVE thousand pages."

Artur Rubinstein plays so constantly that he never needs a warmup before a piano recital. In one city the lady in charge of the recital reminded him that she always expects the artists to arrive at least an hour before the concert. This usually enables her to introduce her personal friends backstage—a special group who don't care to join the crowd backstage after the recital. Rubinstein arrived 10 minutes before the concert was to begin. "You're late," the lady told him, angrily . . . "I am?" asked the pianist. "Then let's go"—and walked onstage, seated himself at the piano and began.

Ted Husing tells of the days when colleges were proselytizing football players and approved of their coaches scouting the farms and mine regions for husky football prospects. One scout returned from a tour of the Midwest farmlands with a promising group of strong men. "It was easy to pick 'em," the scout explained. "Whenever I saw a prospect on a farm I'd ask him which way to the village. If they pointed with their finger I'd thank 'em and leave. I picked only those who pointed with their plows."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

A Look at Congress Freshmen

By Drew Pearson

The new House of Representatives has now been shaken down, had a chance to settle in new offices, and members have taken a look at each other. Outsiders have had a chance to look at them. The results have not been disappointing.

PEARSON

In brief, the new Congress looks good. It has more war veterans, more youngsters who take their work seriously, more promising raw material than any since before Pearl Harbor. Many never dreamed they would be elected. Many are nervous, shy, and worried about which fork to pick up in Washington. But the main thing is that they know what happened to the Eightieth Congress, and, if they can help it, they aren't going to let history repeat.

Obviously, most of the new Congressmen are Democrats. But the new Republicans seem to have a lot on the ball, too. Anyway, here is a cross-section of the Eighty-first freshmen, the men who hold the balance of power on Capitol Hill and who will shape your lives for the next few years:

Newsmen to school teachers: Harry Davenport, Pennsylvania Democrat—Publisher of weekly newspaper; ran against GOP John McDowell of the Un-American Affairs Committee, never expecting to win. Now that he's in Congress—much to his surprise—he'll push hard for the liberal program he advocated . . . Chuck Gross, Iowa Republican—Popular Midwest radio commentator of Waterloo; defeated reactionary John Gwynne in the Republican primaries by going to the voters over the heads of the political machines . . . Jerry Ford, Michigan Republican—Healthy replacement for Bartel Jonkman, who was one of the most backward of the Eightieth Congress. Just married, with a new home and a new job, Ford will be a mighty busy Congressman . . . Thurman Crook, Democrat, of South Bend, Ind.—Known as the only "legalized crook" in Congress, he comes to Washington after 35 years as a high school teacher. Will work for better educational benefits.

New Southern solons: Thurmond Chatham, North Carolina—Wealthy manufacturer of blankets, tweeds and textiles (Chatham Mills), with outstanding war record in submarine service. Open-minded on major issues . . . Charles Bennett, Jacksonville, Fla.—A 38-year-old attorney who's proud the real estate lobby fought him. Led troops behind Jap lines during the Philippine invasion—until stricken with polio. Still fighting . . . Syd Herlong, Florida—Great Friend of the orange. Will steer middle-of-the-road course while squeezing last drop of political juice from his district's citrus crops . . . Carl Elliott, Jasper, Ala.—Successfully bucked local political machine with 129 speeches in 35 days—all pointing up need for improved rural housing and higher educational standards . . . Hugo Sims, South Carolina—Battled against real estate lobby, and will keep on battling. Among the top nominees for "young men of the Nation" selected by Junior Chamber of Commerce . . . John Golden, Kentucky—One of the few new Republicans elected in the South. Careful, conscientious.

The industrial East: Foster Furcolo, Massachusetts Democrat—Came up the hard way, washing dishes and waiting on table at Yale. Got a law degree, saw naval action in the Pacific, elected in a GOP district by fighting high prices and bad housing . . . Harry O'Neill, Pennsylvania Democrat—Son of a Scranton coal miner. Harry had 14 brothers and sisters, began life as a barber, switched to insurance, is a strong union man, will go down the line for the Fair Deal . . . Abraham Rubicoff. Connecticut Democrat—Gave up lucrative law practice to run for Congress. Handsome, intelligent, big vote-getter, will follow liberal line . . . John McGuire, Connecticut Democrat—Friendly, small-town insurance agent who's been undefeated in local and State elections. In his spare time, he'll boost Connecticut's new Governor, Chester Bowles, for the White House . . . Peter Rodino, Newark, N. J., Democrat—Fills the seat of Fred Hartley of Taft-Hartley Act fame, and has political views exactly the opposite . . . Hugh Addonizio, Newark, N. J., Democrat—May have the makings of a new Fiorello LaGuardia.

Rocky Mountain States—Wayne Aspinall, Colorado Democrat—Furious campaign through one of Nation's largest congressional districts. Crossed 16 mountain passes with elevations over 10,000 feet searching votes. Dyed-in-the-wool New Dealer, he'll see that the West is heard in Congress—if he has to do all the talking himself . . . John Marsalis, Pueblo, Colo., Democrat—Bachelor at 44, a staff sergeant in the war, he learned the GI side of the Army. Interested chiefly in reclamation and labor; will vote for straight repeal of Taft-Hartley . . . Reva Beck Bosone, Utah Democrat—Capable, charming; keen mind, was a good judge in Utah and should make a good Congresswoman . . . Walter Baring, Reno, Nev., Democrat—Won Nevada's solitary congressional seat by covering 30,000 miles of mountains and sagebrush in eight weeks. A mild-mannered, easy-going young Westerner, he'll support the Truman Fair Deal and work for development of his State's vast mineral wealth.

Southwest Congressmen: Harold Patton, Arizona Democrat—41-year-old life insurance executive. Son of railroad engineer, got help from both labor and business. Favors better treatment of stricken Navajo Indians . . . Miles of New Mexico—Former Democratic Governor of his State and an old hand at govern-bomber pilot and Congressman; even has a good-looking wife. If he doesn't get spoiled early, he should be good . . . Homer Thornberry, Austin, Tex.—Good replacement for Senator-elect Lyndon Johnson. Will battle for rural electrification and public power . . . Tom Steed, Shawnee, Okla., Democrat—Former editor of the Shawnee Morning News and Shawnee Evening Star, has served as secretary to three former Congressmen, knows Washington inside out, is slated to go far.
